Truman Collects Legislators' Letters To RFC But Finds No Evidence Of Illegal Influence

President Says He Will Send Material To Probing Senators At Their Request

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—President Truman stirred the wrath of investigating senators today when it was disclosed he had collected a file of letters written by congressmen to the RFC, but he later explained he found no evidence of 'illegal influence' on the huge lending agency.

Mr. Truman said he saw no reason to make the correspondence public since, he said, it did not show any illegality either on the part of the executive branch or legislators.

If the senators thought otherwise, he stated, "the material will be sent to the subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee at its request."

Thus ended a wild day of alarms and excursions on Capitol Hill.

It all started with a morning session of the subcommittee, which has charged that influence emanating from the White House had been exerted on lending policies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Interpreted As Counterattack

Senators on the subcommittee discovered that the President had ordered the mass of correspondence delivered to the White House. They immediately interpreted this as a counterattack against their investigation and got hopping mad.

Almost in a chorus they declared they refused to be intimidated.

It was disclosed that the President had in his possession between 700 and 900 letters from RFC files. Most of them are from congressmen, and some ask favorable consideration of loan applications. And among the correspondents are Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the subcommittee, and Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), a committee member.

While the cries of indignation were still echoing through Congress, the President issued a brief statement through his press secretary, Joseph Short, which said that the letters were requested in connection with a study of his plans for reorganization of the RFC. It did not explain exactly why they were needed in connection with that study.

Dawson's Wife Gathered Letters

Mr. Truman has proposed to abolish the five-man board of directors and put administration of the agency under a single head. He has also suggested additional safeguards with respect to loan policy.

Chairman Fulbright accused the RFC of planting reports that he had tried to influence an RFC loan.

When the subcommittee charged recently that political favoritism and influence has affected the RFC's policy in handing out millions of dollars in public money, President Truman brushed the charges off as asinine.

Among those accused of exercising influence on the agency was one of the president's aides, Donald Dawson.

Today's testimony brought to light that the congressional correspondence was gathered together by Dawson's wife, an employe of the RFC, and that it passed through Dawson's hands on its way to the presidential desk.

Caldwell Rules Out Building Of Large, Deep Raid Shelters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell announced today that no federal funds will be put into construction of big deep, community-type shelters.

Caldwell told a news conference that idea has definitely been abandoned because such a huge undertaking would be too slow and impossibly costly in money, materials, labor, time and effort.

"It would require $300,000,000,000 and all the labor and all the steel for the next several years—to the exclusion of the defense program and much else that is essential to life," he said.

Caldwell said chief reliance in civil defense will have to be placed on existing structures, which can be strengthened or adapted where necessary for shelter use.

Truman Ignores Report He May Run For Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — The White House kept silent today on reports that President Truman may run for his old Senate seat when his term expires Jan. 20, 1953.

But Attorney General McGrath appeared skeptical.

Emerging from a Cabinet meeting at the White House, McGrath was told of the reports circulating on Capitol Hill.

"Would you buy that?" a reporter asked.

McGrath smiled. "No," he said, and walked away.

White House Press Secretary Joseph Short said he had no comment.

However, old friends of Mr. Truman in Congress said he is seriously considering a return to the Senate where he spent 10 happy years. One Congress member, who declined to be quoted by name, but put it this way:

"If Harry Truman does what he really wants to do, he will run against Sen. Kem (R-Mo) in the 1952 election. He really loves the Senate."

Several White House callers have privately quoted the President as hinting he will not seek another term in the executive mansion. They say he sometimes talks nostalgically about returning to the Senate.

Johnson Returned To Senate

Mr. Truman will have served nearly eight years in the White House when his present term expires. He stepped up from the vice presidency on April 12, 1945, after the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Only one American president, Andrew Johnson of Tennessee, has ever been elected to the Senate after serving in the White House. Johnson, a former senator, was re-elected to the Senate in 1875 but died a few months later.

John Quincy Adams, the nation's sixth president, went from the White House to the House of Representatives and served almost 17 years there.

Truman Plans Long Rest At Key West, Fla.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — President Truman decided today to get away from some of the White House routine and take his first extended rest since the outbreak of the Korean war last June.

He will fly to the Key West, Fla., submarine base, his favorite spot for relaxing, next Friday to stay at least 23 days. It will be the first vsit to the "Summer White House" in a year.

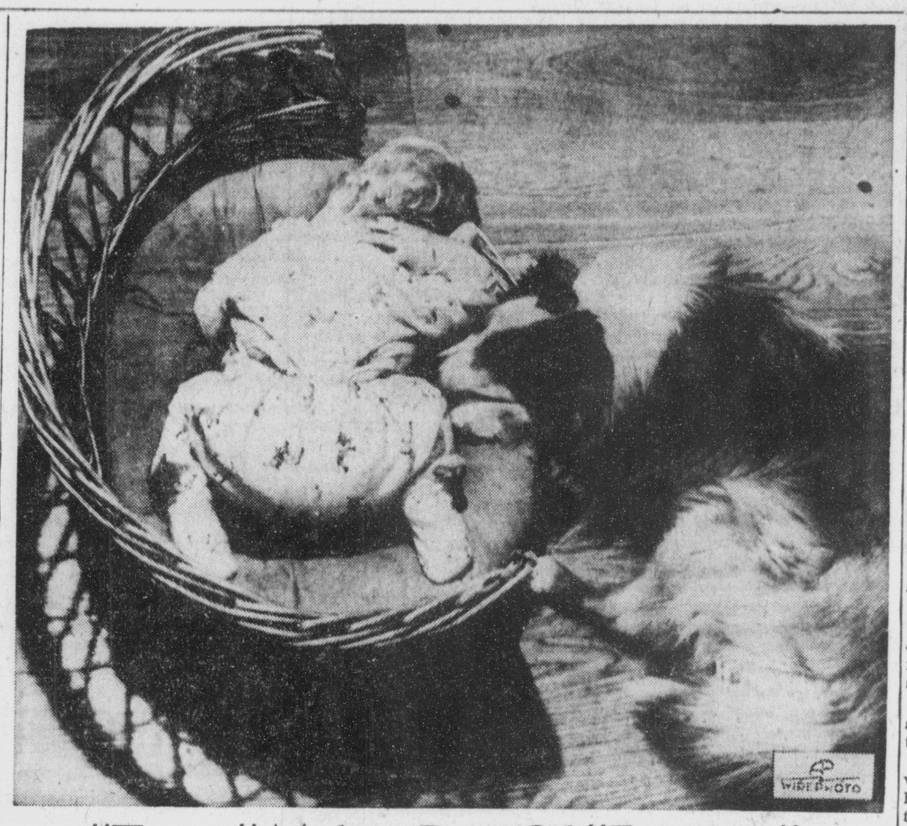
He will return to Washington in late March in time for the Latin-American foreign ministers conference and the visit of President Auriol of France.

Historic Flag-Raising On Iwo Commemorated

IWO JIMA, Feb. 2 (AP) — A simple ceremony today commemorated the historic, heart-stirring moment six years ago when U. S. Marines raised the American flag atop Mount Suribachi.

The Marines stormed Mount Suribachi's volcanic pile four days after they tackled thousands of Japanese in a landing on Iwo Jima Feb. 19, 1945.

As the leathernecks raised the flag, the scene was recorded by Joe Rosenthal, then an Associated Press photographer. The photograph became an Allied symbol of victory and was called the outstanding picture of World War II action.



"Tippy" Makes Best Of "Eviction"

Token Sales Are Ruled Out As Basis For Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — The government today ruled out "token" sales of meat and other items by manufacturers and wholesalers as the basis for fixing ceiling prices.

Ceiling prices now must be based on those which were charged for at least 10 per cent of the items.

Director Michael V. DiSalle of the Office of Price Stabilization said in a statement the action is designed to reduce the prices of some manufacturers and wholesalers "who are taking advantage of isolated sales before the freeze to establish abnormal ceiling prices for their goods and services."

May Help Retailers

Other stabilization officials told reporters they did not look for much change at the retail level as a result of the new order.

They said, however, that in some cases it might help relieve the "squeeze" on retailers who are paying abnormally high prices but must sell at no more than their highest prices between Dec. 19, 1950 and Jan. 25, 1951. They also said that complaints of price run-ups had come, particularly from the meat industry.

Under the general freeze order of Jan. 26, sellers' prices were set at the highest price they "delivered" goods and services during the base period.

Anticipated Freeze Order

"Some manufacturers have claimed ceilings at substantially higher prices than those which they were generally charging in the base period because of a few isolated sales," today's announcement said. It added that in some cases "there is reason to believe that sellers anticipated the freeze order by deliberately embarking on a policy of periodically making sales in small quantities at abnormally high prices in order to record transactions at prices which would prove advantageous if prices were frozen as of some earlier period."

Today's order is intended to correct this. "The "highest price" provision of the original order will apply to manufacturers and wholesalers only to sales which amounted to 10 per cent or more of all deliveries to one class of purchasers during the base period.

British Jet Lands At Andrews Field

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — A slick black jet bomber slid in to Andrews Air Base today after a 450-mile-an-hour flight from Gander, N. F., for a demonstration before top Air Force officials.

The plane was the English Electric Company's Canberra, first British jet bomber type. Tuesday it flew from Belfast, Ireland, to Gander to set a new speed mark for North Atlantic crossings of four hours 40 minutes.

Squadron Leader A. E. Callard, husky, mustachioed pilot of the Canberra, gave a brief show of high speed and slow speed passes over a crowd of military and British officials gathered at the air base. He had given a similar show at Gander after taking off, so that his total time from wheels up to landing was three hours and ten minutes for the 1,325-mile flight.

Senate To Speed Draft Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Senate administration leaders today decided to speed action on legislation for the drafting of 18-year-olds before settling the troops-for-Europe issue.

Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz.) told newsmen after a Democratic caucus that Senate debate on the manpower bill will start early next week, probably on Tuesday.

The bill, providing for a universal military service and training program, would grant restricted authority for drafting 18-year-olds. It would also extend the period of service from 21 to 26 months.

Previously, the Senate had planned to take up the controversial question of sending more U. S. troops to Europe before debating the draft.

But McFarland said the change in plans was decided on because the draft measure is ready while an administration-backed resolution on the troops-for-Europe issue has not yet been drawn up by Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

McFarland said he didn't expect any attempt to tie a troop-limitation rider onto the draft bill. He said he thought both Democrats and Republicans wanted to treat the two subjects as separate issues.

U. S. Ready To Try To Build Atomic Engine For Aircraft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The United States is now ready to try for actual construction of the world's first known atom-powered aircraft engine.

This was disclosed today, with Air Force permission, by a General Electric Company spokesman who told newsmen:

"Contractual negotiations are under way between General Electric and the Air Force for development of a nuclear power plant for aircraft.

"Subject to the successful completion of negotiations, it is expected that this activity will be carried on by the aircraft gas turbine (jet engine) division of the company at its Lockland, Ohio, plant."

The announcement came just 24 hours after the Air Force and the Atomic Energy Commission reported that after four years of intensive research, the first phase in the program to develop an atomic airplane has now been completed.

The initial phase centered chiefly on mathematical computations and theoretical possibilities — the groundwork for blueprints to build the first experimental model.

Stassen Urges Gls For Europe, Huge Air Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen today solidly backed the administration's troops-for-Europe policy and called for a mighty U. S. air fleet capable of smashing Russia's war potential.

Agreeing partly with both sides in the "Great Debate" over helping Western Europe, Stassen:

1. Strongly supported President Truman's claimed authority to send American troops overseas without congressional restrictions.

2. Advocated air power as of paramount importance in a five-point program which he said could lead to "victory without war."

Testifying before a crowded Senate hearing, Stassen spoke as lead-off man among the Republicans engaged in the troops-for-Europe controversy. Administration leaders, including Secretary of State Acheson and top military figures, have already had their say in weeks of testimony before a joint session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 1948 GOP presidential candidate, is scheduled to testify tomorrow. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and Wherry (R-Neb) will be heard next week, with former President Herbert Hoover as a possible later entry.

Stassen, who aspired to the GOP nomination in 1948, threw his support behind the Taft-Wherry-Hoover school of thought to the extent of urging a great buildup of American air power. The Truman program calls for an air power buildup, but some members of Congress and others contend not enough emphasis is being put on that aspect of defense.

Stassen championed the policy of the Truman administration in sending troop reinforcements to Europe, declaring:

"The program so ably presented by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for rearming Western Europe, including the use of American arms and men, (should) be given solid support.

"If America showed timidity and shortsightedness in refusing to back up Gen. Eisenhower, I believe the reaction right inside America would seriously undermine the stability and confidence in our own economy which is essential for all purposes."

Formosa Raid Alarm Spreads Excitement

TATTIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 23 (AP)—An air raid alarm, at first believed to be the real thing, spread excitement today in this city, which is preparing for Chinese Communist attacks expected with the arrival of good weather.

Radar detectors spotted the approach of unidentified planes flying toward this Chinese Nationalist island stronghold from the northwest, an air defense spokesman said.

Another government report said there were six planes and the radar eventually lost them. It was not known whether they were hostile.

Hints Pending Wage Formula To Be Revised

Increased Defense Budgets Indicated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson told the nation tonight that "nobody—I said nobody" is going to profiteer from the defense emergency without being prosecuted.

Wilson promised to recommend legislation to back up this pledge, made in his first address to the country on the progress of the gigantic mobilization program. His speech was broadcast nationwide.

It contained a possible hint that the government's proposed wage ceiling formula might yet be modified. Organized labor has bitterly assailed it as too low. He said:

"Wage policies are being modified again to conform with the best interest of the entire economy."

But there was no assurance this would satisfy labor unions in their heated demand for broad liberalization of the formula now before Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson for his decision.

18,000 Jet Engines A Month

The pending formula would have knocked out the Jan. 26 wage freeze and allowed wages to reach 10 per cent above the figures on Jan. 15, 1950. Labor wanted 12 per cent without counting indirect gains such as pensions and automatic cost of living increases.

A weekend announcement by Johnston was expected.

Wilson also disclosed:

1. The United States intends to expand jet engine production capacity to 18,000 a month. He did not give the present figure.

2. The United States will be asked for $150,000,000,000 extra for defense "in the next two or three years." Over a three-year period this would be about $100,000,000,000 more than the rate of defense appropriations before the Korean outbreak.

Also it apparently meant much greater future budgets than the $71,600,000,000 which President Truman already has asked for the 1951-52 fiscal year.

3. Production increases on such basic commodities as steel and aluminum will be so great that in two years — barring all-out war — the amounts available for civilian uses will be equal to what consumers received before the Korean war.

Sees Big Car Output

4. Automobile plants will produce more cars this year than they did in 1948 unless war breaks out—"and that is a lot of cars."

5. At the top of the defense build-up "we shall be ready for all-out war, or all-out peace."

The union leaders' violent attack on the mobilization setup as unfair to labor and dominated by big business drew no direct reply from Wilson.

On wage policy modification, Wilson did not elaborate.

Asked specifically whether he meant that Johnston would modify the wage formula, Wilson told reporters: "It doesn't mean that at all."

Earlier, Howard Chase, a spokesman for Wilson, told reporters the reference in the Wilson speech meant that Johnston was going to modify the formula and was probably going to announce it by Sunday.

To combat inflation Wilson advocated:

1. Stricter credit restrictions.
2. Higher taxes.
3. Elimination of inequities in the "stopgap" price and wage freeze orders of January 26.
4. Solution of the problem of controlling food prices.
5. "A fiscal policy that discourages inflation."
6. The promised legislative recommendations, which he did not forecast in detail, to prevent profiteering and "chiseling."

Total Communist Casualties Reach Estimated 624,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Total Communist casualties in Korea reached an estimated 624,000 on Feb. 20, the Army reported today.

The breakdown of all enemy losses for eight months of fighting shows that the Chinese Reds lost an estimated 185,000 killed and wounded and about 21,000 from disease, accidents and cold weather afflictions such as frostbite, making total Chinese casualties 206,000.

The North Korean forces have lost a total of 418,000 men since June 25, the Army calculated. This casualty figure is made up of an estimated 242,000 killed and wounded, 40,000 non-battle casualties and 136,000 prisoners of war.

Total American casualties announced through Feb. 16 were 49,132.

U.N. Good Offices Committee Sends Feeler To China

Hopes To Arrange Peace Discussions

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 23 (AP)—The U. N. Good Offices Committee is using every available diplomatic channel to see whether Communist China will change its mind and negotiate on peace in Korea. This was disclosed today by a spokesman for the committee chairman, Nasrollah Entezam, who is awaiting Peiping's reply to the first tentative feeler.

Swedish channels in Stockholm and Peiping were used for the first efforts by the committee which was established by the General Assembly on Feb. 1, it was reported. Sweden is one of the few non-Communist countries which recognized Red China and Sweden's delegate, Sven Graftstrom, is a member of the committee, along with Luis Padilla Nervo, Mexico.

Red China denounced the committee at the time it was created and indicated it would not deal with it. The main purpose of the Good Offices Committee's first approach to Peiping is to see whether the Red Chinese really meant it.

Entezam's spokesman made his disclosure after diplomatic quarters had said the Good Offices Committee sent its feeler earlier this week through Swedish channels.

The three committee members have undertaken their talks and plans in secrecy and have studiously avoided talking about them. The last time the three were known to have met formally was on Monday.

Top Reds Warn "Imperialists"

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Two Soviet marshals, Vassily D. Sokolovsky and Ivan S. Konev, declared today Russia's armed forces would smash "imperialism" in any new world war.

The Moscow radio broadcast articles by them in Izvestia and Pravda on this 33rd anniversary of the founding of the Soviet army and navy.

Sokokovsky said in the government paper Izvestia that any imperialist power "which encroaches upon the honor and independence of the Soviet state will be ignominiously defeated by the Soviet armed forces."

Konev, in the Communist paper Pravda, said the United States "imperialists should understand that the times of unbridled and unhindered colonial conquest and robbery of other countries are long and irrevocably past."

Boy, 10, Doomed By Cancer Poses Unanswerable Query

McLEANSBORO, Ill., Feb. 23 (INS) — Ten-year-old Donald Redfearn, who is apparently hopelessly ill of bone cancer, looked up from his hospital bed in McLeansboro, Ill., today and posed an unanswerable question for his mother.

"Mama," said Donald, "I don't want to die but do you think God will let me play cowboy when I get to heaven?"

His mother pressed her blond son's thin hand and did not reply.

Donald had been seriously ill of the dread ailment for the past 18 months. Physicians say he may die at any time before his eleventh birthday May 24.

Before he became bed-ridden, he sang and played the piano and mellohorn. He liked to play baseball, to read comic books and to listen to hillbilly music.

Most of all, he liked to play cowboy.

His mother says his only relaxation now is molding clay figures as he lies in bed.

Donald's father, Harry E. Redfern, is a $2,150-a-year schoolteacher in McLeansboro.

Reds Expected To Make Stand In Mountains

U. N. Forces Close In On Hoengsong

TOKYO, Saturday, Feb. 24 (AP)—Battling Chinese and North Korean Reds gave ground slowly today in Central Korea under the weight of a 100,000 man Allied offensive.

Supplied by C-119 "Flying Boxcars," mud-wading troops of six nations had scaled the last hill overlooking Hoengsong and advanced east and west of that vital highway hub.

A dispatch from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Reds still were withdrawing on the fourth day of the new Allied offensive but were expected to make a stand in the mountains beyond Hoengsong.

Communiques of both the Eighth Army and Gen. MacArthur stressed heavy enemy resistance.

West of war-wrecked Hoengsong, an enemy battalion unleashed a counterattack this morning against South Koreans. The enemy struck behind a Red mortar barrage. The result was not disclosed.

35 Miles From Parallel

Between Hoengsong and Chipyong, 20 miles west, British and Canadian soldiers found it slow going against a hard-fighting foe. But northeast of Chipyong, U. S. troops advanced five miles beyond the town to a point less than 35 miles from the 38th parallel.

Twenty-five miles east of Hoengsong, Allied troops moved north from reoccupied Pyongchang, the enemy's abandoned eastern anchor. There was no mention of opposition.

Latest reports from Eighth Army headquarters said there were indications the Reds may make their big stand somewhere on a line running from north of Hoengsong westward to the Chipyong sector.

Previously there were signs that a 15,000-man Red force was prepared to stand or die at Hoengsong.

Such a line would defend Hongchon, a vital Red assembly point and road junction 15 miles northwest of Hoengsong.

Drive To Kill Reds

Allied officers have emphasized that the primary objective of the drive is not to seize territory but to find and kill Reds. But advances Friday were up to eight miles, MacArthur's communique said.

Friday, for the second straight day, the estimate of Red casualties was under 1,000.

Twenty-five miles east of Hoengsong, an American column raced four miles north of Pyongchang, straddling a vital road.

West of Hoengsong, Canadians of the Princess Pat Regiment had an all-day firefight with two enemy battalions as the Canadian battalion spearheaded the action in the British commonwealth area.

Still farther west, along the Hukchon River valley northeast of Chipyong, Americans patrolled deep in Red teritory without contacting the Chinese. Other such Allied patrols met small-arms and automatic weapons fire, however.

The whole United Nations front was within 35 miles south of the 38th parallel, onetime boundary of North and South Korea.

Before Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Eighth Army forces could reach that elusive line, they would have to comb over 5,250 square miles of rocks, cliffs, steep hills and mid-sloppy mountain roads to kill unknown numbers of Chinese and Korean Reds.

Bloody Chinese Purge Forecast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — State Department officials believe China's Communist leaders are about to undertake large-scale, bloody purges to consolidate their iron hold over the country.

That was the interpretation generally placed here today on a Peiping announcement broadcast yesterday. The broadcast, as picked up in Hong Kong, disclosed that Red leaders had ordered the death penalty for any acts which might be construed as "opposition" to the regime.

Information which is credited by government experts here is that there has been considerable resistance in China to the Red regime since it took over. However, according to this information, resistance has been for the most part spotty and localized.

American officials say they are unaware of any fighting that even begins to approach civil war. Resistance is attributed more to isolated guerrilla groups loyal to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek on Formosa, to bandits of the kind traditionally found in China or to persons who preferred underground independence to subservience to the Communists.

Truman Collects Legislators' Letters To RFC But Finds No Evidence Of Illegal Influence

The plane was the English Electric Company's Canberra, first British jet bomber type. Tuesday it flew from Belfast, Ireland, to Gander to set a new speed mark for North Atlantic crossings of four hours 40 minutes.

Squadron Leader A. E. Callard, husky, mustachioed pilot of the Canberra, gave a brief show of high speed and slow speed passes over a crowd of military and British officials gathered at the air base. He had given a similar show at Gander after taking off, so that his total time from wheels up to landing was three hours and ten minutes for the 1,325-mile flight.

Senate To Speed Draft Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Senate administration leaders today decided to speed action on legislation for the drafting of 18-year-olds before settling the troops-for-Europe issue.

Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz.) told newsmen after a Democratic caucus that Senate debate on the manpower bill will start early next week, probably on Tuesday.

The bill, providing for a universal military service and training program, would grant restricted authority for drafting 18-year-olds. It would also extend the period of service from 21 to 26 months.

Previously, the Senate had planned to take up the controversial question of sending more U. S. troops to Europe before debating the draft.

But McFarland said the change in plans was decided on because the draft measure is ready while an administration-backed resolution on the troops-for-Europe issue has not yet been drawn up by Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

McFarland said he didn't expect any attempt to tie a troop-limitation rider onto the draft bill. He said he thought both Democrats and Republicans wanted to treat the two subjects as separate issues.

Historic Flag-Raising On Iwo Commemorated

IWO JIMA, Feb. 2 (AP) — A simple ceremony today commemorated the historic, heart-stirring moment six years ago when U. S. Marines raised the American flag atop Mount Suribachi.

The Marines stormed Mount Suribachi's volcanic pile four days after they tackled thousands of Japanese in a landing on Iwo Jima Feb. 19, 1945.

As the leathernecks raised the flag, the scene was recorded by Joe Rosenthal, then an Associated Press photographer. The photograph became an Allied symbol of victory and was called the outstanding picture of World War II action.

U. S. Ready To Try To Build Atomic Engine For Aircraft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The United States is now ready to try for actual construction of the world's first known atom-powered aircraft engine.

This was disclosed today, with Air Force permission, by a General Electric Company spokesman who told newsmen:

"Contractual negotiations are under way between General Electric and the Air Force for development of a nuclear power plant for aircraft.

"Subject to the successful completion of negotiations, it is expected that this activity will be carried on by the aircraft gas turbine (jet engine) division of the company at its Lockland, Ohio, plant."

The announcement came just 24 hours after the Air Force and the Atomic Energy Commission reported that after four years of intensive research, the first phase in the program to develop an atomic airplane has now been completed.

The initial phase centered chiefly on mathematical computations and theoretical possibilities — the groundwork for blueprints to build the first experimental model.

Husband, Wife Reenlist

ATLANTA, Feb. 23 (AP) — A couple of ex-GIs walked into the Atlanta induction station today and reenlisted. They are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Holt, Trion, Ga., husband and wife for 14 years.

Stassen Urges GIs For Europe, Huge Air Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen today solidly backed the administration's troops-for-Europe policy and called for a mighty U. S. air fleet capable of smashing Russia's war potential.

Agreeing partly with both sides in the "Great Debate" over helping Western Europe, Stassen:

1. Strongly supported President Truman's claimed authority to send American troops overseas without congressional restrictions.

2. Advocated air power as of paramount importance in a five-point program which he said could lead to "victory without war."

Testifying before a crowded Senate hearing, Stassen spoke as lead-off man among the Republicans engaged in the troops-for-Europe controversy. Administration leaders, including Secretary of State Acheson and top military figures, have already had their say in weeks of testimony before a joint session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 1948 GOP presidential candidate, is scheduled to testify tomorrow. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and Wherry (R-Neb) will be heard next week, with former President Herbert Hoover as a possible later entry.

Stassen, who aspired to the GOP nomination in 1948, threw his support behind the Taft-Wherry-Hoover school of thought to the extent of urging a great buildup of American air power. The Truman program calls for an air power buildup, but some members of Congress and others contend not enough emphasis is being put on that aspect of defense.

Stassen championed the policy of the Truman administration in sending troop reinforcements to Europe, declaring:

"The program so ably presented by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for rearming Western Europe, including the use of American arms and men, (should) be given solid support.

"If America showed timidity and shortsightedness in refusing to back up Gen. Eisenhower, I believe the reaction right inside America would seriously undermine the stability and confidence in our own economy which is essential for all purposes."

Formosa Raid Alarm Spreads Excitement

TATTIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 23 (AP)—An air raid alarm, at first believed to be the real thing, spread excitement today in this city, which is preparing for Chinese Communist attacks expected with the arrival of good weather.

Radar detectors spotted the approach of unidentified planes flying toward this Chinese Nationalist island stronghold from the northwest, an air defense spokesman said.

Another government report said there were six planes and the radar eventually lost them. It was not known whether they were hostile.

Hints Pending Wage Formula To Be Revised

Increased Defense Budgets Indicated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson told the nation tonight that "nobody—I said nobody" is going to profiteer from the defense emergency without being prosecuted.

Wilson promised to recommend legislation to back up this pledge, made in his first address to the country on the progress of the gigantic mobilization program. His speech was broadcast nationwide.

It contained a possible hint that the government's proposed wage ceiling formula might yet be modified. Organized labor has bitterly assailed it as too low. He said:

"Wage policies are being modified again to conform with the best interest of the entire economy."

But there was no assurance this would satisfy labor unions in their heated demand for broad liberalization of the formula now before Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson for his decision.

18,000 Jet Engines A Month

The pending formula would have knocked out the Jan. 26 wage freeze and allowed wages to reach 10 per cent above the figures on Jan. 15, 1950. Labor wanted 12 per cent without counting indirect gains such as pensions and automatic cost of living increases.

A weekend announcement by Johnston was expected.

Wilson also disclosed:

1. The United States intends to expand jet engine production capacity to 18,000 a month. He did not give the present figure.

2. The United States will be asked for $150,000,000,000 extra for defense "in the next two or three years." Over a three-year period this would be about $100,000,000,000 more than the rate of defense appropriations before the Korean outbreak.

Also it apparently meant much greater future budgets than the $71,600,000,000 which President Truman already has asked for the 1951-52 fiscal year.

3. Production increases on such basic commodities as steel and aluminum will be so great that in two years — barring all-out war — the amounts available for civilian uses will be equal to what consumers received before the Korean war.

Sees Big Car Output

4. Automobile plants will produce more cars this year than they did in 1948 unless war breaks out—"and that is a lot of cars."

5. At the top of the defense buildup "we shall be ready for all-out war, or all-out peace."

The union leaders' violent attack on the mobilization setup as unfair to labor and dominated by big business drew no direct reply from Wilson.

On wage policy modification, Wilson did not elaborate.

Asked specifically whether he meant that Johnston would modify the wage formula, Wilson told reporters: "It doesn't mean that at all."

Earlier, Howard Chase, a spokesman for Wilson, told reporters the reference in the Wilson speech meant that Johnston was going to modify the formula and was probably going to announce it by Sunday.

To combat inflation Wilson advocated:

1. Stricter credit restrictions.
2. Higher taxes.
3. Elimination of inequities in the "stopgap" price and wage freeze orders of January 26.
4. Solution of the problem of controlling food prices.
5. "A fiscal policy that discourages inflation."
6. The promised legislative recommendations, which he did not forecast in detail, to prevent profiteering and "chiseling."

Total Communist Casualties Reach Estimated 624,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Total Communist casualties in Korea reached an estimated 624,000 on Feb. 20, the Army reported today.

The breakdown of all enemy losses for eight months of fighting shows that the Chinese Reds lost an estimated 185,000 killed and wounded and about 21,000 from disease, accidents and cold weather afflictions such as frostbite, making total Chinese casualties 206,000.

The North Korean forces have lost a total of 418,000 men since June 25, the Army calculated. This casualty figure is made up of an estimated 242,000 killed and wounded, 40,000 non-battle casualties and 136,000 prisoners of war.

Total American casualties announced through Feb. 16 were 49,132.

U.N. Good Offices Committee Sends Feeler To China

Hopes To Arrange Peace Discussions

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 23 (AP)—The U. N. Good Offices Committee is using every available diplomatic channel to see whether Communist China will change its mind and negotiate on peace in Korea. This was disclosed today by a spokesman for the committee chairman, Nasrollah Entezam, who is awaiting Peiping's reply to the first tentative feeler.

Swedish channels in Stockholm and Peiping were used for the first efforts by the committee which was established by the General Assembly on Feb. 1, it was reported. Sweden is one of the few non-Communist countries which recognized Red China and Sweden's delegate, Sven Graftstrom, is a member of the committee, along with Luis Padilla Nervo, Mexico.

Red China denounced the committee at the time it was created and indicated it would not deal with it. The main purpose of the Good Offices Committee's first approach to Peiping is to see whether the Red Chinese really meant it.

Entezam's spokesman made his disclosure after diplomatic quarters had said the Good Offices Committee sent its feeler earlier this week through Swedish channels.

The three committee members have undertaken their talks and plans in secrecy and have studiously avoided talking about them. The last time the three were known to have met formally was on Monday.

Top Reds Warn "Imperialists"

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Two Soviet marshals, Vassily D. Sokolovsky and Ivan S. Konev, declared today Russia's armed forces would smash "imperialism" in any new world war.

The Moscow radio broadcast articles by them in Izvestia and Pravda on this 33rd anniversary of the founding of the Soviet army and navy.

Sokokovsky said in the government paper Izvestia that any imperialist power "which encroaches upon the honor and independence of the Soviet state will be ignominiously defeated by the Soviet armed forces."

Konev, in the Communist paper Pravda, said the United States "imperialists should understand that the times of unbridled and unhindered colonial conquest and robbery of other countries are long and irrevocably past."

Boy, 10, Doomed By Cancer Poses Unanswerable Query

McLEANSBORO, Ill., Feb. 23 (INS) — Ten-year-old Donald Redfearn, who is apparently hopelessly ill of bone cancer, looked up from his hospital bed in McLeansboro, Ill., today and posed an unanswerable question for his mother.

"Mama," said Donald, "I don't want to die but do you think God will let me play cowboy when I get to heaven?"

His mother pressed her blond son's thin hand and did not reply.

Donald had been seriously ill of the dread ailment for the past 18 months. Physicians say he may die at any time before his eleventh birthday May 24.

Before he became bed-ridden, he sang and played the piano and mellohorn. He liked to play baseball, to read comic books and to listen to hillbilly music.

Most of all, he liked to play cowboy.

His mother says his only relaxation now is molding clay figures as he lies in bed.

Donald's father, Harry E. Redfern, is a $2,150-a-year schoolteacher in McLeansboro.

Reds Expected To Make Stand In Mountains

U. N. Forces Close In On Hoengsong

TOKYO, Saturday, Feb. 24 (AP)—Battling Chinese and North Korean Reds gave ground slowly today in Central Korea under the weight of a 100,000 man Allied offensive.

Supplied by C-119 "Flying Boxcars," mud-wading troops of six nations had scaled the last hill overlooking Hoengsong and advanced east and west of that vital highway hub.

A dispatch from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Reds still were withdrawing on the fourth day of the new Allied offensive but were expected to make a stand in the mountains beyond Hoengsong.

Communiques of both the Eighth Army and Gen. MacArthur stressed heavy enemy resistance.

West of war-wrecked Hoengsong, an enemy battalion unleashed a counterattack this morning against South Koreans. The enemy struck behind a Red mortar barrage. The result was not disclosed.

35 Miles From Parallel

Between Hoengsong and Chipyong, 20 miles west, British and Canadian soldiers found it slow going against a hard-fighting foe. But northeast of Chipyong, U. S. troops advanced five miles beyond the town to a point less than 35 miles from the 38th parallel.

Twenty-five miles east of Hoengsong, Allied troops moved north from reoccupied Pyongchang, the enemy's abandoned eastern anchor. There was no mention of opposition.

Latest reports from Eighth Army headquarters said there were indications the Reds may make their big stand somewhere on a line running from north of Hoengsong westward to the Chipyong sector.

Previously there were signs that a 15,000-man Red force was prepared to stand or die at Hoengsong.

Such a line would defend Hongchon, a vital Red assembly point and road junction 15 miles northwest of Hoengsong.

Drive To Kill Reds

Allied officers have emphasized that the primary objective of the drive is not to seize territory but to find and kill Reds. But advances Friday were up to eight miles, MacArthur's communique said.

Friday, for the second straight day, the estimate of Red casualties was under 1,000.

Twenty-five miles east of Hoengsong, an American column raced four miles north of Pyongchang, straddling a vital road.

West of Hoengsong, Canadians of the Princess Pat Regiment had an all-day firefight with two enemy battalions as the Canadian battalion spearheaded the action in the British commonwealth area.

Still farther west, along the Hukchon River valley northeast of Chipyong, Americans patrolled deep in Red teritory without contacting the Chinese. Other such Allied patrols met small-arms and automatic weapons fire, however.

The whole United Nations front was within 35 miles south of the 38th parallel, onetime boundary of North and South Korea.

Before Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Eighth Army forces could reach that elusive line, they would have to comb over 5,250 square miles of rocks, cliffs, steep hills and mid-sloppy mountain roads to kill unknown numbers of Chinese and Korean Reds.

Bloody Chinese Purge Forecast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — State Department officials believe China's Communist leaders are about to undertake large-scale, bloody purges to consolidate their iron hold over the country.

That was the interpretation generally placed here today on a Peiping announcement broadcast yesterday. The broadcast, as picked up in Hong Kong, disclosed that Red leaders had ordered the death penalty for any acts which might be construed as "opposition" to the regime.

Information which is credited by government experts here is that there has been considerable resistance in China to the Red regime since it took over. However, according to this information, resistance has been for the most part spotty and localized.

American officials say they are unaware of any fighting that even begins to approach civil war. Resistance is attributed more to isolated guerrilla groups loyal to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek on Formosa, to bandits of the kind traditionally found in China or to persons who preferred underground independence to subservience to the Communists.

28 Nominated For Peace Prize

OSLO, Feb. 23 (INS)—U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and a number of Americans, including former Chicago University President Robert M. Hutchins, were among 28 individuals nominated today for the 1951 Nobel peace prize.

The Norwegian Parliamentary Committee said Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and British Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross were candidates for the award to be given next September.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, American U. N. mediator who helped end the Palestine fighting, received the 1950 peace prize.

Besides Hutchins, an associate director of the Ford Foundation, these other Americans are among the nominees:

Frank Buchman, Washington, D. C., leader of the moral rearmament movement; H. C. Honegger, founder of the Pestalozzi Foundation in New York; Manley O. Hudson, Harvard Law School professor and world peace movement figure; Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the Supreme Court; and Prof. Raphael Lemkin, Polish-born Yale professor of international law who wrote the U. N. anti-genocide (anti-mass murder) pact.

Other Americans named were Ewing Cockrell, Warrensburg, Mo., a lawyer who compiled a declaration of ten fundamental peace policies approved by 65 government and business leaders in 1946, and Charles Cheney Hyde of New York, an international lawyer who is a native of Chicago.

Resolution Proposes Sale Of State Yacht

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Sale of the state yacht will be proposed in a resolution being prepared by two Eastern Shore senators.

Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester) and Shehan (D-Talbot) said today they will sponsor the resolution and plan to introduce it early next week.

The resolution would direct the Board of Public Works to sell the yacht Potomac which costs $60,000 a year to operate. Besides being for the use of the governor, the 160-foot vessel is listed as flagship of the conservation fleet. The money to run it comes from the Tidewater Fisheries Department.

Six Pallbearers To Retrace Steps

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Feb. 23 (AP)—Six pallbearers will retrace their steps Sunday.

Thursday they bore Nelson C. Robinson, 48 to his grave at nearby Front Royal, Va., after he had died at his home here Sunday of a sudden heart attack.

Wednesday evening, Robinson's father, Robert Walter Robinson, died at 77 after a lingering illness.

The same pallbearers, all nephews of the father, will carry him to a grave in the same cemetery.

Church Doesn't Expect Soviets To Enter War

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. John H. Church said today United Nations forces won't be pushed out of Korea unless Russia starts an all-out offensive of her own—and that possibility is very remote.

"The Russians are letting somebody else do their dirty work and are staying clear of actual war," said the man who commanded the badly outnumbered U. S. 24th Infantry Division during the early, anxious days of the Korean campaign.

Church visited his home here before leaving tomorrow for his new assignment as commander of the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga.

Progressive Appeals To Supreme Court

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Thelma Gerende, Baltimore Progressive whose plea that she be allowed to run for city councilman without signing the loyalty oath was rejected, is appealing to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Court of Appeals signed the order allowing the appeal today. Some of the appeal papers have already been received, others are expected momentarily. The appeal should be delivered to the Supreme Court on Monday.

Case Of Sticky Broker Probed By Authorities

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23 (AP)—Treading lightly, officers today delved deeper into the sticky case of the real estate broker who was syruped and feathered.

They are looking for three men who, Charles S. Smith, 49, said held him captive for 48 hours, then gave him the corn syrup and feathers treatment, even adding a few handfuls of sawdust.

Deputies, lacking any gooey finger or footprints, said Smith related that he was knocked out, abducted and robbed of $1,600.

There was no doubt about Smith's condition when deputies found him. He was wearing only his wedding ring and the very sticky coat of vegetable by-products.

A baby was born every eight seconds in the United States during 1947—3,900,000 in all.

Teachers Asked To Present Tax Plan To Meet Proposed Pay Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Senate Democrats asked school teachers today how they think the state could raise money to give them pay increases.

Chairman Turner (D-Queen Anne's) said the majority's steering committee would not consider boosting salaries until teachers themselves or the Department of Education presents a tax program.

"We are making no commitments pending receipt of the other half of their program, the tax portion, to provide a complete package for consideration," Turner said.

Nor will the seven-member committee take a position on teacher pay scales until the status of Gov. McKeldin's $160,000,000 primary budget recommendation is clear.

Earlier this week McKeldin bluntly announced his "firm opposition" to the Department of Education's bid for $500 raises for the state's 13,000 teachers and a huge outlay for construction. Its request would cost some $45,000,000.

"We will do nothing until the Finance Committee advises us about progress of the budget," Turner said.

He disclosed that Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the State Teachers' Association, and several colleagues delivered a "compromise" program to Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) on Wednesday.

In a two-hour meeting this afternoon, the committee also endorsed generally five measures prepared by the Maryland Classified Employes Association to give state troopers a $300 pay raise and lesser benefits to retired state employes, sanatoria personnel and reformatory guards.

The Senate Finance Committee meanwhile reconsidered its decision of last week to promote a straight 2.33 per cent income tax rate. Suggested by Sen. Barton (D-Balto. 1st), the flat rate would replace a 2 per cent charge of earned income and five per cent on most income from investments and pensions.

Banjamin F. Marsh, chief auditor of the income tax division, estimated that on the basis of 1949 figures the straight rate would increase returns about $50,000 a year. A 2.5 per cent levy would bring in an additional $1,000,000.

The committee retracted its earlier favorable vote and asked marsh to bring in more data.

The House decided it is better to spell out in the statutes when and how much game and fish may be taken by sportsmen, despite the fact that the Game and Inland Fish Commission has had the power for 12 years to set the open seasons and bag and creek limits.

The delegates voted down three measures to remove the statutory provisions.

In 1949, 1,000 million passengers were carried on British railways without a single fatality.

$16.4 Billion Obligated For Military Purposes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Defense Department said today $4,400,000,000 was obligated for major military purposes during January.

The January figure raised the total for the seven months beginning last July to $16,400,000,000 out of a total of $31,800,000,000 budgeted for all military procurement and construction during the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

Bookie Says Business Grossed Millions

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23 (AP)—A member of a group charged with conducting a nationwide betting business by telegraph told the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that his business had grossed as much as four or five million dollars annually.

Sidney Wyman, the witness, testified from the stand that the business grossed about $1,000,000 during its best year.

Later Attorney Morris Shenker told officials of the committee that upon reconsideration his client, Wyman, wanted to go on record as saying the business grosses four or five million dollars a year.

Case Of Sticky Broker Probed By Authorities

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23 (AP)—Treading lightly, officers today delved deeper into the sticky case of the real estate broker who was syruped and feathered.

They are looking for three men who, Charles S. Smith, 49, said held him captive for 48 hours, then gave him the corn syrup and feathers treatment, even adding a few handfuls of sawdust.

Deputies, lacking any gooey finger or footprints, said Smith related that he was knocked out, abducted and robbed of $1,600.

There was no doubt about Smith's condition when deputies found him. He was wearing only his wedding ring and the very sticky coat of vegetable by-products.

Teachers Asked To Present Tax Plan To Meet Proposed Pay Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Senate Democrats asked school teachers today how they think the state could raise money to give them pay increases.

Chairman Turner (D-Queen Anne's) said the majority's steering committee would not consider boosting salaries until teachers themselves or the Department of Education presents a tax program.

"We are making no commitments pending receipt of the other half of their program, the tax portion, to provide a complete package for consideration," Turner said.

Nor will the seven-member committee take a position on teacher pay scales until the status of Gov. McKeldin's $160,000,000 primary budget recommendation is clear.

Earlier this week McKeldin bluntly announced his "firm opposition" to the Department of Education's bid for $500 raises for the state's 13,000 teachers and a huge outlay for construction. Its request would cost some $45,000,000.

"We will do nothing until the Finance Committee advises us about progress of the budget," Turner said.

He disclosed that Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the State Teachers' Association, and several colleagues delivered a "compromise" program to Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) on Wednesday.

In a two-hour meeting this afternoon, the committee also endorsed generally five measures prepared by the Maryland Classified Employes Association to give state troopers a $300 pay raise and lesser benefits to retired state employes, sanatoria personnel and reformatory guards.

The Senate Finance Committee meanwhile reconsidered its decision of last week to promote a straight 2.33 per cent income tax rate. Suggested by Sen. Barton (D-Balto. 1st), the flat rate would replace a 2 per cent charge of earned income and five per cent on most income from investments and pensions.

Banjamin F. Marsh, chief auditor of the income tax division, estimated that on the basis of 1949 figures the straight rate would increase returns about $50,000 a year. A 2.5 per cent levy would bring in an additional $1,000,000.

The committee retracted its earlier favorable vote and asked marsh to bring in more data.

The House decided it is better to spell out in the statutes when and how much game and fish may be taken by sportsmen, despite the fact that the Game and Inland Fish Commission has had the power for 12 years to set the open seasons and bag and creek limits.

The delegates voted down three measures to remove the statutory provisions.

$16.4 Billion Obligated For Military Purposes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Defense Department said today $4,400,000,000 was obligated for major military purposes during January.

The January figure raised the total for the seven months beginning last July to $16,400,000,000 out of a total of $31,800,000,000 budgeted for all military procurement and construction during the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

Bookie Says Business Grossed Millions

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23 (AP)—A member of a group charged with conducting a nationwide betting business by telegraph told the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that his business had grossed as much as four or five million dollars annually.

Sidney Wyman, the witness, testified from the stand that the business grossed about $1,000,000 during its best year.

Later Attorney Morris Shenker told officials of the committee that upon reconsideration his client, Wyman, wanted to go on record as saying the business grosses four or five million dollars a year.

Women In War Service

Officials of women's political and civic organizations and presidents of women's colleges will discuss the contribution of women to the whole national emergency program at a conference in Washington in the spring. Women will not be drafted for military service, according to Dr. Esther B. Strong, representative of women's interests as a staff member of the Defense Department's personnel policy board.

"Women will be recruited on a voluntary basis," Dr. Strong told a group of college women February 15. "They will serve in jobs where, as women, they can render most effective service, in nursing, in communications, and other necessary duties." On January 12 Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg had told a Senate committee that the armed forces could use twice as many women as the number now authorized.

The Women's Armed Services Integration Act of 1948, which gave the WACS, WAVES, and WAFS the same status as men in uniform, also limited the strength of the women's branches to two per cent of armed forces personnel. The 27,000 women in the services in December, 1950, represented 1.3 per cent of all persons in the services, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. Women in the armed forces at the end of World War II totaled about 275,000, slightly more than two per cent.

In World War II women were at first assigned to "only the simplest and least responsible tasks," according to Dorothy C. Stratton, who directed the SPARS. The first volunteers, Miss Stratton recalls, "met a triple test: learning new jobs, proving that they could do those jobs without special favors, and convincing their families and the public that they were rendering an essential service." In a national emergency, Miss Stratton declares, "it is hardly realistic to suppose that it would be possible to recruit women in sufficient numbers solely by voluntary enlistment."

Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, World War II commander of the WAVES, on February 10 advocated drafting women for military service. Mrs. Horton called for universal registration of youth "to discover the skills, resources, aptitudes and interests of the total age group and select the people who can do the work which needs to be done, with the least disruption of our economy."

The Air Force has announced that in all-out mobilization it could efficiently use women up to 10 per cent of its strength. In addition to numerical limitations, WAVES are at present forbidden foreign duty. On the latter limitation, the Louisville Courier-Journal has commented: "WACS . . . braved death and what is sometimes referred to as worse than death without any noticeable breakdown either in morale or morals, and we have no reason to conclude that their Navy counterparts cannot do as well."

It was not until 1942, some six months after the U. S. had entered World War II, that Congress authorized the service of women as auxiliaries—first in the Army and then in the Navy and Marines. Women were made part of the regular forces on July 1, 1943, but not until 1944 were WAVES allowed to serve abroad.

U. S. Losses Of Gold

The flow of more than $2 billion in gold from the United States in the past calendar year is explained by the Treasury Department as reflecting both a shift in the U. S. export-import ration and the improved position of Great Britain and France in gold and dollar reserves. U. S. gold assets on February 8, 1951, were $22,310,143,772, as compared to $24,344,434,541 on February 8, 1950.

The one-day loss of gold on February 7, 1951, was $31,106,852. In the week ended February 7, foreign nations withdraw $51 million in gold from the U. S.

Treasury figures on U. S. gold assets began to show a loss in January, 1950, after a year-end high for 1949 of $24,427 million. Withdrawals in July, 1951, totaled almost $510 million.

The flow of gold away from the U. S. reverses a trend that has caused economists serious concern as recently as the summer of 1949. Britain's gold and dollar reserves dropped by $260 million in the second quarter of 1949. In September, 1949, Britain devalued the pound sterling from $4.03 to $2.80, following talks between Sir Stafford Cripps and U. S. Treasury Secretary Snyder and a meeting of directors of the International Monetary Fund. In August, 1950, France devalued the gold reserve of the Bank of France and made official the "free market" rate of 349.6 francs to the dollar.

In the four years from July 1, 1945, to June 30, 1949, U. S. exports amounted to almost twice as much, in dollar values, as imports. Exports for that period were $67,100 million, as compared to $35,268 million in imports. This imbalance resulted in a flow of gold to the U. S. of more than $4 billion from the end of 1945 to the end of 1950. Unable to find the dollars with which to pay for purchases in the U. S., foreign governments were sacrificing gold reserves for that purpose.

Prior to the devaluation of the pound, Anthony Eden, former British Foreign Secretary, had suggested that the U. S. either release some of its gold stored at Fort Knox or increase the official price of gold above $35 an ounce. According to Eden, gold itself or the "profits" resulting from revaluation could be donated to European governments—to relieve their dollar shortages and thus redress the imbalance of trade. Profits accruing from the upward revaluation of gold by the U. S. by $10 an ounce would have amounted to $7,031 million.

Throughout 1950 U. S. imports were slowly catching up with exports. In August and again in October, 1950, U. S. imports actually overbalanced exports, in the latter month of almost $31 million. During 1949 U. S. exports ($12,041 million) had been almost double U. S. imports ($6,622 million).

Treasury officials find U. S. gold losses natural from U. S. payment for purchases abroad in gold and from the devaluations of currency by Britain, France, and other countries. But the Treasury will not comment on reports that the Bank of France has recently been buying gold from the U. S. reserve at the pegged rate of $35 and selling the gold for dollars on the free market at $42 an ounce. Gold bars bearing Russian markings have been reported selling on the free market at the $42-per-ounce rate.

Most persons don't know where the world is going and have concluded the only thing they can do is just hang on for the ride.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Inflamed Larynx

WHEN a cold spreads to the vocal cords the voice becomes rough and rasping in character. Hoarseness is part of the respiratory infection and demands the same amount of care. In most instances there is no need for concern because the disturbance will disappear within two or three days.

Ordinarily the larynx is too deep in the throat to be treated locally. As a result, physicians rarely paint the structure or suggest a gargle when simple infection exists. Inhaling steam containing tincture of benjoin helps because the moisture is soothing and the chemical mildly antiseptic. When laryngitis is accompanied by fever, the physician may recommend one of the antibiotics or sulfonamides. These substances are absorbed into the system and reach the diseased tissues via the blood stream. But the best treatment is keeping quiet. The less talking, the more rest the vocal cords receive, and rest helps any structure that is ailing.

Infection is only one of a hundred different causes of laryngitis. In any large crowd watching a wrestling match or football game, a small percentage is bound to yell too much and become hoarse. The same can be said of those who sing or speak too loud or too long. The excess apparently traumatizes the muscles of the larynx in the same way that our muscles become stiff and sore after doing too much around the house.

In children, an attack of acute laryngitis bears special consideration because of the possibility of diphtheria. Some youngsters also are prone to develop croup, a spasmodic form of laryngitis. When this disease appears, it is likely to take 10 years off the lives of the parents because of its terrifying nature. They usually are awakened in the middle of the night by the harsh, metallic cough of the child. Hacking is so pronounced there is difficulty in obtaining oxygen and the larynx becomes so narrowed that air actually whistles while going into the lungs. The mother and father are sure this is the end. Steam inhalations, expectorants, and emetics (to produce vomiting) are most helpful and generally bring relief within a short time. Hot applications over the throat may be of value. The child then falls into an exhausted sleep and awakens the next morning none the worse for his nocturnal experience.

Laryngitis after the age if 40 is significant, especially when it persists. Tumor may be responsible and anyone who is hoarse for more than 10 days should seek competent medical care. A small cancerous growth can be cured without leaving residual changes in a high percentage of victims. Cure also is possible when the tumor is more extensive but a greater part of the larynx must be treated to accomplish this, which means that the voice may not be perfect thereafter. In some cases it becomes necessary to remove the voice box entirely to save the life of the victim. But all is not lost even here; some individuals have been able to talk by learning to use the esophagus.

ICE WATER

Mrs. W. writes: My husband drinks large quantities of ice water direct from the refrigerator, and very rapidly. This has caused arguments in our home. Will you tell us whether the practice is harmful?

REPLY

No, so long as it does not cause distress. On the other hand, iced liquids have an adverse effect on some individuals in that they lead to spasm of the stomach and intestine.

Taste Switch

A. B. C. writes: I never cared too much for cheese and eggs but now I do. Is there anything wrong with me?

REPLY

No. Our likes and dislikes change all during life, including our food preferences.

RH Blood Groups

Mrs. M. B. R. writes: I was much interested in your article on blood groups because I have a special problem. I have read that it takes one Rh negative parent at least to produce an Rh negative child. I am Rh positive B type, and my husband is Rh positive O type—but we have an Rh negative B daughter. When I first read of Rh blood I was very upset, thinking that the hospital might have given me the wrong child but my daughter looks like me and her brother and resembles her father in stature. I talked the matter over with a physician who said that—like redheads — a negative child may pop up in a positive family. What is your opinion?

REPLY

The Rh negative gene is recessive. In other words, both you and your husband have RH positive and Rh negative genes. It so happened that two Rh negative genes got together so far as your daughter is concerned. The possibility of this likelihood is one in four times. Your physician can explain this to your in diagrammatic form.

Priceless Musical Manuscripts Believed Stolen By Russians; Frostbite Victims To Get Purple Heart; Taft Has Inflation-Stopping Plan

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It hasn't been publicized, but some of the most priceless musical manuscripts in the world appear to have been stolen by the Russians from the State Library of Berlin.

These include the Ninth Symphony of Beethoven; also Mozart's opera "The Magic Flute" and a Mendelssohn oratorio, "The Elijah." The Ninth Symphony is especially valuable, being the last that Beethoven wrote, and having notes on the margin in which Beethoven talks of the brotherhood of man.

These priceless manuscripts were in the State Library of Berlin when the Russians entered the city. But, despite several years of search by Carleton Smith, director of the National Arts Foundation, they are still missing.

Smith, who has restored many important musical manuscripts to their rightful places since the war, learned from the custodian of the State Library that the Russians had taken the three missing manuscripts to a Benedictine monastery at Grussau in Silesia—now Poland. Smith wrote the monastery, but got no answer. He also induced Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, to write, with similar result.

Finally, Smith himself managed to get a visa to enter Poland, and visited the monastery. There he found that the monks had been banished, and no one knew anything about the precious manuscripts.

Journeying to Rome, Smith interviewed the Pope, who put him in touch with the former head abbot of the monastery, whom Smith located at Bad Wimpfen in Germany.

Abbot Schmidt remembered vividly that members of the Red Army had come to the monastery, packed up certain manuscripts and other valuables which had arrived from Berlin, and carried them off "to the east."

That is as far as the manuscripts have been traced. Since then, Smith has written a letter to Stalin, asking that the works of Beethoven, Mozart and Mendelssohn be returned, but has not received an answer.

Purple Heart For Frostbite

The Korean winter has been so severe that the Defense Department, for the first time in history, will award the Purple Heart for frostbite. This will affect 5,300 frostbite casualties, who often suffered more than the wounded but who otherwise would not have been entitled to the Purple Heart.

During the battle of the bulge in World War II, many G.I.'s lost arms and legs from frostbite. Yet they were never authorized to wear the Purple Heart, because of the technicality that they were not wounded in battle.

However, the 5,300 G.I.'s and Marines, who were victims of the Korean winter, demonstrated the same heroism and sacrifice as those who fell from Communist bullets. As a result, the Defense Department has at last recognized the Purple Heart for frostbite.

Stopping Inflation

Senator Taft was either a brave man or else speaking strictly off-the-record when he offered some ideas on how to lick inflation at a recent closed-door session of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report. What he said was not calculated to endear him to three powerful voting groups—farmers, veterans and labor. Nevertheless, here are his proposals:

1. Workers' overtime pay should be taken away in taxes.

2. Farmers' prices should be lowered.

3. Veterans should not receive another G. I. insurance dividend.

Regardless of the economics involved, these proposals are good examples of how not to get elected President in 1952. Nevertheless, Taft advocated them in characteristically blunt language at the congressional closed-door meeting. Here are excerpts from the testimony:

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Acts 15:25—26 (K. J. V.).
Read verses 22—35

"Men who have hazarded their lives." This was the only credential which the church at Jerusalem put into the hands of a few men whom it sent to the church at Antioch to settle a dispute which had arisen over the Mosaic law. They had risked their lives in a great enterprise.

In a similar situation in our day the credentials might read: "These men come from our best families. They have been honored with degrees from various colleges and universities. They have served their church on various committees, and have supported it liberally." Nothing about having risked their all for the sake of Jesus Christ.

If we had eyes to see, we would discover the word "hazard" written over every great enterprise. The enterprise that tries to live on the risk taken by a former generation will die. Every generation must carry its own weight and take its own risk. How much is the present generation of church people willing to risk?

Let Us Pray: Our Father, increase our faith in thee to the point where our actions begin to match our prayers. May we not fear to go out in faith, not always knowing where, but with the assurance that we belong to thee. Amen.

Inflation And Communism Are Joint Menace To U. S.

By MARK SULLIVAN

WHEN Congress passed the Defense Production Act last September the practically universal interpretation by the public was that this was an anti-inflation measure, that it would check the rising cost of living. Consumers drew an anticipatory long breath. After control agencies to administer the act had been appointed and began to function in late January, the orders they issued were in terms of "ceilings," the sum of them commonly interpreted as a "freeze." Consumers felt that hope was about to be fulfilled.

But by the third week in February consumers again felt themselves under the harrow, cost of living was at a new all-time high. Consumers might have got some solace from supposing that this was a hangover of momentum that had been under way a long time. But the head of one of the control agencies announced with candor that cost of living would be materially higher by next summer. This is the prospect officially held out. As of the present there is skepticism, one hopes it is not justified, whether the Defense Production Act with the immense personnel administering it will really turn out to be a successful anti-inflation measure, whether it will really check rising cost of living.

For the failure thus far to check rising cost of living, a large part of the cause is an immunity which the Defense Production Act gives to farm products. The immunity was written into the Act in sub-section 402 (D) (3). In part it reads:

"No ceiling shall be established . . . for any agricultural commodity below . . . the parity price for such commodity as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture" (or equivalent standards likewise "determined by the Secretary of Agriculture").

Crops Immune

This, with other language of the act, means that no ceiling shall be placed on any farm crop that is now selling in the market below the artificial parity price determined by the Secretary of Agriculture (or equivalent standards similarly determined). The crops thus made immune are a major portion of all crops; they include wheat, corn, milk, poultry, butter, and some 70 others.

These crops are so large a part of the cost of living that when the immunity given them in the Defense Production Act came to the attention of persons having competent judgment, doubt was expressed whether the act and the agencies under it could successfully check the rising cost of living unless the section giving this immunity were removed from the act. Heads of the control agencies recognized the obstacle but apparently hesitated to ask Congress to remove it from the act; the head of the agency most directly affected stated specifically and publicly that he would make no such request of Congress at the present time. Members of Congress representing farm constituencies who compose the so-called "farm bloc" and who were originally responsible for the immunity of farm crops in the act are now vigilant to keep it.

Relied On By Stalin

One effect of immunity of many farm crops from ceilings, as provided in the Defense Production Act, is upon the attitude of labor leaders. They see ceilings upon wages provided for in the act and now in process of being put in effect. Against the ceilings proposed, labor leaders have protested sensationally. It is not unreasonable for them to apprehend that because of lack of ceilings on many farm crops, cost of living may go up, and to argue that wages should be free to go up correspondingly. Here we have a threatened repetition of the spiral mechanism of rising cost of living that has gone on in the past. The mechanism is generally recognized. It can be described as a sequence.

Cost of living goes up. Labor uses this as a reason for higher wages. The higher wages cause higher cost of manufacture and are followed by higher prices of manufactured goods. At this point price support of farm crops takes a dynamic part. The Agriculture Department computes the prices of what farmers must now pay for manufactured and other goods and by this computation arrives at a new and higher parity price. The higher parity price is followed by higher cost of living, and here the spiral begins another upward round.

Repetition of that spiral now would be a danger greater than in the past. It is not merely that a late stage is more serious than earlier ones. Much more serious yet, inflation as a menace is tied to our other menace, that of Russian communism. It is not merely by military measures that Russian communism hopes to destroy us. It relies also on destruction of our economic system by unrestrained inflation here or similar economic disaster. Stalin once named this as the primary reliance for overcoming us.

Probe Tydings Started Will Show He's Bad Loser

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Maybe the United States Senate should investigate every election among its members and let the loser come in and complain about the statements made by the victor. Maybe the so-called "liberals" want a national board of censorship which shall pass upon what the candidates say and what their overzealous managers and supporters write or print during a campaign.

Maybe the "liberal" of today isn't much different under the skin from the totalitarian who wants to regulate everything by a law and who doesn't really at heart believe in free speech or a free press unless the views expressed happen to agree with his own.

But, unfortunately, the hullabaloo which has been started by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, because he was defeated by John M. Butler, Republican, isn't going to resolve any of these questions. It is merely going to prove that Mr. Tydings is a bad loser—which in politics is rather unpardonable.

Severity Doesn't Matter

It is also going to open up for debate in a congressional committee the whole question of free speech and a free press. Unfortunately the senators who gave the go-ahead to this inquiry cannot have read the major cases decided by the Supreme Court of the United States and the lengths to which freedom of expression may go without violating constitutional rights.

In one instance, the editor of a weekly newspaper in Minnesota printed the most vitriolic stuff imaginable, but the court held that free speech doesn't depend on the severity of anybody's denunciation and that, if anything truly slanderous or libelous is written, there are state laws which can protect the aggrieved individual.

It was the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and a true liberal, who said that freedom of speech is "freedom for the thought we hate." Few "liberals" today show that degree of tolerance in defining freedom of speech.

Now, there is no doubt that the attacks on Senator Tydings were bitter. But he let himself in for much of it by his own vitriolic condemnation of those who had sought a fair and impartial inquiry by the Senate into the alleged Communistic influences in the government. The Tydings report had in it many statements which were unfair and might even be called scurrilous in relation to those who had asked for a fair investigation. The report itself was so unsatisfactory that the job now has to be done over again by a new committee.

Hardly an election contest occurs in which one side doesn't argue the other side is unfair. The laws of libel and slander protect a candidate against extremes. Sometimes during the campaigns a threat to sue for libel is made and usually these suits are never heard from again or filed.

"Liberals" Attitude Puzzling

But the spectacle of a United States Senate committee inquiring now into election literature and trying to set itself up as a judge as to what is "fair" or "unfair" in a political campaign is something startling. It represents a trend which began with the recent interference with the right of petition under the Constitution.

It certainly is puzzling just why under a so-called "liberal" concept there are such frequent attempts to muzzle free speech or to question it. Thus, it is the "liberal" of today who wants to abolish congressional immunity and make it possible to intimidate a member of Congress and prevent him from exposing fraud and crime. The gamblers and racketeers would certainly have made short shrift of the Kefauver committee if congressmen were subject to libel suits for what they say in speeches or reports on the floor of Congress.

Campaign literature has no immunity from suits. If anything libelous was said about Senator Tydings in the last campaign, he has a right to file suit against his opponent or anybody connected with his opponent's campaign. But to denounce somebody in public office whose views are unpalatable is not yet a crime or an offense for which the laws inflict punishment.

If the Senate committee means merely to give publicity to the nasty methods used in campaigns, that's a worthy objective. But to be honest about it, the committee must not hesitate to go into Ohio and take a look also at the campaign literature circulated against Senator Taft. Some of the stuff would hardly be covered by such a gentle word as "scurrilous."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Institute Of Pacific Relations

THE files which were taken from Edward C. Carter's barn in Lee, Massachusetts, by the McCarran Committee will lead to a complete study of the Institute of Pacific Relations and its activities.

The institute was organized by the Young Men's Christian Association as an effort to bring together the peoples of the Pacific countries, holding its first conference in Honolulu, July 1 to 15, 1925. Its Pacific Council consisted of Ray Lyman Wilbur, United States, chairman; Junnosuke Inouye, Japan, first vice chairman; David Z. T. Yui, China, second vice chairman; Frank C. Atherton, Hawaii, treasurer; Sir Mungo McCallum, Australia; Sir Robert Borden, Canada; Sir James Allen, New Zealand.

No organization could have had a better start. Actually American businessmen in Honolulu were anxious for this organization to prosper, as they hoped it would bring large numbers of distinguished tourists to Hawaii. At first, they put up most of the money for it. Subsequently, the Rockefeller and other foundations came through with sizable grants.

At the head of the organization was J. Merle Davis, a Y. M. C. A. general secretary. One of his tasks was to organize national councils in each of the Pacific countries. The 1925 conference was attended by delegates from Australia, Canada, China, Korea, Japan, New Zealand, Philippines, and United States. One of the principal Pacific countries, Soviet Russia, was absent.

The 1927 conference was held at Honolulu in July. The following were represented: Australia, Canada, Great Britain, Hawaii, Japan, Korea, New Zealand, Philippines, United States, League of Nations, International Labor Office. Soviet Russia was not present.

A full list of the 137 delegates to this conference cannot be given here, but some of the men present were among the most important in their countries. For instance, the British sent Sir Frederick Whyte, former president of the National Indian Legislative Assembly; Malcolm MacDonald, son of the Prime Minister and afterwards himself a member of the British Cabinet.

The American delegation was headed by Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, with whom was associated a distinguished group of men and women, several being presidents and professors of universities. E. C. Carter was honorary secretary of the American group.

The 1927 conference was a great success. The speeches were important, expressing authoritative statements of policy. The papers were interesting and well prepared. The institute was an established organization. National councils had been organized in Australia, Canada, China, Japan, New Zealand, and the United States. E. C. Carter was chosen to be the secretary and driving force of the American Council, which under his leadership developed into the pivotal group of the institute. It was not long before New York overshadowed Honolulu.

The 1929 conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations was held in Kyoto, Japan, from October 28 to November 9. This may in some respects be regarded as the end of the organization period; the institute was already a powerful agency. The American delegation was headed by Jerome D. Greene of Lee, Higginson and Company, chairman, and E. C. Carter, secretary. Carter's assistants were Frederick Vanderbilt Field, John D. Rockefeller III, Miss Catherine Porter and Hobart N. Young. The Rockefeller Foundation was represented by Roger S. Greene; the Carnegie Corporation by Frederick P. Keppel. The British Delegation was headed by Viscount Hailsham, former lord chancellor, as chairman.

This was a big affair of top-notch personalities. I shall discuss this Kyoto conference in subsequent articles, but here I wish to include a statement of purposes of the Institute of Pacific Relations as prepared for this conference by its secretary, J. Merle Davis:

". . . the international machinery by which nations have been dealing with one another since the beginning of history has been evolved on the assumption of the inevitability of war; of the necessity of force as the means for adjusting their differences. From this has sprung the school of secret diplomacy with its inevitable code of reticense and the withholding of facts. This technique to be effective requires the dominance of the few; the acquiescense and ignorance of the many. Since 1918, however, a different international technique has appeared. This is born of a new vision of human relations, based upon the concept of the rights of the weak, international interdependence, the power of facts, the intelligence of the people and their participation in government. The Institute of Pacific Relations has emerged as a part of the mechanism which the era provides for meeting its new requirements."

Women In War Service

Officials of women's political and civic organizations and presidents of women's colleges will discuss the contribution of women to the whole national emergency program at a conference in Washington in the spring. Women will not be drafted for military service, according to Dr. Esther B. Strong, representative of women's interests as a staff member of the Defense Department's personnel policy board.

"Women will be recruited on a voluntary basis," Dr. Strong told a group of college women February 15. "They will serve in jobs where, as women, they can render most effective service, in nursing, in communications, and other necessary duties." On January 12 Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg had told a Senate committee that the armed forces could use twice as many women as the number now authorized.

The Women's Armed Services Integration Act of 1948, which gave the WACS, WAVES, and WAFS the same status as men in uniform, also limited the strength of the women's branches to two per cent of armed forces personnel. The 27,000 women in the services in December, 1950, represented 1.3 per cent of all persons in the services, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. Women in the armed forces at the end of World War II totaled about 275,000, slightly more than two per cent.

In World War II women were at first assigned to "only the simplest and least responsible tasks," according to Dorothy C. Stratton, who directed the SPARS. The first volunteers, Miss Stratton recalls, "met a triple test: learning new jobs, proving that they could do those jobs without special favors, and convincing their families and the public that they were rendering an essential service." In a national emergency, Miss Stratton declares, "it is hardly realistic to suppose that it would be possible to recruit women in sufficient numbers solely by voluntary enlistment."

Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, World War II commander of the WAVES, on February 10 advocated drafting women for military service. Mrs. Horton called for universal registration of youth "to discover the skills, resources, aptitudes and interests of the total age group and select the people who can do the work which needs to be done, with the least disruption of our economy."

The Air Force has announced that in all-out mobilization it could efficiently use women up to 10 per cent of its strength. In addition to numerical limitations, WAVES are at present forbidden foreign duty. On the latter limitation, the Louisville Courier-Journal has commented: "WACS . . . braved death and what is sometimes referred to as worse than death without any noticeable breakdown either in morale or morals, and we have no reason to conclude that their Navy counterparts cannot do as well."

It was not until 1942, some six months after the U. S. had entered World War II, that Congress authorized the service of women as auxiliaries—first in the Army and then in the Navy and Marines. Women were made part of the regular forces on July 1, 1943, but not until 1944 were WAVES allowed to serve abroad.

German industrialist who helped finance Hitler has just died penniless. Hitler turned out to be a poor investment for more persons than his banker.

U. S. Losses Of Gold

The flow of more than $2 billion in gold from the United States in the past calendar year is explained by the Treasury Department as reflecting both a shift in the U. S. export-import ration and the improved position of Great Britain and France in gold and dollar reserves. U. S. gold assets on February 8, 1951, were $22,310,143,772, as compared to $24,344,434,541 on February 8, 1950.

The one-day loss of gold on February 7, 1951, was $31,106,852. In the week ended February 7, foreign nations withdraw $51 million in gold from the U. S.

Treasury figures on U. S. gold assets began to show a loss in January, 1950, after a year-end high for 1949 of $24,427 million. Withdrawals in July, 1951, totaled almost $510 million.

The flow of gold away from the U. S. reverses a trend that has caused economists serious concern as recently as the summer of 1949. Britain's gold and dollar reserves dropped by $260 million in the second quarter of 1949. In September, 1949, Britain devalued the pound sterling from $4.03 to $2.80, following talks between Sir Stafford Cripps and U. S. Treasury Secretary Snyder and a meeting of directors of the International Monetary Fund. In August, 1950, France devalued the gold reserve of the Bank of France and made official the "free market" rate of 349.6 francs to the dollar.

In the four years from July 1, 1945, to June 30, 1949, U. S. exports amounted to almost twice as much, in dollar values, as imports. Exports for that period were $67,100 million, as compared to $35,268 million in imports. This imbalance resulted in a flow of gold to the U. S. of more than $4 billion from the end of 1945 to the end of 1950. Unable to find the dollars with which to pay for purchases in the U. S., foreign governments were sacrificing gold reserves for that purpose.

Prior to the devaluation of the pound, Anthony Eden, former British Foreign Secretary, had suggested that the U. S. either release some of its gold stored at Fort Knox or increase the official price of gold above $35 an ounce. According to Eden, gold itself or the "profits" resulting from revaluation could be donated to European governments—to relieve their dollar shortages and thus redress the imbalance of trade. Profits accruing from the upward revaluation of gold by the U. S. by $10 an ounce would have amounted to $7,031 million.

Throughout 1950 U. S. imports were slowly catching up with exports. In August and again in October, 1950, U. S. imports actually overbalanced exports, in the latter month of almost $31 million. During 1949 U. S. exports ($12,041 million) had been almost double U. S. imports ($6,622 million).

Treasury officials find U. S. gold losses natural from U. S. payment for purchases abroad in gold and from the devaluations of currency by Britain, France, and other countries. But the Treasury will not comment on reports that the Bank of France has recently been buying gold from the U. S. reserve at the pegged rate of $35 and selling the gold for dollars on the free market at $42 an ounce. Gold bars bearing Russian markings have been reported selling on the free market at the $42-per-ounce rate.

Most persons don't know where the world is going and have concluded the only thing they can do is just hang on for the ride.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Inflamed Larynx

WHEN a cold spreads to the vocal cords the voice becomes rough and rasping in character. Hoarseness is part of the respiratory infection and demands the same amount of care. In most instances there is no need for concern because the disturbance will disappear within two or three days.

Ordinarily the larynx is too deep in the throat to be treated locally. As a result, physicians rarely paint the structure or suggest a gargle when simple infection exists. Inhaling steam containing tincture of benjoin helps because the moisture is soothing and the chemical mildly antiseptic. When laryngitis is accompanied by fever, the physician may recommend one of the antibiotics or sulfonamides. These substances are absorbed into the system and reach the diseased tissues via the blood stream. But the best treatment is keeping quiet. The less talking, the more rest the vocal cords receive, and rest helps any structure that is ailing.

Infection is only one of a hundred different causes of laryngitis. In any large crowd watching a wrestling match or football game, a small percentage is bound to yell too much and become hoarse. The same can be said of those who sing or speak too loud or too long. The excess apparently traumatizes the muscles of the larynx in the same way that our muscles become stiff and sore after doing too much around the house.

In children, an attack of acute laryngitis bears special consideration because of the possibility of diphtheria. Some youngsters also are prone to develop croup, a spasmodic form of laryngitis. When this disease appears, it is likely to take 10 years off the lives of the parents because of its terrifying nature. They usually are awakened in the middle of the night by the harsh, metallic cough of the child. Hacking is so pronounced there is difficulty in obtaining oxygen and the larynx becomes so narrowed that air actually whistles while going into the lungs. The mother and father are sure this is the end. Steam inhalations, expectorants, and emetics (to produce vomiting) are most helpful and generally bring relief within a short time. Hot applications over the throat may be of value. The child then falls into an exhausted sleep and awakens the next morning none the worse for his nocturnal experience.

Laryngitis after the age if 40 is significant, especially when it persists. Tumor may be responsible and anyone who is hoarse for more than 10 days should seek competent medical care. A small cancerous growth can be cured without leaving residual changes in a high percentage of victims. Cure also is possible when the tumor is more extensive but a greater part of the larynx must be treated to accomplish this, which means that the voice may not be perfect thereafter. In some cases it becomes necessary to remove the voice box entirely to save the life of the victim. But all is not lost even here; some individuals have been able to talk by learning to use the esophagus.

ICE WATER

Mrs. W. writes: My husband drinks large quantities of ice water direct from the refrigerator, and very rapidly. This has caused arguments in our home. Will you tell us whether the practice is harmful?

REPLY

No, so long as it does not cause distress. On the other hand, iced liquids have an adverse effect on some individuals in that they lead to spasm of the stomach and intestine.

Taste Switch

A. B. C. writes: I never cared too much for cheese and eggs but now I do. Is there anything wrong with me?

REPLY

No. Our likes and dislikes change all during life, including our food preferences.

RH Blood Groups

Mrs. M. B. R. writes: I was much interested in your article on blood groups because I have a special problem. I have read that it takes one Rh negative parent at least to produce an Rh negative child. I am Rh positive B type, and my husband is Rh positive O type—but we have an Rh negative B daughter. When I first read of Rh blood I was very upset, thinking that the hospital might have given me the wrong child but my daughter looks like me and her brother and resembles her father in stature. I talked the matter over with a physician who said that—like redheads — a negative child may pop up in a positive family. What is your opinion?

REPLY

The Rh negative gene is recessive. In other words, both you and your husband have RH positive and Rh negative genes. It so happened that two Rh negative genes got together so far as your daughter is concerned. The possibility of this likelihood is one in four times. Your physician can explain this to your in diagrammatic form.

Priceless Musical Manuscripts Believed Stolen By Russians; Frostbite Victims To Get Purple Heart; Taft Has Inflation-Stopping Plan

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It hasn't been publicized, but some of the most priceless musical manuscripts in the world appear to have been stolen by the Russians from the State Library of Berlin.

These include the Ninth Symphony of Beethoven; also Mozart's opera "The Magic Flute" and a Mendelssohn oratorio, "The Elijah." The Ninth Symphony is especially valuable, being the last that Beethoven wrote, and having notes on the margin in which Beethoven talks of the brotherhood of man.

These priceless manuscripts were in the State Library of Berlin when the Russians entered the city. But, despite several years of search by Carleton Smith, director of the National Arts Foundation, they are still missing.

Smith, who has restored many important musical manuscripts to their rightful places since the war, learned from the custodian of the State Library that the Russians had taken the three missing manuscripts to a Benedictine monastery at Grussau in Silesia—now Poland. Smith wrote the monastery, but got no answer. He also induced Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, to write, with similar result.

Finally, Smith himself managed to get a visa to enter Poland, and visited the monastery. There he found that the monks had been banished, and no one knew anything about the precious manuscripts.

Journeying to Rome, Smith interviewed the Pope, who put him in touch with the former head abbot of the monastery, whom Smith located at Bad Wimpfen in Germany.

Abbot Schmidt remembered vividly that members of the Red Army had come to the monastery, packed up certain manuscripts and other valuables which had arrived from Berlin, and carried them off "to the east."

That is as far as the manuscripts have been traced. Since then, Smith has written a letter to Stalin, asking that the works of Beethoven, Mozart and Mendelssohn be returned, but has not received an answer.

Purple Heart For Frostbite

The Korean winter has been so severe that the Defense Department, for the first time in history, will award the Purple Heart for frostbite. This will affect 5,300 frostbite casualties, who often suffered more than the wounded but who otherwise would not have been entitled to the Purple Heart.

During the battle of the bulge in World War II, many G.I.'s lost arms and legs from frostbite. Yet they were never authorized to wear the Purple Heart, because of the technicality that they were not wounded in battle.

However, the 5,300 G.I.'s and Marines, who were victims of the Korean winter, demonstrated the same heroism and sacrifice as those who fell from Communist bullets. As a result, the Defense Department has at last recognized the Purple Heart for frostbite.

Stopping Inflation

Senator Taft was either a brave man or else speaking strictly off-the-record when he offered some ideas on how to lick inflation at a recent closed-door session of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report. What he said was not calculated to endear him to three powerful voting groups—farmers, veterans and labor. Nevertheless, here are his proposals:

1. Workers' overtime pay should be taken away in taxes.

2. Farmers' prices should be lowered.

3. Veterans should not receive another G. I. insurance dividend.

Regardless of the economics involved, these proposals are good examples of how not to get elected President in 1952. Nevertheless, Taft advocated them in characteristically blunt language at the congressional closed-door meeting. Here are excerpts from the testimony:

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Acts 15:25—26 (K. J. V.).
Read verses 22—35

"Men who have hazarded their lives." This was the only credential which the church at Jerusalem put into the hands of a few men whom it sent to the church at Antioch to settle a dispute which had arisen over the Mosaic law. They had risked their lives in a great enterprise.

In a similar situation in our day the credentials might read: "These men come from our best families. They have been honored with degrees from various colleges and universities. They have served their church on various committees, and have supported it liberally." Nothing about having risked their all for the sake of Jesus Christ.

If we had eyes to see, we would discover the word "hazard" written over every great enterprise. The enterprise that tries to live on the risk taken by a former generation will die. Every generation must carry its own weight and take its own risk. How much is the present generation of church people willing to risk?

Let Us Pray: Our Father, increase our faith in thee to the point where our actions begin to match our prayers. May we not fear to go out in faith, not always knowing where, but with the assurance that we belong to thee. Amen.

Inflation And Communism Are Joint Menace To U. S.

By MARK SULLIVAN

WHEN Congress passed the Defense Production Act last September the practically universal interpretation by the public was that this was an anti-inflation measure, that it would check the rising cost of living. Consumers drew an anticipatory long breath. After control agencies to administer the act had been appointed and began to function in late January, the orders they issued were in terms of "ceilings," the sum of them commonly interpreted as a "freeze." Consumers felt that hope was about to be fulfilled.

But by the third week in February consumers again felt themselves under the harrow, cost of living was at a new all-time high. Consumers might have got some solace from supposing that this was a hangover of momentum that had been under way a long time. But the head of one of the control agencies announced with candor that cost of living would be materially higher by next summer. This is the prospect officially held out. As of the present there is skepticism, one hopes it is not justified, whether the Defense Production Act with the immense personnel administering it will really turn out to be a successful anti-inflation measure, whether it will really check rising cost of living.

For the failure thus far to check rising cost of living, a large part of the cause is an immunity which the Defense Production Act gives to farm products. The immunity was written into the Act in sub-section 402 (D) (3). In part it reads:

"No ceiling shall be established . . . for any agricultural commodity below . . . the parity price for such commodity as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture" (or equivalent standards likewise "determined by the Secretary of Agriculture").

Crops Immune

This, with other language of the act, means that no ceiling shall be placed on any farm crop that is now selling in the market below the artificial parity price determined by the Secretary of Agriculture (or equivalent standards similarly determined). The crops thus made immune are a major portion of all crops; they include wheat, corn, milk, poultry, butter, and some 70 others.

These crops are so large a part of the cost of living that when the immunity given them in the Defense Production Act came to the attention of persons having competent judgment, doubt was expressed whether the act and the agencies under it could successfully check the rising cost of living unless the section giving this immunity were removed from the act. Heads of the control agencies recognized the obstacle but apparently hesitated to ask Congress to remove it from the act; the head of the agency most directly affected stated specifically and publicly that he would make no such request of Congress at the present time. Members of Congress representing farm constituencies who compose the so-called "farm bloc" and who were originally responsible for the immunity of farm crops in the act are now vigilant to keep it.

Relied On By Stalin

One effect of immunity of many farm crops from ceilings, as provided in the Defense Production Act, is upon the attitude of labor leaders. They see ceilings upon wages provided for in the act and now in process of being put in effect. Against the ceilings proposed, labor leaders have protested sensationally. It is not unreasonable for them to apprehend that because of lack of ceilings on many farm crops, cost of living may go up, and to argue that wages should be free to go up correspondingly. Here we have a threatened repetition of the spiral mechanism of rising cost of living that has gone on in the past. The mechanism is generally recognized. It can be described as a sequence.

Cost of living goes up. Labor uses this as a reason for higher wages. The higher wages cause higher cost of manufacture and are followed by higher prices of manufactured goods. At this point price support of farm crops takes a dynamic part. The Agriculture Department computes the prices of what farmers must now pay for manufactured and other goods and by this computation arrives at a new and higher parity price. The higher parity price is followed by higher cost of living, and here the spiral begins another upward round.

Repetition of that spiral now would be a danger greater than in the past. It is not merely that a late stage is more serious than earlier ones. Much more serious yet, inflation as a menace is tied to our other menace, that of Russian communism. It is not merely by military measures that Russian communism hopes to destroy us. It relies also on destruction of our economic system by unrestrained inflation here or similar economic disaster. Stalin once named this as the primary reliance for overcoming us.

The Tydings report had in it many statements which were unfair and might even be called scurrilous in relation to those who had asked for a fair investigation. The report itself was so unsatisfactory that the job now has to be done over again by a new committee.

Hardly an election contest occurs in which one side doesn't argue the other side is unfair. The laws of libel and slander protect a candidate against extremes. Sometimes during the campaigns a threat to sue for libel is made and usually these suits are never heard from again or filed.

"Liberals" Attitude Puzzling

But the spectacle of a United States Senate committee inquiring now into election literature and trying to set itself up as a judge as to what is "fair" or "unfair" in a political campaign is something startling. It represents a trend which began with the recent interference with the right of petition under the Constitution.

It certainly is puzzling just why under a so-called "liberal" concept there are such frequent attempts to muzzle free speech or to question it. Thus, it is the "liberal" of today who wants to abolish congressional immunity and make it possible to intimidate a member of Congress and prevent him from exposing fraud and crime. The gamblers and racketeers would certainly have made short shrift of the Kefauver committee if congressmen were subject to libel suits for what they say in speeches or reports on the floor of Congress.

Campaign literature has no immunity from suits. If anything libelous was said about Senator Tydings in the last campaign, he has a right to file suit against his opponent or anybody connected with his opponent's campaign. But to denounce somebody in public office whose views are unpalatable is not yet a crime or an offense for which the laws inflict punishment.

If the Senate committee means merely to give publicity to the nasty methods used in campaigns, that's a worthy objective. But to be honest about it, the committee must not hesitate to go into Ohio and take a look also at the campaign literature circulated against Senator Taft. Some of the stuff would hardly be covered by such a gentle word as "scurrilous."

These Days

The Institute Of Pacific Relations

THE files which were taken from Edward C. Carter's barn in Lee, Massachusetts, by the McCarran Committee will lead to a complete study of the Institute of Pacific Relations and its activities.

The institute was organized by the Young Men's Christian Association as an effort to bring together the peoples of the Pacific countries, holding its first conference in Honolulu, July 1 to 15, 1925. Its Pacific Council consisted of Ray Lyman Wilbur, United States, chairman; Junnosuke Inouye, Japan, first vice chairman; David Z. T. Yui, China, second vice chairman; Frank C. Atherton, Hawaii, treasurer; Sir Mungo McCallum, Australia; Sir Robert Borden, Canada; Sir James Allen, New Zealand.

No organization could have had a better start. Actually American businessmen in Honolulu were anxious for this organization to prosper, as they hoped it would bring large numbers of distinguished tourists to Hawaii. At first, they put up most of the money for it. Subsequently, the Rockefeller and other foundations came through with sizable grants.

At the head of the organization was J. Merle Davis, a Y. M. C. A. general secretary. One of his tasks was to organize national councils in each of the Pacific countries. The 1925 conference was attended by delegates from Australia, Canada, China, Korea, Japan, New Zealand, Philippines, and United States. One of the principal Pacific countries, Soviet Russia, was absent.

The 1927 conference was held at Honolulu in July. The following were represented: Australia, Canada, Great Britain, Hawaii, Japan, Korea, New Zealand, Philippines, United States, League of Nations, International Labor Office. Soviet Russia was not present.

A full list of the 137 delegates to this conference cannot be given here, but some of the men present were among the most important in their countries. For instance, the British sent Sir Frederick Whyte, former president of the National Indian Legislative Assembly; Malcolm MacDonald, son of the Prime Minister and afterwards himself a member of the British Cabinet.

The American delegation was headed by Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, with whom was associated a distinguished group of men and women, several being presidents and professors of universities. E. C. Carter was honorary secretary of the American group.

The 1927 conference was a great success. The speeches were important, expressing authoritative statements of policy. The papers were interesting and well prepared. The institute was an established organization. National councils had been organized in Australia, Canada, China, Japan, New Zealand, and the United States. E. C. Carter was chosen to be the secretary and driving force of the American Council, which under his leadership developed into the pivotal group of the institute. It was not long before New York overshadowed Honolulu.

The 1929 conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations was held in Kyoto, Japan, from October 28 to November 9. This may in some respects be regarded as the end of the organization period; the institute was already a powerful agency. The American delegation was headed by Jerome D. Greene of Lee, Higginson and Company, chairman, and E. C. Carter, secretary. Carter's assistants were Frederick Vanderbilt Field, John D. Rockefeller III, Miss Catherine Porter and Hobart N. Young. The Rockefeller Foundation was represented by Roger S. Greene; the Carnegie Corporation by Frederick P. Keppel. The British Delegation was headed by Viscount Hailsham, former lord chancellor, as chairman.

This was a big affair of top-notch personalities. I shall discuss this Kyoto conference in subsequent articles, but here I wish to include a statement of purposes of the Institute of Pacific Relations as prepared for this conference by its secretary, J. Merle Davis:

". . . the international machinery by which nations have been dealing with one another since the beginning of history has been evolved on the assumption of the inevitability of war; of the necessity of force as the means for adjusting their differences. From this has sprung the school of secret diplomacy with its inevitable code of reticense and the withholding of facts. This technique to be effective requires the dominance of the few; the acquiescense and ignorance of the many. Since 1918, however, a different international technique has appeared. This is born of a new vision of human relations, based upon the concept of the rights of the weak, international interdependence, the power of facts, the intelligence of the people and their participation in government. The Institute of Pacific Relations has emerged as a part of the mechanism which the era provides for meeting its new requirements."

The courage and vision of women, their diplomacy and charm, could help solve the world problems of today.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

BESIDE a highway in one of our western states stands Sakajawea (the Bird Woman), shading her eyes and the other pointing the way ahead. It is a memorial statue, commemorating the contribution of this Shonshone Indian woman who acted as guide and interpreter for the Lewis and Clarke expedition to the West in 1805.

On a recent cross-country trip, as I looked at this statue symbolizing the courage and vision of this little Indian woman, I thought of a pithy comment of Edward Bok, the great editor. "The man who speaks of women in any but the most respectful terms is either a knave or a fool—very often he is both. And this is one of the few rules of life to which there is no exception."

Leadership of Women

Most men who are accredited with great deeds give almost reverential credit to some woman whose courage and vision made their accomplishments possible. They are qualities that are found in abundance among women, and never more needed by the world than today.

As one of women's strongest boosters, it gives me great pleasure to note more and more evidence that women are taking an active interest in the affairs of the world. Their increasing participation in open forums reveals their keener knowledge of history and current problems than ever before. We have more women in top-level capacities every year. Because woman's leadership is in its ascendency, I believe we can have greater optimism about the future.

Point the Way

Economic security and peace are inherent feminine goals, because under such conditions family life thrives best. Combine those goals with the courage and vision to attain them, and the natural feminine diplomacy and charm that makes women so successful at winning their way . . . then, doesn't it seem time that women pointed the way for all of us?

Teenage Club Celebrates G.W.Birthday

One hundred and twenty-five young people of North Cumberland registered for the Teenage Club, sponsored by the North End Playground Association, Thursday evening in the field house, after which a George Washington birthday party was held. Mrs. John Kienhofer was in charge of registration.

The field house was elaborately decorated in red, white and blue, with streamers across the ceiling, interspersed with large bells. White chalk drawings of Washington on a red background filled the window recesses alternately with hatchets. A picture of Washington, and bells were over the fireplace with a large American flag nearby.

A musical program was presented. Joseph Schulinger sang three numbers and James Firley played three accordion selections after which they played and sang several old time pieces. Songs were also sung by a group composed of Robert Morris, Paul Ackerman, Ronald Miller, Frank Young, Charles Kienhofer, William Kegg, James Wilt, James Nixon and James Digman.

Square dancing concluded the evening with Edmund Hoey calling the numbers, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Mackert. A group also danced the polka. Mrs. Kienhofer reports the club members are making "good progress with the square dancing." Refreshments were served during the evening.

Chaperones for the year are John Bauer, Ralph Knieriem, Mrs. John K. Rozum, Mrs. Kienhofer, Mrs. Frank H. Kaplon, Jr., and Mrs. John Bauer.

Next Thursday evening besides moving pictures there will be instructions in square dancing. Each member may bring one friend for the evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

4-H Week Observance To Be Planned

The committee on the National 4-H Week observance will meet at 8:30 this morning in the home demonstration agent's office, with Miss Thelma J. Allin, assistant agent, presiding.

National 4-H Week is to be held March 3 to 11.

Miss Allin will give a Posture Training course for members of the Oldtown, Spring Gap and Town Creek clubs at 10 a.m., today at the home of Mrs. Belmont Athey, North Branch.

Teenage Club Celebrates G.W.Birthday

One hundred and twenty-five young people of North Cumberland registered for the Teenage Club, sponsored by the North End Playground Association, Thursday evening in the field house, after which a George Washington birthday party was held. Mrs. John Kienhofer was in charge of registration.

The field house was elaborately decorated in red, white and blue, with streamers across the ceiling, interspersed with large bells. White chalk drawings of Washington on a red background filled the window recesses alternately with hatchets. A picture of Washington, and bells were over the fireplace with a large American flag nearby.

A musical program was presented. Joseph Schulinger sang three numbers and James Firley played three accordion selections after which they played and sang several old time pieces. Songs were also sung by a group composed of Robert Morris, Paul Ackerman, Ronald Miller, Frank Young, Charles Kienhofer, William Kegg, James Wilt, James Nixon and James Digman.

Square dancing concluded the evening with Edmund Hoey calling the numbers, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Mackert. A group also danced the polka. Mrs. Kienhofer reports the club members are making "good progress with the square dancing." Refreshments were served during the evening.

Chaperones for the year are John Bauer, Ralph Knieriem, Mrs. John K. Rozum, Mrs. Kienhofer, Mrs. Frank H. Kaplon, Jr., and Mrs. John Bauer.

Next Thursday evening besides moving pictures there will be instructions in square dancing. Each member may bring one friend for the evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

Duo Club To Have Socials

James Wilson, Program chairman of the Duo Club, has arranged a musical program for March; barn dance for April; men's program in May and an outing for June, he announced at the meeting of the club recently at the lecture hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reuschlein are chairman for March; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shea, April; William Mateer, for May; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Black, June.

A dinner preceded the meeting with John Robb presiding and Thomas N. Berry, the speaker, had as his topic, "My Experiences with Communism as an FBI agent." Edgar Duke led group singing.

On behalf of the group Mrs. Robb presented going away gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smalley and Mr and Mrs. William Rooney.

PLANNING ACTIVITIES—St. Mary's Mother's Club will sponsor a bake sale at the regular parish game night Monday at 8:30 in the social hall. Proceeds are to be used for school equipment. Officers shown above are Mrs. Frances Comer, secretary; Mrs. Regis Brinker, vice president; and Mrs. Marcus Naughton, acting treasurer. Mrs. Andrew Saliga, president is ill.

Esta Kerns Honored

A surprise miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Marshall Layman in compliment to Miss Esta Marie Kerns at her home Potomas Park, recently. Miss Kerns is the fiance of Fred A. Williamson.

The Valentine motif was used in the decorations. Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Paul Keinhofer, Mrs. John Wills, Mrs. Benny Kidwell and Mrs. Lee Fairgrieve.

Mrs. Rufus Nave Heads Women's CTP

Mrs. Rufus Nave was elected president of the Women's CTP at the meeting Tuesday night at the B. and O. YMCA. Other officers are Mrs. E. C. Kilroy, vice president; Mrs. Armand Fanelli, recording secretary; Mrs. Guy Ziler, financial secretary, and Mrs. Blanche Lueck, treasurer. Installation will be March 20.

Donations of $5 each were made to the Navy Mother's Television fund and the March of Dimes. Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. B. H. Slaton and Mrs. Edgar S. Leasure were received as members. Plans were made for the bowling match with Connellsville, March 13.

The annual Valentine party followed, and the 17th anniversary celebrated.

Club Names Chairmen

The E-G-B-D-F Junior Music Club appointed Judith Krapf as Publicity chairman; Patricia Kerns, Social chairman, and Carol Jean Lannon, accompanist, at the meeting recently at the home of Marianne Hoelzer, Greene Street.

Patricia Kerns, JoAnn McFarland, Judith Krapf, Judith Kompanek, Carol Lannon, Ann Decker, Carol Isiminger and Martha Miller were received as new members.

Piano solos were played by Marianne Hoelzer, Barbara Stearn, Judith Kompanek, Judith Krapf, Ann Decker, Carol Isiminger, JoAnn McFarland, Carol Lannon, Nancy Close; a flute solo by Sharon Growden and a violin solo by Patricia Kerns. Refreshments were served after the program.

Group To Aid Defense

Members of Xi Beta Exempl'r chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, volunteered for civil defense work and discussed receiving new members, and taking part in the S. T. Little Style Show, March 2, at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Ambrose McKenzie, South Allegany Street, earlier in the week.

The geography, czars and customs and dress of Russia was presented by Miss Alta Earl, Mrs. Earl Judy and Mrs. Wulbur Parker during the cultural program.

WIFE PRESERVERS

This cut of meat is a boneless beef chuck pot-roast which comes from the chuck which has been boned and rolled. It should be braised — browned well, a small amount of water added, covered, and slowly cooked until tender. A three to five-pound bonless chuck roast requires from three to four hours' cooking time.

Vivian Junkins Given Party

Mrs. Georgia Dick, Bowling Green and Miss Judith Grant, Cresaptown, entertained with a prenuptial shower for Miss Vivian Junkins, fiancee of Ward Hovatter, recently at the Bowling Green Fire Hall.

Gifts were arranged beneath a red and white umbrella and a shower of hearts. The same color scheme was carried out in the cake, enscribed with the couple's names and topped with a miniature umbrella.

Twenty-eight guests attended.

Two Youths Held In High Bail For Extortion Plot

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP) — Two youths with "splendid educational background" were held under $5,000 bail each today by U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart for trying to extort $2,500 "protection money" from a Baltimore County man.

Volkart told the defendants, 21-year-old Edwin Cranston Riggin, Jr., and 23-year-old Warren Jackson Gore, he had to set a high bail despite their education and the fact they came from good families.

Riggin is an arts and sciences junior at the University of Maryland and the son of a prominent Methodist minister. Gore is an engineering graduate of Johns Hopkins University.

The youths are charged with mailing a letter Feb. 14 to Christopher C. Campbell of Boring, Md., demanding $2,500 under threat of injuring his reputation. The letter was signed "Demarest."

Campbell received a fine and a suspended jail sentence a year ago after an abortion conspiracy trial here.

Riggin and Gore were arrested Wednesday night by state police and postal inspectors. After receiving the threat, Campbell had notified the authorities, who set the trap resulting in the arrest of the two.

Campbell drove across a railroad bridge near his home as designated in telephone calls he received Monday and Tuesday nights.

He blinked his auto lights twice, according to thei nstructions, and continued driving until a car behind him blinked its lights.

Campbell then tossed out a bundle, which contained a few bills around a paper core. When the rear car had time to stop, Campbell halted suddenly and Lt. John P. Novicki and Trooper Charles E. Hollie hopped out of the back seat of Campbell's car.

They ordered the occupants of the rear machine to get out. The driver did. His companion jumped out of the other side with a rifle, but dropped it upon Novicki's command. At the same time, however, he kicked Novicki in the shin and fled.

Novicki fired several shots at the fleeing figure. Iess than three hours later, Rigging was found at a friend's home nearby, with a minor bullet wound in his arm.

Greenbag Filled At Last Minute

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP) — The Governor's "greenbag," a treasure of patronage, wasn't filled until the very last minute.

The greenbag actually is a typewritten list of nominations to hundreds of state and local positions, some important and many mere sidelines for loyal party workers. Gov. McKeldin sent it down to the Senate for confirmation yesterday.

It was the first big chunk of patronage Republicans have enjoyed since the late Gov. Nice submitted his last greenbag in 1937. McKeldin's office had been under siege of anxious job seekers for 10 days. The pressure did not subdue until the nominations, this time contained in a green chair back, reached the senate rostrum.

Last-minute changes were made in both the state and county groupings. Some were written in so hurriedly that corrections did not appear in lists released by the executive office and were discovered only today.

A roster of justices of the peace for Prince George's County was formed too late for the greenbag. It was submitted this afternoon.

Deaths

W. T. STONEBREAKER

William T. Stonebreaker, 46, of 119 West Oldtown Road, formerly employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here, died enroute to Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon. He had been ill about three years.

Mr. Stonebreaker, a member of Second Baptist Church, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Edna Keefer Stonebreaker; four daughters, Mrs. Robert Senn, of here; Mrs. Earl Judy, Miss Ruth Ella Stonebreaker and Miss Virginia Lee Stonebreaker, all at home; three sons, Charles William Stonebreaker, Edward Leroy Stonebreaker, and Jerry Eugene Stonebreaker, also at home.

His mother, Mrs. Isaac Stonebreaker, of here, and five brothers, Bert Stonebreaker, Keyser, W. Va.; Raymond Stonebreaker, Frostburg; George Stonebreaker, Narrows Park; Ralph Stonebreaker, Baltimore; and Chester Stonebreaker, of here; four sisters Mrs. Fannie Shrout and Mrs. Margaret Martz of here; and Mrs. Ruth Rotruck and Mrs. Grace Rotruck of Keyser, W. Va., also survive.

The body will remain at the Hafer Funeral Home where a service will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Kenneth M. Hayes, pastor of Second Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Herman Methodist Cemetery.

CLAUDE W. KEIFER

Claude W. Keifer, 37, a stationary engineer at the German Brewing Company, of Route 5, Braddock Road, died Thursday in Allegany Hospital.

He was born here December 18, 1913, a son of Walter and Rhoda Hite Keifer. He was married to the former Miss Erma Llewellyn.

Mr. Keifer was a member of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, BPO Elks; Cumberland Aerie No. 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles; the Brewery Workers Union, and SS. Peter and Paul Church.

He served in the Army during World War II for 23 months, part of which was in Italy.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, Claude W. Keifer, II, and Peter Wendyl Keifer, both at home; one sister, Sister Mary Rosine, in a convent at Louisville, Ky.; two half-brothers, Walter D. Keifer, with the Army, and Francis J. Keifer, this city, and his step-mother, Mrs. Walter Keifer, this city.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

KEIFER SERVICE

A funeral service will be held Monday a 9 a. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church for Claude W. Keifer, German Brewery stationary engineer, who died Thursday in Allegany Hospital. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

MONAHAN RITES

A requiem mass for William Michael Monahan, 59, of 121 Independence Street, who died Tuesday, was celebrated yesterday morning in SS. Peter and Paul Church by Father Blaise, O. F. M. Cap.

In the sanctuary were the Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Church and rural dean of Western Maryland Catholic Churches, and Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church.

Interment was in the parish cemetery. Pallbearers were Robert Fisher, Ralph King, Kenneth Long, William Beck, Richard Weaver, Thomas Cumiskey, Sr., John McPartland and John Betz.

MRS. E. M. WOLFORD

A service for Mrs. Evelyn M. Wolford, former servicewoman and beauty shop operator, who died Wednesday, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the Stein Funeral Home with Rev. H. T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, officiating. Burial was in Palo Alto Cemetery near Hyndman, Pa.

Pallbearers were Lester Wolford, Ray Zimmerla, Frank Carnegie, Fred Thomas, Ralph Thomas, and Carl Mason.

MRS. ANNA K. STROCK

A funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at Potomac Park Evangelical U. B. Church for Mrs. Anna K. Strock, who died Tuesday. Rev. Lee Sheaffer, pastor, officiated and interment was in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Russell G. Robeson, Charles Pfeiffer, Claud Yoder, Robert Haines, Shannon Winebrenner and Donald Roy.

Faith In God

Fred B. Driscoll, who apologized for the absence of the other five Allegany delegates; State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, Assistant State's Attorney William H. Geppert, County Commissioners William H. Lemmert, James Holmes and James Orr; Sheriff Edward R. Muir.

Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden, Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart, Orphans Court Judges William C. Abbott, Hugh Stevenson and J. French Van Meter; Miss Grace Shaffer, John L. Estes, who has just been nominated by Governor McKeldin to the State Employment Security Board, and Miss Flaville S. Percy.

The invocation and benediction were delivered by Rev. Donald F. Brake, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church. Several songs were sung by John Metzger of Frostburg, accompanied by Miss Carole Reith.

Congressman Cunningham, who came from Washington yesterday afternoon, spent the night at the home of Congressman and Mrs. Beall in Frostburg. They will return to Washington this morning.

Although this was Cunningham's first visit to Cumberland, he had appeared as speaker in Silver Spring, Hagerstown and Frederick.

Equity Case Filed

An equity case was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court in a bill of complaint titled Mary B. Twigg vs. Herman Twigg.

Steel capacity in the United States in 1950 was 104,229,650 tons, a record high level.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

"Feed My Lambs!"

A little group of fisherman sat around an open fire on the shore of the sea of Galilee. In their midst was the greatest Teacher the world has ever known, Jesus of Nazareth.

When they had finished their simple breakfast He turned to one of them and said, "Simon, do you love me more than the others?"

The burly chap, who had thrice denied his Master, winced. "You know, Lord, that I love you."

Then Jesus said, "FEED MY LAMBS!"

The echo of that simple commandment has never died away. It rings from the belfry of every Christian church. It calls men from spiritual starvation to a full and abundant life of service to others.

Attend and support a church in your community. Receive all the good things it offers you . . . and help your Church bring these blessings to other people.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

"Feed My Lambs!"

A little group of fisherman sat around an open fire on the shore of the sea of Galilee. In their midst was the greatest Teacher the world has ever known, Jesus of Nazareth.

When they had finished their simple breakfast He turned to one of them and said, "Simon, do you love me more than the others?"

The burly chap, who had thrice denied his Master, winced. "You know, Lord, that I love you."

Then Jesus said, "FEED MY LAMBS!"

The echo of that simple commandment has never died away. It rings from the belfry of every Christian church. It calls men from spiritual starvation to a full and abundant life of service to others.

Attend and support a church in your community. Receive all the good things it offers you . . . and help your Church bring these blessings to other people.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Yale Scientist Spends 2 Months As Patient In Mental Institution

DETROIT & — In the first experiment of its kind in medical history, a Yale University scientist spent two months as a patient in a mental institution to gain further insight into problems of insanity.

This was disclosed in a report to the American Orthopsychiatric Association meeting by four members of the Yale Department of Psychiatry and Mental Hygiene.

The names of the scientist and the institution where the novel experiment was carried out more than a year ago were not revealed. His identity was unknown to patients and other psychiatrists who treated him. But he did keep an elaborate diary and reported a few times during the two months to two staff officers of the hospital.

The scientist, who might be called "Dr. X" was described as "a normal man who exaggerated some of his shortcomings."

Dr. Frederick C. Redlich, chairman of the Yale Psychiatric Department said the study "opened up a new area of psychiatric knowledge."

"The implications," he said, "are that the whole physical and social structure of our mental hospitals should be restudied."

For one thing, Dr. Gedlich said, the results of the experiment raised the question whether most neurotic patients "still able to function in some areas of life" would not fare better by treatment outside a hospital than inside.

Notable exceptions, he said, would be patients with "anxiety-provoking" home situations and patients threatening suicide.

Dr. Redlich said that by becoming a patient "Dr. X." became "one of the group" and communication barriers which normally separate doctors and patients were broken down immediately. Even during therapy hours, he said, such communication normally is "artificial, inadequate and unrewarding."

"The patients live in one social world and the staff in another," he explained. "The patients, therefore, turn inward and build their own social structure which was insulated as much as possible from friction with the hospital routine."

Within this structure, Dr. Redlich said it was learned that hospital patients exert "tremendous pressures" on newcomers to act in certain ways toward other patients, toward treatment and doctors and toward nurses and other hospital personnel.

It also was learned, he added, that patients "support, help and even treat each other even if this often means going against a rule of the hospital."

The psychiatrists reported that patients were found to act one way in the presence of doctors and altogether differently when no staff members were present. They cited the case of one patient who acted "perfectly normal most of the time but created a scene every time a doctor showed up."

Parking Violations Hike City Revenue

The city had only $174,031.26 of its levy outstanding as of January 31, the report of City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson reveals.

Collections total $1,102,315.76 or 86.5 per cent of the total levy of $1,275,340.

Excess collections are listed at $1,007 and include $903 for police fines and $104.02 from weights. A total of $10,000 was levied for police fines but already the sum has reached $10,903, which sources say, is attributable in part to the crackdown on parking violators.

Appropriations figures show a balance of $427,879.66 for operation of the city. Appropriated was $1,037,430 of which $609,550.34 has been expended, the report shows.

Directors Are Named By Paper Company

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP) — James R. Shea and L. Frank Thompson today were elected directors of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co.

Stockholders at the annual meeting reelected 12 other directors including Wiley L. Jennings, vice president in charge of sales, who was named to the board in an interim capacity last November.

The board later elected Vice President John D. Cowan to the position of executive vice president.

Shea, an emplye of the company for more than four decades, is resident manager of the Tyrone, Pa., plant.

Thompson is resident manager of the plant at Charleston, S. C.

Yale Scientist Spends 2 Months As Patient In Mental Institution

DETROIT & — In the first experiment of its kind in medical history, a Yale University scientist spent two months as a patient in a mental institution to gain further insight into problems of insanity.

This was disclosed in a report to the American Orthopsychiatric Association meeting by four members of the Yale Department of Psychiatry and Mental Hygiene.

The names of the scientist and the institution where the novel experiment was carried out more than a year ago were not revealed. His identity was unknown to patients and other psychiatrists who treated him. But he did keep an elaborate diary and reported a few times during the two months to two staff officers of the hospital.

The scientist, who might be called "Dr. X" was described as "a normal man who exaggerated some of his shortcomings."

Dr. Frederick C. Redlich, chairman of the Yale Psychiatric Department said the study "opened up a new area of psychiatric knowledge."

"The implications," he said, "are that the whole physical and social structure of our mental hospitals should be restudied."

For one thing, Dr. Gedlich said, the results of the experiment raised the question whether most neurotic patients "still able to function in some areas of life" would not fare better by treatment outside a hospital than inside.

Notable exceptions, he said, would be patients with "anxiety-provoking" home situations and patients threatening suicide.

Dr. Redlich said that by becoming a patient "Dr. X." became "one of the group" and communication barriers which normally separate doctors and patients were broken down immediately. Even during therapy hours, he said, such communication normally is "artificial, inadequate and unrewarding."

"The patients live in one social world and the staff in another," he explained. "The patients, therefore, turn inward and build their own social structure which was insulated as much as possible from friction with the hospital routine."

Within this structure, Dr. Redlich said it was learned that hospital patients exert "tremendous pressures" on newcomers to act in certain ways toward other patients, toward treatment and doctors and toward nurses and other hospital personnel.

It also was learned, he added, that patients "support, help and even treat each other even if this often means going against a rule of the hospital."

The psychiatrists reported that patients were found to act one way in the presence of doctors and altogether differently when no staff members were present. They cited the case of one patient who acted "perfectly normal most of the time but created a scene every time a doctor showed up."

Tichnell Tops Attack With 22 Tallies As Barton Bags 17th Win

FROSTBURG, Feb. 23 — Barton High School caught up with Fort Hill in the W.M.I. League championship race tonight by whipping Beall High School, 61 to 44, while the Sentinels were losing to Allegany High at Cumberland.

Barton went into a first place tie with Fort Hill, thus necessitating a playoff for the W.M.I. League championship.

Coach Johnny Thomas' Braves got away to a 12-5 lead at the quarter and held the upper hand throughout. The score was 35-17 at halftime and 53-31 at the close of the third stanza.

Arnold Tichnell was the big point maker for Barton with 22 points to his credit. Tim Clark had 13 and Bill Kirk 12. Duncan and Arnone headed Beall with 14 and 13 markers.

Beall played without the services of Capt. Don Blank who was ill.

Arnone, Workman and Hawkins of Beall and Clark of Barton were ejected on personal fouls.

The victory was the 17th in 19 starts for the Braves. Barton defeated Beall in their series opener by the score of 85-40. Lineups:

Laurel Race Meet To Open March 23

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP)—Laurel will open Maryland's 1951 racing season with a 24-day meet beginning March 23, the State Racing Commission announced today.

The commission also approved the splitting between Laurel and Pimlico of the 25 days formerly given to Havre de Grace.

Pimlico and Laurel bought the Havre de Grace stock when owners of the latter decided to quit the business. Bowie stockholders couldn't agree on participation in the stock purchase deal.

The commission said Laurel's fall meet will run from October 10 through October 25.

Bowie's spring meeting will open April 21 and continue through May 5. The track will close the racing year with a November 17-December program.

Pimlico gets 19 spring days—May 1 through May 26—and 18 days in the fall—October 27 through November 16.

Duke's Dick Groat Breaks Scoring Mark

Durham, N. C., Feb. 23 (AP)—Dick Groat, Duke's All-American candidate, smashed the national collegiate major individual scoring record for a single season in leading his Blue Devil mates to a rousing 84-72 Southern Conference basketball triumph over North Carolina's Tar Heels here tonight.

Groat burned the nets for 29 points to crack the all-time high of 740 points set by William and Mary's Chet Giermak two years ago. He ran his total for the year to 746 points.

U. S. Skaters Lose

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 23 (AP) — The United States defending titleholders, the brother and sister team of Karol and Peter Kennedy of Seattle, was dethroned tonight as the world's figure skating championship pair.

The new champions, Ria Baran and Paul Falk, of Western Germany won by a narrow margin over the U. S. pair in the competition at the Milan ice palace.

Oliver Leads By Stroke In Houston Open

Leader Posts 134, Jim Deal Is Second

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 23 (AP)—Ed Oliver, the chubby Seattle pro, celebrated his ninth wedding anniversary today by taking a one-stroke lead at the midway mark of the $10,000 Houston Open.

Ed Oliver

Oliver fired a six-under par 66 for a 36-hole 134 that gave him a narrow edge over Houston's Jim Deal, the former shot put champion who finished strong with a two-under 70 for a second round 135 total.

Deal, runner-up by one stroke in yesterday's opening round, was two over par on the front nine today but was four under on the backside.

Oliver said he just played "average golf." Deal said his first nine troubles found him unable to "concentrate."

Oliver's pair of 33's on the 6967-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course were based on six-one-under holes, including each of the four par-5 holes.

Trailing Deal at 136 were Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., John Weitzel, Harrisburg, Pa., and Marty Furgol, Long Beach, Calif.

Tied at 137 were Jimmie Clark, Laguna Beach, Calif., the first round leader who went nine strokes higher today with a one-over 73, Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa.

Oliver, with his iron shots working smoothly, got three of his one-under holes with eight foot putts.

Chuck Scally, Pittsburgh, Pa., got the tournament's first hole-in-one, connecting with a No. 9 iron shot on the 145-yard second. He finished with a two-under 70 that gave him a 141 total.

The bulky field of 162 players were cut to the 60 low scorers, plus ties and 10 amateurs. It took a two-over 146 for the pros to stay in the last two rounds. Amateurs needed 149.

MINOR LEAGUE PREXY TO KEEP GAME ALIVE

AP Newsfeatures

EBENSBURG, Pa. — Elmer M. Daily, senior prexy of the minor leagues, believes every effort should be made to keep baseball alive during the present emergency.

Daily, starting his 27th year at the helm of the Class C Middle-Atlantic League, practices what he preaches.

Hopes For 6 Clubs

Right now his own eight team loop faces a shutdown. It already has lost three teams but Daily figures to muster at least six clubs just to keep the spark alive.

Put it this way he says:

"If it was patriotic to play baseball during World War II, why not now?"

But don't get Daily wrong. He loves baseball and doesn't want the sport to fizzle out. He knows what a job it is to get started again.

For instance, the Class D Pennsylvania Association circuit he organized folded after several years. During the depression the M-A loop operated on a shoestring. Then World War II came along and the league did an elfoldo for three years.

A Good Motto

Each time Daily survived the rough going. His moto: "A little is better than nothing at all."

To keep baseball hopes alive, Daily contends that the major league clubs should provide some sort

ELMER M. DAILY

Minors Are Grass Roots

of insurance in the form of players or cash to the minor loops.

The Middle Atlantic League once was a big farm system of the majors but too many parent organizations divorced themselves in recent years.

"If it wasn't for some civic organizations and a few others the M-A would be dead right now," asserts Daily.

"One thing the major league should remember is that we (the minor leagues) are the grass roots. If we fold so will they."

250 Will Attend Dapper Dan 3rd Annual Banquet Sunday

Michelosen And Ball To Attend; Affair Is Set For K. Of C. Home

Approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club Sunday at 6 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Home, Paul J. Gallen, president, announced last night.

Jerry Molloy, popular basketball coach and official from Hoboken, N. J., who has refereed LaSalle home games here in past years will be the toastmaster on the occasion.

Heading the list of sports celebrities who are expected to be here for the affair are Johnny Michelosen, head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League; Herman Ball, head coach of the Washington Redskins and former Allegany High school grid mentor; Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette who is national president of the Dapper Dans; Vincent Farrell, prominent basketball official from Newark, N. J., and Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, retired major league pitcher from Lonaconing and member of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Ball will be accompanied by Tommy Mont, assistant coach, Harry Dowda, Redskins' back, and possibly Bill Dudley, one of the outstanding stars in pro football.

Accompanying Michelosen will be Michael Nixon, backfield coach of the Steelers; Charles "Chick" Cherundolo, assistant coach, and three players, namely Bill McPeak, Jerry Nuzum and Bob Davis.

President Gallen announces that a special musical program is being arranged. "Peck" Mills will be among the entertainers.

Tomorrow's banquet is a $5-a-plate stag affair and the proceeds will go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

GUEST SPEAKER — Johnny Michelosen, former Pitt grid star and now head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, will be among the guest speakers at the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club tomorrow at 6 p. m. at the K. of C. Home. Michelosen was formerly assistant to Coach Jock Sutherland when the latter tutored the Steelers. Approximately 250 are expected to attend tomorrow's benefit affair.

Wagner, 77, Has Baseball "Itch"

Old Honus To Mark His Birthday Today

CARNEGIE, Pa., Feb. 23 (INS) — Honus Wagner, baseball's all-time all-star shortstop, will be 77 years old tomorrow and he has his annual spring attack of baseball fever.

Old Honus, who will serve his 19th season as part-time coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, isn't going to San Bernardino, Cal., for spring training. But at his Carnegie home today, he said:

"The boys have been catching ball in front of the house all week. It's just grand. I wish I could be out there again, but I'll wait 'till the Pirates come back to Pittsburgh."

Wagner said his birthday caught him by surprise. He explained: "Seems like I just finished answering all the Christmas cards and letters, and then the birthday mail started."

Honus signed his first big league contract in 1897 and played his last game in 1917, but doctors tell him that, except for his battered legs, he has the physique of a 35-year-old man.

Looking back, has Wagner any special wish? Why to be able to play ball again, of course.

"I guess I liked that better than anything I did in my life," he observed, wistfully.

Fritzie Pruden Wallops Janiro

Substitute Victor In New York Fight

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP) — Fritzie Pruden, 24 year old sub getting his big chance, chopped Tony Janiro's baby face into a blotch of blood tonight to upset the 11 to 5 favorite on a unanimous 10-round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden. Janiro weighed 154½, Pruden 147½.

Janiro's battered nose ran red from the first round on and he bled from a very bad cut under his left eye in the 10th round of the gory struggle. Referee Ray Miller looked like a butcher as he came out of the ring.

There was absolutely no doubt about the winner of this contest. Judge Dave Stewart had it 8-2, Judge Jack Gordon 7-3 and Referee Miller 7-2-1. The Associated Press card agreed with Miller.

Called into action when the State Athletic Commission declared Jimmy Flood "unfit for action" yesterday, Pruden took charge from the first bell.

Bob Ward Honored

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP) — Bob Ward, All-America guard from Elizabeth, N. J., tonight for the third straight year was voted by his teammates as the outstanding University of Maryland football player.

The 180-pound lineman received the honor at the team's annual banquet.

He also received a special achievement award from the Terrapin Club, university alumni group.

Ward is now a senior and has another year of eligibility.

Davis And Kasson Reach Finals In Parsons Tourney

Bayard And Thomas Quints Eliminated

PARSONS, W. Va., Feb. 23 — Kasson and Davis became finalists in the Section No. 12 Class "B" basketball tournament tonight by eliminating Bayard and Thomas in opening round games on the Parsons High School court.

Kasson defeated Bayard in the opening game, 43 to 39, while the Davis Wildcats clawed Thomas, its Tucker county rival in the second contest, 43-41.

Johnny Raese was the "big gun" for Davis with 10 field goals and 26 points to his credit. Danny Gennantonio paced Thomas with an even dozen markers. The score was knotted at 21, 26, 27 and 36.

Two field goals in rapid succession by D. Poling in the last minute of play broke a 39-39 deadlock and gave Kasson its victory in the opening game of the tournament.

The score was tied at 9, 23, 37 and 39.

Poling was as hot as a firecracker for the Barbour countians and had 25 points to his credit. He racked up 10 fields and messed 5 of 6 free throws. Evans was Bayard's high scorer with 11 points. Bayard trailed at the half, 23-14.

(End Of Season)

Allegany High School handed Fort Hill High School's floormen their second defeat of the week last night before a capacity crowd at Campobello and this setback coupled with Barton's victory over Beall at Frostburg threw the W.M.I. League championship race into a tie on the final day of the season. The final score of the game at the AHS gym was 54-40.

Barton and AHS have 8-2 records and coaches and principals of these schools will meet with Arthur F. Ramey at the Board of Education Building today at 9:30 a. m., to arrange for the playoff game to determine the championship of the six club circuit.

Allegany duplicated Barton's stunt of Tuesday night by taking the lead shortly after the opening whistle and holding it throughout the game. The quarter scores were 13-10, 25-20, and 39-27.

Frank Phares, Allegany center, emerged from a scoring slump and came through in the clutch with 20 points on six field goals and 8-12 fouls. Eddie Landis appeared to be the "whole show" for Fort Hill with 19 points to his credit on seven double-deckers and 5-8 fouls.

Ronnie Sisk, Phares and Dick Widdows played outstanding ball for Coach Walter Bowers' aggregation.

The victory put AHS in the .500 class with a 10-10 season record and enabled the Blue and White to finish the league campaign in third place with a 6-4 mark.

Fort Hill won the series opener on its home court, 40-32. Lineups:

Franklin High Trips Vikings

Earns Right To Play Moorefield Tonight

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 23—Coach Robert Harper's Franklin High School basketeers forged to the finals in the Section No. 15 Class "B" tournament tonight by upsetting the Petersburg High Vikings, 58 to 55.

Petersburg held a 16-15 edge in the first quarter but the Pendleton Countians grabbed the lead at intermission, 32-27 and were out in front by two points when the third quarter closed, 45-43.

Four players made their exit on personal fouls — Lambert, Hartman and Koontz of Franklin and Oates of Petersburg.

Landes paced the Vikings with 21 points while Koontz led Franklin with 17.

Franklin plays Moorefield's Yellow Jackets in Saturday night's finale at 9 o'clock.

In the consolation final, Petersburg will play Mathias which eliminated Circleville by the score of 52-30 in tonight's opener. Dove and Parker with 17 and 11 markers headed the Mathias scorers. The quarter scores were 18-3, 29-13 and 37-21 with Mathias in front. Lineups:

Tichnell Tops Attack With 22 Tallies As Barton Bags 17th Win

FROSTBURG, Feb. 23 — Barton High School caught up with Fort Hill in the W.M.I. League championship race tonight by whipping Beall High School, 61 to 44, while the Sentinels were losing to Allegany High at Cumberland.

Barton went into a first place tie with Fort Hill, thus necessitating a playoff for the W.M.I. League championship.

Coach Johnny Thomas' Braves got away to a 12-5 lead at the quarter and held the upper hand throughout. The score was 35-17 at halftime and 53-31 at the close of the third stanza.

Arnold Tichnell was the big point maker for Barton with 22 points to his credit. Tim Clark had 13 and Bill Kirk 12. Duncan and Arnone headed Beall with 14 and 13 markers.

Beall played without the services of Capt. Don Blank who was ill.

Laurel Race Meet To Open March 23

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP)—Laurel will open Maryland's 1951 racing season with a 24-day meet beginning March 23, the State Racing Commission announced today.

The commission also approved the splitting between Laurel and Pimlico of the 25 days formerly given to Havre de Grace.

Pimlico and Laurel bought the Havre de Grace stock when owners of the latter decided to quit the business. Bowie stockholders couldn't agree on participation in the stock purchase deal.

The commission said Laurel's fall meet will run from October 10 through October 25.

Bowie's spring meeting will open April 21 and continue through May 2. The track will close the racing year with a November 17-December program.

Pimlico gets 19 spring days—May 7 through May 26—and 18 days in the fall—October 27 through November 16.

Duke's Dick Groat Breaks Scoring Mark

Durham, N. C., Feb. 23 (AP)—Dick Groat, Duke's All-American candidate, smashed the national collegiate major individual scoring record for a single season in leading his Blue Devil mates to a rousing 84-72 Southern Conference basketball triumph over North Carolina's Tar Heels here tonight.

Groat burned the nets for 29 points to crack the all-time high of 740 points set by William and Mary's Chet Giermak two years ago. He ran his total for the year to 746 points.

U. S. Skaters Lose

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 23 (AP) — The United States defending titleholders, the brother and sister team of Karol and Peter Kennedy of Seattle, was dethroned tonight as the world's figure skating championship pair.

The new champions, Ria Baran and Paul Falk, of Western Germany won by a narrow margin over the U. S. pair in the competition at the Milan ice palace.

Oliver Leads By Stroke In Houston Open

Leader Posts 134, Jim Deal Is Second

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 23 (AP)—Ed Oliver, the chubby Seattle pro, celebrated his ninth wedding anniversary today by taking a one-stroke lead at the midway mark of the $10,000 Houston Open.

Ed Oliver

Oliver fired a six-under par 66 for a 36-hole 134 that gave him a narrow edge over Houston's Jim Deal, the former shot put champion who finished strong with a two-under 70 for a second round 135 total.

Deal, runner-up by one stroke in yesterday's opening round, was two over par on the front nine today but was four under on the backside.

Oliver said he just played "average golf." Deal said his first nine troubles found him unable to "concentrate."

Oliver's pair of 33's on the 6967-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course were based on six-one-under holes, including each of the four par-5 holes.

Trailing Deal at 136 were Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., John Weitzel, Harrisburg, Pa., and Marty Furgol, Long Beach, Calif.

Tied at 137 were Jimmie Clark, Laguna Beach, Calif., the first round leader who went nine strokes higher today with a one-over 73, Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa.

Oliver, with his iron shots working smoothly, got three of his one-under holes with eight foot putts.

Chuck Scally, Pittsburgh, Pa., got the tournament's first hole-in-one, connecting with a No. 9 iron shot on the 145-yard second. He finished with a two-under 70 that gave him a 141 total.

The bulky field of 162 players were cut to the 60 low scorers, plus ties and 10 amateurs. It took a two-over 146 for the pros to stay in the last two rounds. Amateurs needed 149.

MINOR LEAGUE PREXY TO KEEP GAME ALIVE

AP Newsfeatures

EBENSBURG, Pa. — Elmer M. Daily, senior prexy of the minor leagues, believes every effort should be made to keep baseball alive during the present emergency.

Daily, starting his 27th year at the helm of the Class C Middle-Atlantic League, practices what he preaches.

Hopes For 6 Clubs

Right now his own eight team loop faces a shutdown. It already has lost three teams but Daily figures to muster at least six clubs just to keep the spark alive.

Put it this way he says:

"If it was patriotic to play baseball during World War II, why not now?"

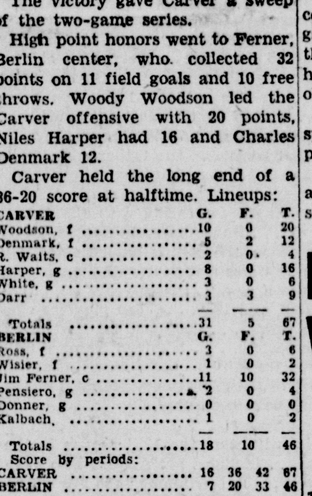
But don't get Daily wrong. He loves baseball and doesn't want the sport to fizzle out. He knows what a job it is to get started again.

For instance, the Class D Pennsylvania Association circuit he organized folded after several years. During the depression the M-A loop operated on a shoestring. Then World War II came along and the league did an elfoldo for three years.

A Good Motto

Each time Daily survived the rough going. His moto: "A little is better than nothing at all."

To keep baseball hopes alive, Daily contends that the major league clubs should provide some sort of insurance in the form of players or cash to the minor loops.



ELMER M. DAILY
Minors Are Grass Roots

The Middle Atlantic League once was a big farm system of the majors but too many parent organizations divorced themselves in recent years.

"If it wasn't for some civic organizations and a few others the M-A would be dead right now," asserts Daily.

"One thing the major league should remember is that we (the minor leagues) are the grass roots. If we fold so will they."

250 Will Attend Dapper Dan 3rd Annual Banquet Sunday

Michelosen And Ball To Attend; Affair Is Set For K. Of C. Home

Approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club Sunday at 6 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Home, Paul J. Gallen, president, announced last night.

Jerry Molloy, popular basketball coach and official from Hoboken, N. J., who has refereed LaSalle home games here in past years will be the toastmaster on the occasion.

Heading the list of sports celebrities who are expected to be here for the affair are Johnny Michelosen, head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League; Herman Ball, head coach of the Washington Redskins and former Allegany High school grid mentor; Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette who is national president of the Dapper Dans; Vincent Farrell, prominent basketball official from Newark, N. J., and Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, retired major league pitcher from Lonaconing and member of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Ball will be accompanied by Tommy Mont, assistant coach, Harry Dowda, Redskins' back, and possibly Bill Dudley, one of the outstanding stars in pro football.

Accompanying Michelosen will be Michael Nixon, backfield coach of the Steelers; Charles "Chick" Cherundolo, assistant coach, and three players, namely Bill McPeak, Jerry Nuzum and Bob Davis.

President Gallen announces that a special musical program is being arranged. "Peck" Mills will be among the entertainers.

Tomorrow's banquet is a $5-a-plate stag affair and the proceeds will go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

GUEST SPEAKER — Johnny Michelosen, former Pitt grid star and now head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, will be among the guest speakers at the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club tomorrow at 6 p. m. at the K. of C. Home. Michelosen was formerly assistant to Coach Jock Sutherland when the latter tutored the Steelers. Approximately 250 are expected to attend tomorrow's benefit affair.

Carver Cagers Defeat Berlin

Locals Score 10th Win Of Year, 67-46

Carver High School's basketeers scored their 10th victory in 12 starts by defeating Berlin (Pa.) High School last night on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 67-46.

The victory gave Carver a sweep of the two-game series.

High point honors went to Ferner, Berlin center, who collected 32 points on 11 field goals and 10 free throws. Woody Woodson led the Carver offensive with 20 points, Niles Harper had 16 and Charles Denmark 12.

Carver held the long end of a 36-20 score at halftime. Lineups:

Wagner, 77, Has Baseball "Itch"

Old Honus To Mark His Birthday Today

CARNEGIE, Pa., Feb. 23 (INS) — Honus Wagner, baseball's all-time all-star shortstop, will be 77 years old tomorrow and he has his annual spring attack of baseball fever.

Old Honus, who will serve his 19th season as part-time coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, isn't going to San Bernardino, Cal., for spring training. But at his Carnegie home today, he said:

"The boys have been catching ball in front of the house all week. It's just grand. I wish I could be out there again, but I'll wait 'till the Pirates come back to Pittsburgh."

Wagner said his birthday caught him by surprise. He explained: "Seems like I just finished answering all the Christmas cards and letters, and then the birthday mail started."

Honus signed his first big league contract in 1897 and played his last game in 1917, but doctors tell him that, except for his battered legs, he has the physique of a 35-year-old man.

Looking back, has Wagner any special wish? Why to be able to play ball again, of course.

"I guess I liked that better than anything I did in my life," he observed, wistfully.

Fritzie Pruden Wallops Janiro

Substitute Victor In New York Fight

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP) — Fritzie Pruden, 24 year old sub getting his big chance, chopped Tony Janiro's baby face into a blotch of blood tonight to upset the 11 to 5 favorite on a unanimous 10-round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden. Janiro weighed 154½, Pruden 147½.

Janiro's battered nose ran red from the first round on and he bled from a very bad cut under his left eye in the 10th round of the gory struggle. Referee Ray Miller looked like a butcher as he came out of the ring.

There was absolutely no doubt about the winner of this contest. Judge Dave Stewart had it 8-2, Judge Jack Gordon 7-3 and Referee Miller 7-2-1. The Associated Press card agreed with Miller.

Called into action when the State Athletic Commission declared Jimmy Flood "unfit for action" yesterday, Pruden took charge from the first bell.

Davis And Kasson Reach Finals In Parsons Tourney

Bayard And Thomas Quints Eliminated

PARSONS, W. Va., Feb. 23 — Kasson and Davis became finalists in the Section No. 12 Class "B" basketball tournament tonight by eliminating Bayard and Thomas in opening round games on the Parsons High School court.

Kasson defeated Bayard in the opening game, 43 to 39, while the Davis Wildcats clawed Thomas, its Tucker county rival in the second contest, 43-41.

Johnny Raese was the "big gun" for Davis with 10 field goals and 26 points to his credit. Danny Gennantonio paced Thomas with an even dozen markers. The score was knotted at 21, 26, 27 and 36.

Two field goals in rapid succession by D. Poling in the last minute of play broke a 39-39 deadlock and gave Kasson its victory in the opening game of the tournament.

The score was tied at 9, 23, 37 and 39.

Poling was as hot as a firecracker for the Barbour countians and had 25 points to his credit. He racked up 10 fields and messed 5 of 6 free throws. Evans was Bayard's high scorer with 11 points. Bayard trailed at the half, 23-14.

Davis and Kasson will clash in the championship game here Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. Lineups:

(End Of Season)

Allegany High School handed Fort Hill High School's floormen their second defeat of the week last night before a capacity crowd at Campobello and this setback coupled with Barton's victory over Beall at Frostburg threw the W.M.I. League championship race into a tie on the final day of the season. The final score of the game at the AHS gym was 54-40.

Barton and AHS have 8-2 records and coaches and principals of these schools will meet with Arthur P. Ramey at the Board of Education Building today at 9:30 a. m., to arrange for the playoff game to determine the championship of the six club circuit.

Allegany duplicated Barton's stunt of Tuesday night by taking the lead shortly after the opening whistle and holding it throughout the game. The quarter scores were 13-10, 25-20, and 39-27.

Frank Phares, Allegany center, emerged from a scoring slump and came through in the clutch with 20 points on six field goals and 8-12 fouls. Eddie Landis appeared to be the "whole show" for Fort Hill with 19 points to his credit on seven double-deckers and 5-8 fouls.

Ronnie Sisk, Phares and Dick Widdows played outstanding ball for Coach Walter Bowers' aggregation.

The victory put AHS in the .500 class with a 10-10 season record and enabled the Blue and White to finish the league campaign in third place with a 6-4 mark.

Franklin High Trips Vikings

Earns Right To Play Moorefield Tonight

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 23—Coach Robert Harper's Franklin High School basketeers forged to the finals in the Section No. 15 Class "B" tournament tonight by upsetting the Petersburg High Vikings, 58 to 55.

Petersburg held a 16-15 edge in the first quarter but the Pendleton Countians grabbed the lead at intermission, 32-27 and were out in front by two points when the third quarter closed, 45-43.

Four players made their exit on personal fouls — Lambert, Hartman and Koontz of Franklin and Oates of Petersburg.

Landes paced the Vikings with 21 points while Koontz led Franklin with 17.

Franklin plays Moorefield's Yellow Jackets in Saturday night's finale at 9 o'clock.

In the consolation final, Petersburg will play Mathias which eliminated Circleville by the score of 52-30 in tonight's opener. Dove and Parker with 17 and 11 markers headed the Mathias scorers. The quarter scores were 18-3, 29-13 and 37-21 with Mathias in front. Lineups:

Petersburg High Boasts Unbeaten Girls' Cage Team

Clem Clower's Sextet Won Eleven, Tied One

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 23 – Peterburg High boasts the first undefeated girls' basketball team in the history of the school.

The 1950-51 sextet, coached by Clement Clower, lowered the curtain last week with a 42-34 decision over Franklin who battled the locals to a 25-25 tie earlier in the season. Petersburg's girls won the 11 other games on their schedule.

This is the third undefeated team since athletics were inaugurated at Petersburg in 1924. In 1927-28 the boys went through 21 games without a loss and in 1940 the baseball team turned in a 12-0 record.

Out of a squad of twelve players carried this season, only one will be lost through graduation—Stump, 6-foot-2 guard who captained the team. Returning will be Marge Porter, Betty Brill, Phyllis Smith, at forwards; Nina Thorne and Anne Snell, starting guards, and the following other lettermen—Joyce Alexander, Maxine Bergdoll, Martha Parker, Phyllis Alt and Lorraine Shook.

Betty Brill paced the scorers as she jumped her total 101 points over her total of last season when she was a first string forward. All of these girls have played together since coming into high school.

In the four years that Clem Clower has coached his girls' teams have won 32, lost 15 and tied three games, as follows: 1947-48 (4-9); 1948-49 (7-2-2); 1949-50 (10-4) and 1950-51 (11-0-1).

Four Accept Bids To NIT At Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Four of the nation's major basketball teams, St. John's of Brooklyn, North Carolina State, Arizona and Brigham Young, today gave the National Invitation Tournament a solid vote of confidence by accepting bids to the 14th annual meet in Madison Square Garden.

Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Kansas State, Cincinnati, La Salle, Fordham, Manhattan College, Niagara, Canisius, Siena, and the winner of the Ohio Valley Conference tournament being held this week, are understood to be the leading possibilities for the other eight berths in the 12-team competition starting March 10.

At the same time as the announcements were made here, Bradley's seventh ranking quintet accepted an invitation to appear in a Honolulu tourney, March 13-16, and De Paul University announced it was dropping plans for an invitational tournament of its own in Chicago between March 8 and 16.

The N.I.T. opens with afternoon and night doubleheaders March 10 and finishes on March 17.

Eleven To Vie In Rich Derby

Winner Gets $81,500 In Santa Anita Race

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 23 (AP)—Rough 'N Tumble, a Kentucky colt never out of the money in seven starts as a two-year-old, will be the favorite to win the top money in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby tomorrow.

Eleven three-year-olds—nine colts and a pair of fillies—were entered today in the 14th running of the Derby. And while a wide open scramble is expected, Rough 'N Tumble figures to be the popular choice to collect the net $81,500 for the winner.

The favorite, winner of the Derby Trial 10 days ago, races for Mrs. Frances Genter of Minneapolis, who bought the youngster from breeder, Dr. Charles E. Hagyard of Lexington, Ky.

Arrayed against Rough 'N Tumble, barring a turn to poor weather and an off track will be:

The K. T. Potter Ranch's Interpretation, W. C. Martin's Phil D., Mrs. Nat Goldstone's Gold Capitol, William Goetz's Lion, Frank Frankel's Frendswood, Clifford Mooers' Aegean, the Owl Stable's Piquancy, I. J. Collins' Mohammedan, all colts; and the two fillies, Edward S. Moore's Green Pass, and Isadoor Bieber's Nothirdchance.

Upwards of 50,000 spectators are expected for the mile and one-eighth fixture. Post time is tentatively set for 7:45 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time). The event will be broadcast, starting at 7:30 p. m. (EST) by the American Broadcasting Company.

The colts will carry 118 pounds, the fillies 113.

Government Places Million Tax Lien Against Sollazzo

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—The government placed a huge income tax lien today against Salvatore T. Sollazzo, who allegedly spent thousands to fix big-time basketball games.

With interest and penalties, the government's claim amounts to $1,128,493.

The effect of the lien was to freeze Sollazzo's assets until the government can collect whatever it may be entitled to.

Sollazzo is being held without bail, accused of bribing cage stars from three New York colleges to fix basketball games. The colleges involved are Long Island University, City College of New York, and New York University.

Eight players or ex-players are said to have admitted taking $25,000 in bribes for their part in the alleged fix.

The income tax lien lists allegedly unpaid taxes running into hundreds of thousands of dollars for each of the years from 1943 through 1947.

There was no indication from the government as to the source of Sollazzo's income during those years. He is a jewelry manufacturer.

The Internal Revenue Bureau, it was learned, went over Sollazzo's income status months ago, long before the big basketball scandal broke here last weekend.

Upset Marks Hialeah Race

Johns Jov Pays $20 To Win Miami Purse

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—J. A. Kinard's Johns Joy, unable to find the winner's circle since last April, broke that losing streak with authority when he scored an upset triumph in the featured Miami Purse at Hialeah Park today.

The five-year-old son of Bull Dog-My Auntie made it a front-running decision, under topweight of 121 pounds, and swept past the judges a length and a quarter before Gustave Ring's Jam Session.

Spring Hill Farm's Nell K, the favorite and lone mare in the field of eight, was third, a neck farther back. Fourth went to Mrs. Colin MacLeod's Torr.

Aboard Johns Joy, which went the six furlongs in a fast 1.10 4/5, was Don Scurlock, brother of Ovie, who earlier in the day won on Dream Champ. The Kinard speedster paid $20, $8.80 and $3.80 across the board.

Jam Session, which handily whipped Johns Joy a week ago, was slow getting started, then moved fast through the stretch. However, he found Johns Joy too tough to handle this time.

Nell K, highweight for the $15,000 Black Helen Handicap next week, simply found the pace too killing, and weakened after giving chase to the leader to the eighth pole. The others never figured prominently in the race, though Sulleman had a bit of trouble soon after the break.

The attendance was 18,145.

Petersburg High Boasts Unbeaten Girls' Cage Team

Clem Clower's Sextet Won Eleven, Tied One

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 23 – Peterburg High boasts the first undefeated girls' basketball team in the history of the school.

The 1950-51 sextet, coached by Clement Clower, lowered the curtain last week with a 42-34 decision over Franklin who battled the locals to a 25-25 tie earlier in the season. Petersburg's girls won the 11 other games on their schedule.

This is the third undefeated team since athletics were inaugurated at Petersburg in 1924. In 1927-28 the boys went through 21 games without a loss and in 1940 the baseball team turned in a 12-0 record.

Out of a squad of twelve players carried this season, only one will be lost through graduation—Stump, 6-foot-2 guard who captained the team. Returning will be Marge Porter, Betty Brill, Phyllis Smith, at forwards; Nina Thorne and Anne Snell, starting guards, and the following other lettermen—Joyce Alexander, Maxine Bergdoll, Martha Parker, Phyllis Alt and Lorraine Shook.

Betty Brill paced the scorers as she jumped her total 101 points over her total of last season when she was a first string forward. All of these girls have played together since coming into high school.

In the four years that Clem Clower has coached his girls' teams have won 32, lost 15 and tied three games, as follows: 1947-48 (4-9); 1948-49 (7-2-2); 1949-50 (10-4) and 1950-51 (11-0-1).

Four Accept Bids To NIT At Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Four of the nation's major basketball teams, St. John's of Brooklyn, North Carolina State, Arizona and Brigham Young, today gave the National Invitation Tournament a solid vote of confidence by accepting bids to the 14th annual meet in Madison Square Garden.

Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Kansas State, Cincinnati, La Salle, Fordham, Manhattan College, Niagara, Canisius, Siena, and the winner of the Ohio Valley Conference tournament being held this week, are understood to be the leading possibilities for the other eight berths in the 12-team competition starting March 10.

At the same time as the announcements were made here, Bradley's seventh ranking quintet accepted an invitation to appear in a Honolulu tourney, March 13-16, and De Paul University announced it was dropping plans for an invitational tournament of its own in Chicago between March 8 and 16.

The N.I.T. opens with afternoon and night doubleheaders March 10 and finishes on March 17.

Eleven To Vie In Rich Derby

Winner Gets $81,500 In Santa Anita Race

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 23 (AP)—Rough 'N Tumble, a Kentucky colt never out of the money in seven starts as a two-year-old, will be the favorite to win the top money in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby tomorrow.

Eleven three-year-olds—nine colts and a pair of fillies—were entered today in the 14th running of the Derby. And while a wide open scramble is expected, Rough 'N Tumble figures to be the popular choice to collect the net $81,500 for the winner.

The favorite, winner of the Derby Trial 10 days ago, races for Mrs. Frances Genter of Minneapolis, who bought the youngster from breeder, Dr. Charles E. Hagyard of Lexington, Ky.

Arrayed against Rough 'N Tumble, barring a turn to poor weather and an off track will be:

The K. T. Potter Ranch's Interpretation, W. C. Martin's Phil D., Mrs. Nat Goldstone's Gold Capitol, William Goetz's Lion, Frank Frankel's Frendswood, Clifford Mooers' Aegean, the Owl Stable's Piquancy, I. J. Collins' Mohammedan, all colts; and the two fillies, Edward S. Moore's Green Pass, and Isadoor Bieber's Nothirdchance.

Upwards of 50,000 spectators are expected for the mile and one-eighth fixture. Post time is tentatively set for 7:45 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time). The event will be broadcast, starting at 7:30 p. m. (EST) by the American Broadcasting Company.

The colts will carry 118 pounds, the fillies 113.

Government Places Million Tax Lien Against Sollazzo

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—The government placed a huge income tax lien today against Salvatore T. Sollazzo, who allegedly spent thousands to fix big-time basketball games.

With interest and penalties, the government's claim amounts to $1,128,493.

The effect of the lien was to freeze Sollazzo's assets until the government can collect whatever it may be entitled to.

Sollazzo is being held without bail, accused of bribing cage stars from three New York colleges to fix basketball games. The colleges involved are Long Island University, City College of New York, and New York University.

Eight players or ex-players are said to have admitted taking $25,000 in bribes for their part in the alleged fix.

The income tax lien lists allegedly unpaid taxes running into hundreds of thousands of dollars for each of the years from 1943 through 1947.

There was no indication from the government as to the source of Sollazzo's income during those years. He is a jewelry manufacturer.

The Internal Revenue Bureau, it was learned, went over Sollazzo's income status months ago, long before the big basketball scandal broke here last weekend.

Turn Back Seniors By Score Of 44-36

LaSalle High School's Jayvees scored their 16th victory of the season yesterday afternoon, defeating LaSalle's Seniors on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 44-36.

The Seniors led at the quarter, 11-2, and at the half, 17-15, but the junior varsity forged to the fore in the third quarter, 35-29, and was never headed.

The Jayvees have lost seven games.

Andrews and Christ sparked the victors with 12 points each. Lueck topped the losers with 10 markers. Hudson of the Seniors was ejected on personal fouls. Lineups:

Upset Marks Hialeah Race

Johns Jov Pays $20 To Win Miami Purse

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—J. A. Kinard's Johns Joy, unable to find the winner's circle since last April, broke that losing streak with authority when he scored an upset triumph in the featured Miami Purse at Hialeah Park today.

The five-year-old son of Bull Dog-My Auntie made it a front-running decision, under topweight of 121 pounds, and swept past the judges a length and a quarter before Gustave Ring's Jam Session.

Spring Hill Farm's Nell K, the favorite and lone mare in the field of eight, was third, a neck farther back. Fourth went to Mrs. Colin MacLeod's Torr.

Aboard Johns Joy, which went the six furlongs in a fast 1.10 4/5, was Don Scurlock, brother of Ovie, who earlier in the day won on Dream Champ. The Kinard speedster paid $20, $8.80 and $3.80 across the board.

Jam Session, which handily whipped Johns Joy a week ago, was slow getting started, then moved fast through the stretch. However, he found Johns Joy too tough to handle this time.

Nell K, highweight for the $15,000 Black Helen Handicap next week, simply found the pace too killing, and weakened after giving chase to the leader to the eighth pole. The others never figured prominently in the race, though Sulieman had a bit of trouble soon after the break.

The attendance was 18,145.

Eddie O'Hara Summoned By Grand Jury

Veteran Racing Man Will Appear Monday

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP)—L. Edmund O'Hara, deposed general manager of Bowie race track, today was summoned to appear before the Baltimore grand jury next Monday morning.

The action was taken after O'Hara had conferred for an hour with state's attorney Anselm Sodaro about testimony O'Hara gave before a Senate Crime Investigating

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23 (INS) — Anna Pierangeli, the enchanting young Italian actress, the star of "Teresa," arrives here in a few days. She'll co-star with Stewart Granger in "The Light Touch." He was taken out of "Scaramouche" to make this possible.

In "Light Touch" (part of which will be made in Sicily and Tunis) Pierangeli plays a young artist who falls into the hands of an attractive young crook (Granger). He uses her talents to copy old masterpieces.

After two weeks on location in Italy and Africa Anna and Stewart come back to M-G-M to make the interiors. Richard Brooks, who wrote the story, will also direct. It's a Pandro Berman production.

When I interviewed John Agar not long ago he told me he was seriously interested in his singing career. Now it looks as if it's liable to pop sooner than he, or anyone, expected if David Selznick releases him to co-star with Ella Logan in the musical version of "My Sister Eileen" which Freddie Finklehoffe will produce on Broadway.

Finklehoffe is shot with luck these days. Everything he touches turns to box-office gold. He is cleaning up on "At War With The Army" with Martin and Lewis. And he has another strike in "Affair Of State" with Celeste Holm in New York.

Another Hollywood name up for the revived "Eileen" is Angela Green, the social Mrs. Stuart Martin in private life.

I can now tell you where I got the story years ago that Paulette Goddard had married Charlie Chaplin on a boat. I have the permission of the one who told me. I met him at the Long Beach Veterans Hospital when Lou Costello, Bud Abbott and I went there to give a show.

His name is Billy Clark. He walked up to me and said, "I'm Billy Clark, the one who wrote you that letter that Paulette Goddard had married Charlie Chaplin on the way to Hong Kong. I was working on the boat."

"May I tell you gave me the story?" I asked.

"You certainly may," he said.

At that time, all the other newspapers denied my story and said Paulette and Charlie were not married.

Chatter in Hollywood: Is Dr. Lew Morrill carrying a torch for Rhonda Fleming? I'd say he is — and a big one!

I am told that Rhonda and John Payne went to the Bantam Cock for dinner. A little later in walked Dr. Morrill with Sybil Merritt, the girl who was with Robert Taylor last week.

Morrill said to the maitre d', "I hear my ex-girl friend is here." He was told she had just left, and his retort was, "Well, we're finished anyway."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Nicky Hilton not only got in the newspapers after his Mocambo fight, he lost his girl friend, Rosita Moreno. She's told M-G-M she's not going out with him any more.

Reports are that Greta Garbo is ailing and has gone to New York to consult a doctor.

Ginger Rogers is at La Quinta. So far, no Steve Cochran, but the weekend is young.

Phil Regan, Jr., and his bride of a week, Lou Ann McNutt, were received at the White House by President Truman.

Alfalfa, famous as a child star in "Our Gang" comedies, will play the boy friend of Dolores Costello's daughter in "The Great Man."

It pays to be an actor. Richard Todd, who was in "The Hasty Heart," has bought himself a twenty-five room 16th century mansion with swimming pool, in Berkshire, England.

Johnny Meyer has been commuting between New York and Washington and is being mysterious about it.

Dennis O'Keefe is another actor who has deserted Hollywood for TV. He is readying a who-dunit show for a weekly program.

That's all tday. See you Monday.

Legion Post To Celebrate Anniversary

Initiation, Dance Are Feature Of Event

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, is making plans for the 32nd anniversary celebration of the organization March 17, according to Commander Albert M. Kerns, Sr.

The post activities committee in charge of arrangements will report on the program for the Legion's birthday at the Tuesday meeting.

The committee is comprised of William P. Claar, chairman; Robert Mackert, T. Raymond Farrell, Philmore Fleming, S. A. Graham, Joseph Challinor, Raymond Settle, Carl Kimble, Howard Spiker, George Buskey, Norman Lohr, Robert Wilson, Truman Fuller, Ralph Wilson, Edward Fields, William Coble and Thomas Thompson.

The first steps towards organization of the Legion were taken at a caucus in Paris March 15 to 17, 1919. A temporary constitution was adopted, temporary officers elected and a general policy was formulated at a caucus in St. Louis in May, 1919.

Permanent organization was affected and a national constitution and by-laws adopted at the first national convention in Minneapolis, Minn., November 10 to 12, 1919.

The American Legion has changed the eligibility for membership to include honorably discharged veterans of World War II; those who remained in the service after the cessation of hostilities and those honorably discharged veterans in the service since the start of the Korean war on July 25, 1950.

Fort Cumberland Post's observance of the anniversary will be held on Saturday, March 17, with an initiation of new members, a floor show and a dance.

Wood's Contract To Be Extended

The Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Corporation is making plans to extend the contract of Richardson Wood, New York industrial promotion consultant for one year.

Harold W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said Wood and the corporation have agreed on general terms.

Contents of the contract will not be divulged until a formal agreement is signed, Smith added.

The contract will be between the corporation and Wood, and not between the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee as in the six-month pact just ended.

The committee was appointed by the Mayor and Council and the County Commissioners to handle under the requirements of law, the $10,000 paid to Wood for the six-month term.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor and Council, the County Commissioners and the Industrial Promotion Corporation will be held March 2 at 7:30 p. m. in the Mayor's office, City Hall, to discuss the employment of Wood.

Bus Drivers, Union To Discuss Contract

The negotiating committee of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union, AFL, will meet with officials of the Cumberland Transit Lines today relative to a new contract.

James H. Morrison, president of the union, said the meeting will be held at 10 a. m. in the office of the company.

A guaranteed annual wage of $3,700 offered by the firm a week ago was rejected by the union. The union's contract with the company expires next Wednesday at midnight and Morrison said the membership has instructed the negotiating committee, following a vote, that there will be no extension of the pact.

Morrison declared that a general membership meeting of the union will be held Tuesday at 2 a. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall to discuss the action taken at todays session.

Color Film Tonight

A color movie film based on Science and the Bible will be shown at the meeting of Tri-State Youth for Christ today at 8 p. m. in the Salvation Army Citadel.

City Will Retain DST This Summer

Under proposed Senate Bill 145, Cumberland's controversial Daylight Savings Time question will go to the voters in the 1952 general election.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that the Maryland Municipal League sent him a copy of the measure which provides that the DST ordinance will remain on the ordinance list here but must appear on the ballot in 1952.

That means, the Mayor said, the city will have fast time again this summer.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is advising people the best way to help them?

Answer: Not if they have really serious problems, since no one can solve these for another. The last few years have seen the development of "non-directive psychotherapy," in which counsellors in colleges and elsewhere allow people to talk out their difficulties but give no advice beyond what helps them to understand themselves. In a report of 32 cases treated by this method, Drs. Emory L. Cowen and Arthur W. Combs of Syracuse University report relatively complete results in 60% and not wholly satisfactory progress in another 30%. Counsellors, however, should have professional training.

Should you keep a feeble-minded child at home?

Answer: Not if you have other children, for the reason that the harm done to them will more than outweigh the good you can do for the child whose helplessness makes so strong a claim on your sympathies. A really defective child will get but little more from anything you can do for him than from first-rate institutional care, yet will inevitably make demands on you that will force you to neglect your other children. Also, unjustified as these are, the jibes of playmates may damage your normal children's self-esteem beyond repair.

Are inquisitiveness and curiosity the same?

Answer: I do not think so, although the distinction may be somewhat arbitrary. As I see it, an inquisitive person wishes to know other people's private affairs in order to pass judgment on them, if not to interfere in them, while one who is merely curious is interested in the events of your life only as facts, as he would be in the working of an automobile engine. The "snooper" is looking for a chance to feel superior to you, while the seeker after knowledge looks for what he can learn from you, and tries to understand your mistakes rather than condemn them.

Tydings' "Surprise Statement" Brings Blast From Miss Adkins

SALISBURY, Md.—Miss Bertha Adkins, Republican National Committeewoman from Maryland, yesterday issued the following statement.

"The voters of Maryland will resent the reflection upon their intelligence in the surprising statement of Millard E. Tydings before a subcommittee of the United States Senate.

"Ex-Senator Tydings now claims he was beaten last November by last-minute campaign literature. This statement contrasts strangely with the interview he gave to the United States News and World Report immediately following the election. Then he attributed his defeat to a factional fight within the Democrat party in Maryland.

Tydings Not Preferred

"Does Mr. Tydings feel compelled to blame his defeat on somebody—anybody—rather than himself? Has it ever occurred to him that Maryland voters, to the tune of a 43,111 plurality, preferred Senator John Marshall Butler?

"Let Mr. Tydings honestly face the facts. The election reflected the desire of Maryland citizens for a change. Our Republican Governor, Theodore R. McKeldin, received the biggest vote given any gubernatorial candidate—Democrat or Republican—in our state's history. Representative Glenn Beall's plurality of 27,178 was the largest he ever received. Representative Edward T. Miller's majority was 8,910 compared to 2,600 in 1948. General James P. Devereux carried the Second District by 3,000 votes against a Democrat plurality of 22,922 in 1948.

"The people of Maryland are intelligent, independent voters who want good government—and they vote their convictions. If the election for Senator were held tomorrow, I am convinced the plurality of the Republican candidate would be even larger than Senator Butler's because of the obviously inept and scandal-ridden administration of President Truman.

Not Distributed Here

"Mr. Tydings said the pamphlet, 'From the Record', was sent into 500,000 Maryland homes in the last minute of the campaign. I have checked with Republican officials in the counties where Senator Butler received his large majorities. These officials have advised me that they didn't distribute this material nor can they find it was used in their counties. Here are the counties, and the majorities they gave Senator Butler:

"Montgomery, 5000; Prince George, 5000; Anne Arundel, 4000; Allegany, 6,000; Washington, 4,000; Frederick, 2,000; Baltimore, 3,000; and Wicomico, 500.

"How could the voters have been influenced by something which they never saw?

"Mr. Tydings has been in politics long enough to know that the custom of sending out last minute literature is so well established in Maryland that the voters have become immune to such appeals, whether true or false.

"He should accept his defeat with good grace."

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23 (INS) — Anna Pierangeli, the enchanting young Italian actress, the star of "Teresa," arrives here in a few days. She'll co-star with Stewart Granger in "The Light Touch." He was taken out of "Scaramouche" to make this possible.

In "Light Touch" (part of which will be made in Sicily and Tunis) Pierangeli plays a young artist who falls into the hands of an attractive young crook (Granger). He uses her talents to copy old masterpieces.

After two weeks on location in Italy and Africa Anna and Stewart come back to M-G-M to make the interiors. Richard Brooks, who wrote the story, will also direct. It's a Pandro Berman production.

When I interviewed John Agar not long ago he told me he was seriously interested in his singing career. Now it looks as if it's liable to pop sooner than he, or anyone, expected if David Selznick releases him to co-star with Ella Logan in the musical version of "My Sister Eileen" which Freddie Finklehoffe will produce on Broadway.

Pinklehoffe is shot with luck these days. Everything he touches turns to box-office gold. He is cleaning up on "At War With The Army" with Martin and Lewis. And he has another strike in "Affair Of State" with Celeste Holm in New York.

Another Hollywood name up for the revived "Eileen" is Angela Green, the social Mrs. Stuart Martin in private life.

I can now tell you where I got the story years ago that Paulette Goddard had married Charlie Chaplin on a boat. I have the permission of the one who told me. I met him at the Long Beach Veterans Hospital when Lou Costello, Bud Abbott and I went there to give a show.

His name is Billy Clark. He walked up to me and said, "I'm Billy Clark, the one who wrote you that letter that Paulette Goddard had married Charlie Chaplin on the way to Hong Kong. I was working on the boat."

"May I tell you gave me the story?" I asked.

"You certainly may," he said.

At that time, all the other newspapers denied my story and said Paulette and Charlie were not married.

Chatter in Hollywood: Is Dr. Lew Morrill carrying a torch for Rhonda Fleming? I'd say he is — and a big one!

I am told that Rhonda and John Payne went to the Bantam Cock for dinner. A little later in walked Dr. Morrill with Sybil Merritt, the girl who was with Robert Taylor last week.

Morrill said to the maitre d', "I hear my ex-girl friend is here." He was told she had just left, and his retort was, "Well, we're finished anyway."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Nicky Hilton not only got in the newspapers after his Mocambo fight, he lost his girl friend, Rosita Moreno. She's told M-G-M she's not going out with him any more.

Reports are that Greta Garbo is ailing and has gone to New York to consult a doctor.

Ginger Rogers is at La Quinta. So far, no Steve Cochran, but the weekend is young.

Phil Regan, Jr., and his bride of a week, Lou Ann McNutt, were received at the White House by President Truman.

Alfalfa, famous as a child star in "Our Gang" comedies, will play the boy friend of Dolores Costello's daughter in "The Great Man."

It pays to be an actor. Richard Todd, who was in "The Hasty Heart," has bought himself a twenty-five room 16th century mansion with swimming pool, in Berkshire, England.

Johnny Meyer has been commuting between New York and Washington and is being mysterious about it.

Dennis O'Keefe is another actor who has deserted Hollywood for TV. He is readying a who-dunit show for a weekly program.

That's all tday. See you Monday.

Bus Drivers, Union To Discuss Contract

The negotiating committee of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union, AFL, will meet with officials of the Cumberland Transit Lines today relative to a new contract.

James H. Morrison, president of the union, said the meeting will be held at 10 a. m. in the office of the company.

A guaranteed annual wage of $3,700 offered by the firm a week ago was rejected by the union. The union's contract with the company expires next Wednesday at midnight and Morrison said the membership has instructed the negotiating committee, following a vote, that there will be no extension of the pact.

Morrison declared that a general membership meeting of the union will be held Tuesday at 2 a. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall to discuss the action taken at todays session.

Color Film Tonight

A color movie film based on Science and the Bible will be shown at the meeting of Tri-State Youth for Christ today at 8 p. m. in the Salvation Army Citadel.

Legion Post To Celebrate Anniversary

Initiation, Dance Are Feature Of Event

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, is making plans for the 32nd anniversary celebration of the organization March 17, according to Commander Albert M. Kerns, Sr.

The post activities committee in charge of arrangements will report on the program for the Legion's birthday at the Tuesday meeting.

The committee is comprised of William P. Claar, chairman; Robert Mackert, T. Raymond Farrell, Philmore Fleming, S. A. Graham, Joseph Challinor, Raymond Settle, Carl Kimble, Howard Spiker, George Buskey, Norman Lohr, Robert Wilson, Truman Fuller, Ralph Wilson, Edward Fields, William Coble and Thomas Thompson.

The first steps towards organization of the Legion were taken at a caucus in Paris March 15 to 17, 1919. A temporary constitution was adopted, temporary officers elected and a general policy was formulated at a caucus in St. Louis in May, 1919.

Permanent organization was affected and a national constitution and by-laws adopted at the first national convention in Minneapolis, Minn., November 10 to 12, 1919.

The American Legion has changed the eligibility for membership to include honorably discharged veterans of World War II; those who remained in the service after the cessation of hostilities and those honorably discharged veterans in the service since the start of the Korean war on July 25, 1950.

Fort Cumberland Post's observance of the anniversary will be held on Saturday, March 17, with an initiation of new members, a floor show and a dance.

Wood's Contract To Be Extended

The Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Corporation is making plans to extend the contract of Richardson Wood, New York industrial promotion consultant for one year.

Harold W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said Wood and the corporation have agreed on general terms.

Contents of the contract will not be divulged until a formal agreement is signed, Smith added.

The contract will be between the corporation and Wood, and not between the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee as in the six-month pact just ended.

The committee was appointed by the Mayor and Council and the County Commissioners to handle under the requirements of law, the $10,000 paid to Wood for the six-month term.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor and Council, the County Commissioners and the Industrial Promotion Corporation will be held March 2 at 7:30 p. m. in the Mayor's office, City Hall, to discuss the employment of Wood.

City Will Retain DST This Summer

Under proposed Senate Bill 145, Cumberland's controversial Daylight Savings Time question will go to the voters in the 1952 general election.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that the Maryland Municipal League sent him a copy of the measure which provides that the DST ordinance will remain on the ordinance list here but must appear on the ballot in 1952.

That means, the Mayor said, the city will have fast time again this summer.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is advising people the best way to help them?

Answer: Not if they have really serious problems, since no one can solve these for another. The last few years have seen the development of "non-directive psychotherapy," in which counsellors in colleges and elsewhere allow people to talk out their difficulties but give no advice beyond what helps them to understand themselves. In a report of 32 cases treated by this method, Drs. Emory L. Cowen and Arthur W. Combs of Syracuse University report relatively complete results in 60% and not wholly satisfactory progress in another 30%. Counsellors, however, should have professional training.

Should you keep a feeble-minded child at home?

Answer: Not if you have other children, for the reason that the harm done to them will more than outweigh the good you can do for the child whose helplessness makes so strong a claim on your sympathies. A really defective child will get but little more from anything you can do for him than from first-rate institutional care, yet will inevitably make demands on you that will force you to neglect your other children. Also, unjustified as these are, the jibes of playmates may damage your normal children's self-esteem beyond repair.

Are inquisitiveness and curiosity the same?

Answer: I do not think so, although the distinction may be somewhat arbitrary. As I see it, an inquisitive person wishes to know other people's private affairs in order to pass judgment on them, if not to interfere in them, while one who is merely curious is interested in the events of your life only as facts, as he would be in the working of an automobile engine. The "snooper" is looking for a chance to feel superior to you, while the seeker after knowledge looks for what he can learn from you, and tries to understand your mistakes rather than condemn them.

Tydings' "Surprise Statement" Brings Blast From Miss Adkins

SALISBURY, Md.—Miss Bertha Adkins, Republican National Committeewoman from Maryland, yesterday issued the following statement.

"The voters of Maryland will resent the reflection upon their intelligence in the surprising statement of Millard E. Tydings before a subcommittee of the United States Senate.

"Ex-Senator Tydings now claims he was beaten last November by last-minute campaign literature. This statement contrasts strangely with the interview he gave to the United States News and World Report immediately following the election. Then he attributed his defeat to a factional fight within the Democrat party in Maryland.

Tydings Not Preferred

"Does Mr. Tydings feel compelled to blame his defeat on somebody—anybody—rather than himself? Has it ever occurred to him that Maryland voters, to the tune of a 43,111 plurality, preferred Senator John Marshall Butler?

"Let Mr. Tydings honestly face the facts. The election reflected the desire of Maryland citizens for a change. Our Republican Governor, Theodore R. McKeldin, received the biggest vote given any gubernatorial candidate—Democrat or Republican—in our state's history. Representative Glenn Beall's plurality of 27,178 was the largest he ever received. Representative Edward T. Miller's majority was 8,910 compared to 2,600 in 1948. General James P. Devereux carried the Second District by 3,000 votes against a Democrat plurality of 22,922 in 1948.

"The people of Maryland are intelligent, independent voters who want good government—and they vote their convictions. If the election for Senator were held tomorrow, I am convinced the plurality of the Republican candidate would be even larger than Senator Butler's because of the obviously inept and scandal-ridden administration of President Truman.

Not Distributed Here

"Mr. Tydings said the pamphlet, 'From the Record', was sent into 500,000 Maryland homes in the last minute of the campaign. I have checked with Republican officials in the counties where Senator Butler received his large majorities. These officials have advised me that they didn't distribute this material nor can they find it was used in their counties. Here are the counties, and the majorities they gave Senator Butler:

"Montgomery, 5000; Prince George, 5000; Anne Arundel, 4000; Allegany, 6,000; Washington, 4,000; Frederick, 2,000; Baltimore, 3,000; and Wicomico, 500.

"How could the voters have been influenced by something which they never saw?

"Mr. Tydings has been in politics long enough to know that the custom of sending out last minute literature is so well established in Maryland that the voters have become immune to such appeals, whether true or false.

"He should accept his defeat with good grace."

Fort Ashby Girl Elected Potomac State May Queen

Helen Funk Chosen By Student Votes

KEYSER, W. Va. — Miss Helen Funk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Funk, Fort Ashby, was elected May Queen, and John Wiles, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Wiles, Rowlesburg, was named as her escort during annual May Day festivities at Potomac State School, Keyser, according to William Loy, president of the Student Council. The election was conducted by the student body, at which a court of princesses was also named.

Miss Funk is a graduate of Fort Ashby High School and is a general secretarial major while Wiles is a graduate of Rowlesburg and is majoring in journalism.

Elected to court as princesses were Barbara Colabrese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colabrese, Albert, a graduate of Thomas High School majoring in music; Marlene Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton E. Rhodes, Clarksburg, a graduate of Washington-Irving High School majoring in pre-education; Joan Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus V. Bowers, Hyndman, Pa., a graduate of Hyndman High School and a medical secretarial mirror; and Dorothy Bishoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bishoff, Manheim, a graduate of Rowlesburg High School majoring in home economics.

Also selected as May Day princesses were Edith Awman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Awman, Albright, a graduate of Kingwood High School majoring in general secretarial studies; Shirley Ravenscroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris C. Ravenscroft, Westernport, a graduate of Bruce High School majoring in general secretarial work; Betty Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Judy, Keyser, a music major and a graduate of Keyser High School, and Martha Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Watson, 116 Overton Place, Keyser, a graduate of Keyser High School, majoring in pre-business.

Rotary Official Talks To Group

KEYSER, W. Va. — H. Van Churchill, first vice president of Rotary International was a guest of the members and executives of Rotary District No. 267 at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club Thursday afternoon and evening. He told the group that Rotary stresses friendship, service and understanding.

He called attention to Rotary cooperation in working with the United Nations from its inception at San Francisco.

Clubs have functioned in China and Korea during the present international crisis, but "we do not have any clubs in Spain at the present time." He stressed the mottoes of Rotary as adopted at the last convention in Detroit as "He Profits Most Who Serves Best" and "Service Above Self."

Churchill remarked that Rotary has awarded scholarships to 195 young persons, and that the organization is spending $230,000 a year on this and that 90 more young students will receive scholarships this year.

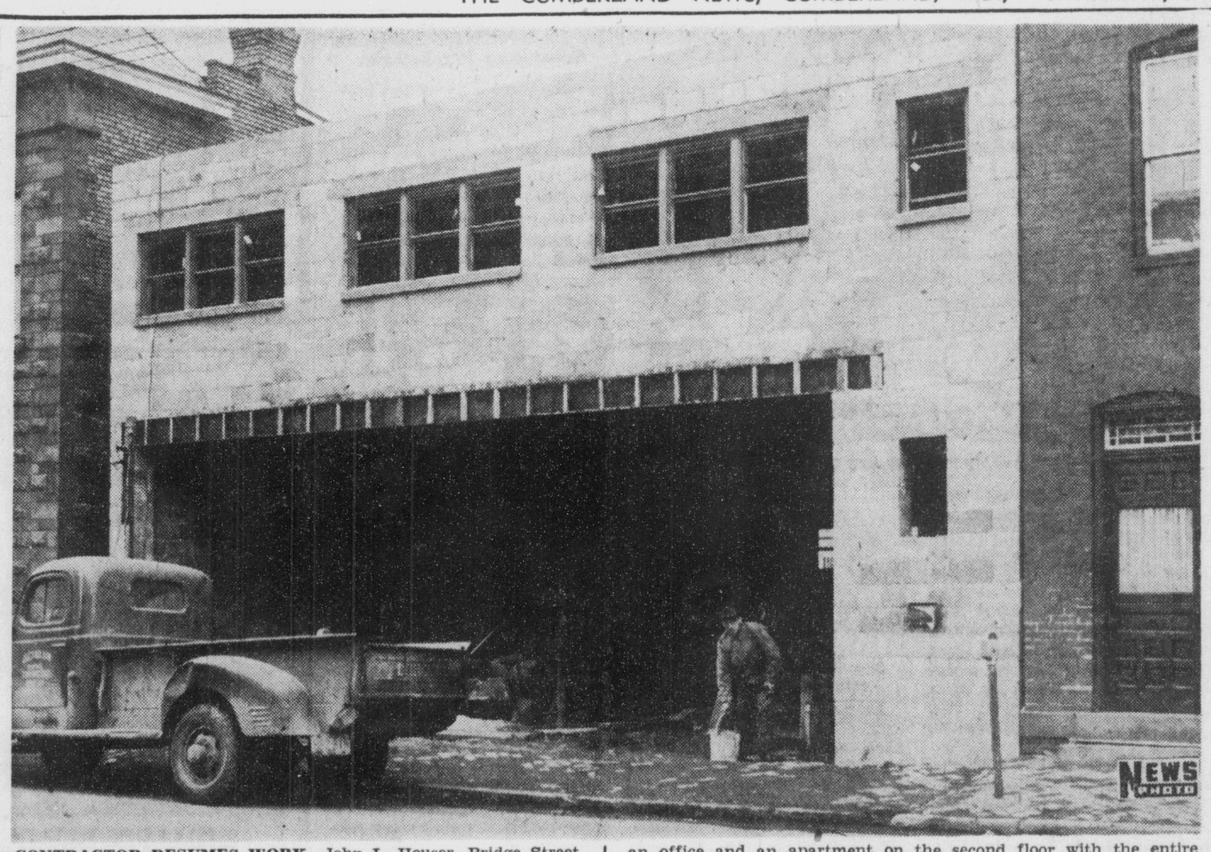
Honors were presented to Mrs. Charles Zeller, High; Mrs. D. W. Hershberger second, and Mrs. Clyde McCurdy guest prize.

MC To Give Blood On TV

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP) — A master of ceremonies said today he will give a pint of blood on a telecast Monday to show how easy it is.

A doctor and nurse have agreed to remove the blood from a vein in the arm of George Menard in his fun and features local telecast from station WBKB, a Columbia Broadcasting System outlet.



CONTRACTOR RESUMES WORK—John L. Houser, Bridge Street, Ridgeley, W. Va. is seen mixing mortar as work resumed on the John S. Cook and Sons office and storage building at 152 North Mechanic Street, Cumberland, recently. The structure will contain an office and an apartment on the second floor with the entire ground floor being given over to storage facilities. Work was begun last fall before freezing weather forced curtailment of activities.

Valentine Day Is Marked By Midlothian Homemakers

FROSTBURG—A Valentine party and reports from various committee chairmen featured the February meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Bertha Coleman, with Mrs. Ursula Robertson, co-hostess, and Mrs. Blaine Willetts, president, presiding.

The monthly roll call was answered by members giving a good health hint and special health hints read by Mrs. Robert Lancaster.

Following the adoption of a new set of by-laws, submitted by Mrs. Frank Willetts, parliamentarian, the group voted a donation to the Red Cross drive and made plans for a white elephant sale.

A plan submitted by Mrs. Thomas Simmons for organizing a Boys 4-H Club in Midlothian and a report from Mrs. Blaine Willetts on the progress of the Girls 4-H Club were received from Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Ursula Robertson was appointed delegates to the next meeting of the Girls 4-H Club.

Articles on the English sparrow and the "Junco," the birds of the month for February and January, was read by Mrs. Henry S. Barnes, art chairman, four rugs made by Mrs. Bessie Chapman, two children's dresses made by Mrs. Frank Willetts, and a decorated stand for the Valentine party by Mrs. Ursula Robertson.

The oldest Valentine displayed were two 1911 cards by Mrs. Anthony Ritchie, Sr., one of 1916 by Mrs. Thomas Simmons and one of 1925 by Mrs. Herman Winters.

The meeting closed with refreshments and candlelight service. Mrs. Elizabeth Williams was a guest.

The next meeting will be held March 15 at the home of Mrs. Matthew Willetts, with Mrs. Frank Willetts co-hostess.

Mt. Savage Personals

Mrs. Charles Albright is home from Allegany Hospital, Cumberland, where she had been a patient for the past two weeks.

A social will be held in the Junior Order Hall at 8 p. m. Saturday.

Sister Jeanette is reported improving at Allegany Hospital where she is a patient.

Merry-Go-Round

Reviewing the inflationary dangers of stepped-up production, Leon Keyserling, the President's chief economic adviser, observed: "Now you come to the question how do you pay the people for the longer hours (of work). Let's suppose you pay them at the regular rate. You still have through the process of working longer hours an increase in your total wage earnings. So you get that inflationary adding of billions of dollars to the wage stream even if you don't pay time and a half."

"Take it away in taxes," blurted Taft.

"It is a question of how far to go in taxes," cautioned Keyserling, who had already urged a stiff tax program.

High Farm Prices

Taft also complained about high farm prices.

"What can we do about farm prices?" he demanded. "I saw a statement in the paper this morning to the effect that corn, wheat and most of the things are still below parity. I wondered why."

"Well, parity is the ratio to the cost of what the farmer must buy," explained Chairman Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, "and so, when your industrial prices rise, your parity necessarily must rise."

"I have always regarded parity as a fair picture of what the farmer ought to get compared to other prices, but have we got parity too high?" insisted Taft.

"The farm support program, as I understand it, was basically an effort to get for the farm population a larger share of the national income than they would get under automatic operation of the market. Whether right or wrong, that is what it was. I happen to think it was right," explained Keyserling. "Now the interesting thing is that everybody starts looking at the prices rather than the income. When you look at it on the farm income side, you are faced with the problem that—while it is true you have a problem of moving farm prices—we still cannot honestly say that farmers' incomes have gone up."

"Isn't it true that there was a drop in proportion of farm income this year?" asked Alabama's Senator John Sparkman.

"Yes," broke in O'Mahoney. "That is fully set forth in the various tables here."

"On December 15 farmers were receiving 108 per cent parity on the average. So there has been a steady increase this year from 95 per cent of parity to 108 per cent," Taft argued.

"Yes, but that 108 per cent has been reached by a relatively few farm products that have gone far beyond parity," shot back Sparkman. "We might use the same illustration in the industrial field. We don't hesitate to let the lower groups raise their income to catch up with the cost of living. I take it there will be no great protest against the 20 per cent wage increase in coal. I am just guessing . . ."

"Yes, just guessing," snapped Taft. Then he added: "I would say that under present prices, farmers are certainly prosperous. I have been through every rural county in Ohio this year. They are well off. There is no question about that."

Veterans' Dividends

Mr. Republican also got his dander up over passing out G. I. insurance dividends to the veterans.

"The doubtful thing is this business of passing out cash dividends in such large amounts which is now proposed for the second time," objected Taft. "I never have understood that policy. It seems to me at best it should have been funded in some way so as to increase the benefit by some other thing than cash. We passed over two billion dollars in cash here just at the time before the Korean War helped start the inflation. I never understood the principle under which it was done. We were never asked about it."

Thus, at one meeting, Taft managed to tangle with labor, farmers and veterans. Maybe he's too honest to run for President.

Frostburg Couple Wed

FROSTBURG — Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Jeannette Jackson, Frost Avenue, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Jackson, Midland, and Thomas Jack, formerly of Frostburg, February 1, at the Catholic Church of the Assumption, Washington D. C.

Merry-Go-Round

Reviewing the inflationary dangers of stepped-up production, Leon Keyserling, the President's chief economic adviser, observed: "Now you come to the question how do you pay the people for the longer hours (of work). Let's suppose you pay them at the regular rate. You still have through the process of working longer hours an increase in your total wage earnings. So you get that inflationary adding of billions of dollars to the wage stream even if you don't pay time and a half."

"Take it away in taxes," blurted Taft.

"It is a question of how far to go in taxes," cautioned Keyserling, who had already urged a stiff tax program.

High Farm Prices

Taft also complained about high farm prices.

"What can we do about farm prices?" he demanded. "I saw a statement in the paper this morning to the effect that corn, wheat and most of the things are still below parity. I wondered why."

"Well, parity is the ratio to the cost of what the farmer must buy," explained Chairman Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, "and so, when your industrial prices rise, your parity necessarily must rise."

"I have always regarded parity as a fair picture of what the farmer ought to get compared to other prices, but have we got parity too high?" insisted Taft.

"The farm support program, as I understand it, was basically an effort to get for the farm population a larger share of the national income than they would get under automatic operation of the market. Whether right or wrong, that is what it was. I happen to think it was right," explained Keyserling. "Now the interesting thing is that everybody starts looking at the prices rather than the income. When you look at it on the farm income side, you are faced with the problem that—while it is true you have a problem of moving farm prices—we still cannot honestly say that farmers' incomes have gone up."

"Isn't it true that there was a drop in proportion of farm income this year?" asked Alabama's Senator John Sparkman.

"Yes," broke in O'Mahoney. "That is fully set forth in the various tables here."

"On December 15 farmers were receiving 108 per cent parity on the average. So there has been a steady increase this year from 95 per cent of parity to 108 per cent," Taft argued.

"Yes, but that 108 per cent has been reached by a relatively few farm products that have gone far beyond parity," shot back Sparkman. "We might use the same illustration in the industrial field. We don't hesitate to let the lower groups raise their income to catch up with the cost of living. I take it there will be no great protest against the 20 per cent wage increase in coal. I am just guessing . . ."

"Yes, just guessing," snapped Taft. Then he added: "I would say that under present prices, farmers are certainly prosperous. I have been through every rural county in Ohio this year. They are well off. There is no question about that."

Veterans' Dividends

Mr. Republican also got his dander up over passing out G. I. insurance dividends to the veterans.

"The doubtful thing is this business of passing out cash dividends in such large amounts which is now proposed for the second time," objected Taft. "I never have understood that policy. It seems to me at best it should have been funded in some way so as to increase the benefit by some other thing than cash. We passed over two billion dollars in cash here just at the time before the Korean War helped start the inflation. I never understood the principle under which it was done. We were never asked about it."

Thus, at one meeting, Taft managed to tangle with labor, farmers and veterans. Maybe he's too honest to run for President.

Mr. Gross was a member of Paw Paw Jr. O.U.A.M. and Paw Paw Volunteer Fire Company. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Bruce Mosier, and Mrs. Charles Cole, both of Baltimore, Md.; and Misses Minnie and Hulda Gross at home; one brother, Eugene H. Gross, also at home.

The body will be brought to Parkes' Funeral Home, Berkeley Springs, today where a service will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. with Rev. O. M. Raines, pastor of Paw Paw Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Camp Hill Cemetery.

ELMER STOTTLEMYER

BRUNSWICK — (AP) — Elmer L. Stottlemyer, 69, Baltimore, veteran conductor on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, died of a heart attack in his sleep Thursday night, less than a week before he was to retire.

He was widely known through long years of service on commuter runs between Washington and Brunswick and between Washington and Baltimore.

Stottlemyer had been sick for a week and the run from Washington to Brunswick Thursday was his first after returning to work. A railroad caller went to his room at the railroad Y.M.C.A. at 5:20 a. m. to awaken him for the 6:30 run to Washington and found him unconscious.

Dr. C. H. Conley, Jr., acting Frederick county medical examiner, found death was due to a heart attack.

Stottlemyer would have been 70 on May 3. He started working for the B&O in 1901 and became a passenger conductor on the Baltimore Division in 1925. He had planned to retire March 1.

VIRTS SERVICES

KEYSER, W. Va.—Services for Marshall T. Virts, 60, who died Thursday at his home, will be held Sunday at the residence, 23 Spring Street. Rev. Louis E. Bouknight, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, will officiate and interment will be in Queen's point Cemetery.

SKIDMORE RITES

FROSTBURG — A funeral service will be conducted at Hafer's Funeral Home here tomorrow at 2 p. m. for Charles Albert Skidmore, retired baker who died in Miners Hospital Thursday. The service will be conducted by Rev. Harold M. Stoudt, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and burial will be in Greenmount Cemetery.

The first woman newspaper personal advice columnist in the United States was "Beatrice Fairfax" (Marie Manning) of the New York Journal in 1896.

Keyser Chamber Will Open Drive For New Members

Kickoff Dinner Set For Next Wednesday

KEYSER, W. Va.—The kickoff for the annual membership drive of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce, will be staged at a dinner meeting Wednesday, at 6:15 p. m. in the Odd Fellows Temple North Mineral Street. Captains for the campaign, Roy Davidson and Arnold Ludwick, Jr., will have charge of arrangements.

The present organization will be divided into two teams and each captain will take charge of these two groups. Prizes will be awarded for the most memberships secured by individuals and also to the captains.

The contest will run for seven days. Rules of the contest specify that contestants must be members in the fiscal year, 1950-51, and that members must be paid up in dues to the end of March, to be eligible. Other rules will be announced at the dinner.

The Wonder Of Electronics

CONCEIVABLY the greatest contribution radio ever made to society was the sponsored marriage. In the old days, it was the relatives and friends who kicked in the pots, the bedroom lamp and the kitchen clock. Then the sponsor came along and provided all that and more. Sponsored matrimony, as practiced on "Bride and Groom" and other radio programs, was actually a more sensible deal all around since the gifts were generally all-electric (AC or DC), lifetime-guaranteed, earthquake-resistant and stainless. Aunt Emma never kicked in with stuff like that.

John Crosby

No one has ever proved that a sponsored marriage lasts any longer than the old-fashioned, or sustaining-type marriage, but the gifts last forever. Sponsored matrimony, you'll be happy to learn, has been taken over and elaborated on in television, too. Just the other day on the TV version of "Bride and Groom," Samuel Jamieson of Granger, Ind., and Myrtle Thomey, of Laredo, Tex., were married after a courtship conducted over 1,500 miles by shortwave radio. After the ceremony, Mrs. Jamieson happily summed up the new order of things with the statement: "We owe a great deal to amateur radio and good operating conditions."

That's going to be the rub in the new order of courtship—operating conditions. How's a girl to know whether that is true love in his short-wave voice? Or just an ionic disturbance in the upper stratosphere? How's he to know whether she, so young and lovely in the living room, will survive the pitiless glare of the TV cameras? The all-electronic marriage brings in a lot of handsome loot. But you'd better consult a few experts — a couple of engineers, a makeup man, a good TV director—before plunging into something you may live to regret.

• — • — •

The electronic age has had a baleful effect on the activities of animals, too. On "Date in Manhattan" a chimpanzee named Bonzo expressed a vehement opinion on this newest branch of show business by biting the mistress of ceremonies, Miss Arlene Francis, so severely in the third finger that she sat down hard while the chimp's trainer pulled the beast away. Miss Francis, a trouper, bounced right up again and went straight into a plug for Bulova watches, a shining example of that old show business adage: The commercial must go on.

In East Orange, N. J., a four-month-old Siamese cat was dozing by the TV set when her owner, Mrs. Norman Wolfson, snapped the set on and brought a pack of prize terriers from the Westminster Kennel Club show right into the living room. It was an invasion of privacy no Siamese will put up with, though humans will. The cat leaped at the

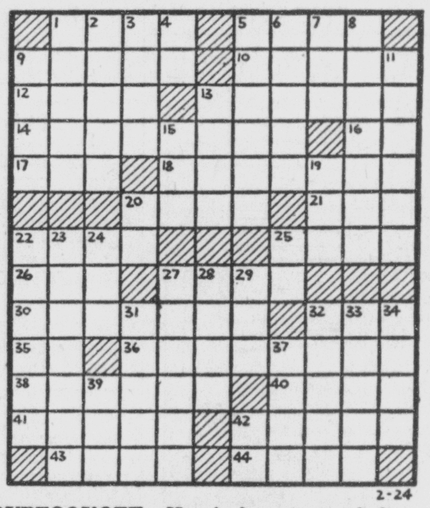
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

MCUK MAU MCUK, BPLHTP FWLBPUI XR KFMAWUB—DLRKLR.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: SO VIOLENCE PROCEEDED, AND OPPRESSION AND SWORD-LAW—MILTON.

County Orders A-Bomb Film

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday ordered the purchase of a 16mm sound film entitled "You Can Beat the A-Bomb" to be used in educating the residents of the county with reference to the bomb and its effect.

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for the county, wrote to the board asking that the film be purchased. It will cost $80 and will be shown at meetings of Parent-Teacher Associations, schools, clubs and fraternal groups.

Barger pointed out the film has been endorsed by top national officials of the Civil Defense program and will aid residents in protecting themselves in the event of an attack.

Members of the board also received an inventory compiled of all equipment owned by the county in offices at the Court House and Union Street County building.

Total value of the equipment is listed at $22,881.40. Members of the board had the inventory made in order to determine the amount of insurance to be carried to protect the county in case of fire or other damage.

No Fatal Accidents In Area Last Month

No fatal accidents were reported for January in Allegany and Garrett counties in a statistical report issued yesterday by Maryland State Police.

Nine persons were hurt in five personal injury mishaps, and one pedestrian was injured in the county. There were ten property damage mishaps and a total of 15 accidents.

Five accidents in Garrett county last month resulted in the injury to one person. Four property damage mishaps were reported.

Two Drivers Are Hurt In Crashes

Two drivers, both the sole occupants of their cars, were injured in two accidents Thursday night when they crashed against a tree and a power pole.

The most seriously injured, Herman S. Golunbeck, 47, of 208 South Water Street, Keyser, W. Va., is in Allegany Hospital suffering with a fractured skull, a jaw fractured in three places, and a broken leg. His condition was reported fair yesterday.

State Police said the car he was driving went out of control at 12:15 a. m. yesterday as he was two miles from Cresaptown on the Winchester Road.

The 1950 model machine careened across the road and struck a large tree. The auto was badly damaged, police said.

Police said Golunbeck's head went through the windshield, causing him to suffer many facial lacerations.

In another accident, the car operated by William Lockard, 36, of Corriganville, hit a power pole on Wellersburg Road.

The pole was moved and the front of the car damaged. Authorities at Memorial Hospital did not divulge the extent of his injuries, but did say that his condition was "satisfactory."

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

That fellow Hank Kaiser is liable to upset our national economy. Hank borrows money from the government. And pays it back.

• — • — •

They're not acclimated to that kind of financing down in Washington. The secretary of giveaways would hate to be known as an Indian giver. Especially to the Indians.

• — • — •

Hank can borrow $100,000,000 on his nod. He was the first fellow to build a car that was a sun porch on wheels.

• — • — •

Commissioners Hear Road Complaints

Road complaints took up most of yesterday morning's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Gilbert E. Johnson requested repairs to Ohr Street in Bowman's Addition. A group of residents of Valley View Drive in Cresaptown asked that something be done about a steep hill in front of their properties. The board arranged to meet with the group March 2 to inspect the situation.

Zones Hall asked that repairs be made to the old Wilson Road near Flintstone. A petition was received from 24 residents of 21st Lane in McCoole asking for repairs to the road.

Communists Elect Meyers Chairman

George A. Meyers, 39, formerly of Lonaconing, is the new chairman of the Communist Party of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Meyers, who has been labor secretary, succeeds Philip Frankfeld, party chairman for the past five years, who has shifted to Cleveland.

Meyers is a native of Western Maryland and quit a career as a labor leader to turn Communist. He is apparently the fifth man to head the organization since its organization in 1934.

Meyers becomes manager of the Free State Book Shop, the functioning title of the party offices, and also Baltimore correspondent for the Daily Worker, the party paper.

Stock Market Keeps Ahead Despite Late Selling Flurry

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP) — The stock market managed to keep ahead today despite a last minute flurry of selling.

Aircrafts were the feature of the session with a show of strength that buoyed the list for almost the entire day.

Of importance to the market was the fact that trading diminished to the smallest volume in nearly six months. It came to 1,540,000 shares. That's the lowest since last Sept. 7 when 1,340,000 shares changed hands.

Con-Vultee led its own group upward and closed up 1½ at 20⅛. It was the second most active issue in the list. Others were cut back at the last minute from their much wider earlier gains. Boeing ended up ⅝ to 52½, Douglas up ½ at 106, and United Aircraft off ⅛ at 38⅛.

Many others in the list suffered in the late selling. With the exception of the rails, losses were held to less than a point.

Steels, motors, radio-television, and utilities made the best showing.

Equitable Office Building was the most active issue up ⅜ at 7¾.

American Telephone was eighth most active, not usual for so high priced an issue, closing up ⅝ at 155½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 10 cents to $95.40. The industrial component was unchanged, rails lost 50 cents, and utilities rose 50 cents.

The small total of 1,540,000 shares traded compared with 2,670,000 shares Wednesday.

One last note, this one from the Old Southland: Tom Fesperman reports in "The Charlotte (N.C.) News" that a six-year-old citizen named Chuck Barton had his parents mighty worried when he started talking like a Yankee from Perth Amboy. It developed he'd picked up the dreadful accent straight off the coaxial cable.

It's quite a problem all right, but we're working on it. My spies tell me RCA is developing a new-type coaxial cable which will convert Arthur Godfrey's accent into pure undistilled Dixie the second it passes the Mason-Dixon line. Howdy Doody will sound as if he were raised on hominy grits and corn liquor. As for Milton Berle, this new cable will not only make him sound like Al Jolson but also look like Larry Parks.

Well, just one more then. Laughs Unlimited, which peddles jokes to comics and disc jockeys and such people, has issued a new price list. A comedy monologue on Dr. Kinsey will cost you $1. But if you want to get funny about "television in the home," it'll set you back $2.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HOLD THEM CHEAP

ONE OF the worst mistakes a bridge player can make is the very one which the Reds are now making — underrating an opponent. Some of the choicest gifts possible in the game of contract come from doubling of a less than game contract which gets made, thereby giving the beneficiary the game and possibly also the rubber. No matter who your opponents may be, it is risky to double them after two-suit bidding which might be based on extreme length in those suits and shortages or complete blanks in the others.

West rued the moment he made that business double. For the action, he reckoned too quickly that his opportunity was perfect. He had great strength in spades, diamonds and clubs, and his partner had bid the remaining suit, hearts.

If he had decided to count twenty before taking such action, he might have reflected that South must have terrific distribution for that bidding when his opponents had such honors. South was sure to have a couple of truly long suits and extreme shortage in the majors, and an opportunity was extended through the bidding for North to choose the suit with which he had the better fit.

An extra trick, finishing the game and rubber, was scored by South. He won the heart 10 lead with the A. Reading the lead as a singleton, he led the heart K to make West ruff, which he did with the club 5. The spade K was despatched and ruffed with the club 4. Now the club A smothered the Q, the diamond A was scored and the 2 led to the Q. The club K won and the spade A was ruffed by the club 6. Now the club J was used to ruff the diamond 3, establishing the last three cards of the suit. To reach them South ruffed dummy's heart 6 with the club 9, then completed the hand with his three good diamonds.

West will not soon double again without thinking a bit about extreme distribution.

Your Weekend Question

Under what circumstances should a No Trump game declarer, who has in the dummy five cards of a suit headed by the K-J-10, finesse the J toward his own A-6?

County Orders A-Bomb Film

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday ordered the purchase of a 16mm sound film entitled "You Can Beat the A-Bomb" to be used in educating the residents of the county with reference to the bomb and its effect.

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for the county, wrote to the board asking that the film be purchased. It will cost $80 and will be shown at meetings of Parent-Teacher Associations, schools, clubs and fraternal groups.

Barger pointed out the film has been endorsed by top national officials of the Civil Defense program and will aid residents in protecting themselves in the event of an attack.

Members of the board also received an inventory compiled of all equipment owned by the county in offices at the Court House and Union Street County building.

Total value of the equipment is listed at $22,881.40. Members of the board had the inventory made in order to determine the amount of insurance to be carried to protect the county in case of fire or other damage.

No Fatal Accidents In Area Last Month

No fatal accidents were reported for January in Allegany and Garrett counties in a statistical report issued yesterday by Maryland State Police.

Nine persons were hurt in five personal injury mishaps, and one pedestrian was injured in the county. There were ten property damage mishaps and a total of 15 accidents.

Five accidents in Garrett county last month resulted in the injury to one person. Four property damage mishaps were reported.

Two Drivers Are Hurt In Crashes

Two drivers, both the sole occupants of their cars, were injured in two accidents Thursday night when they crashed against a tree and a power pole.

The most seriously injured, Herman S. Golunbeck, 47, of 208 South Water Street, Keyser, W. Va., is in Allegany Hospital suffering with a fractured skull, a jaw fractured in three places, and a broken leg. His condition was reported fair yesterday.

State Police said the car he was driving went out of control at 12:15 a. m. yesterday as he was two miles from Cresaptown on the Winchester Road.

The 1950 model machine careened across the road and struck a large tree. The auto was badly damaged, police said.

Police said Golunbeck's head went through the windshield, causing him to suffer many facial lacerations.

In another accident, the car operated by William Lockard, 36, of Corriganville, hit a power pole on Wellersburg Road.

The pole was moved and the front of the car damaged. Authorities at Memorial Hospital did not divulge the extent of his injuries, but did say that his condition was "satisfactory."

Baering Down On The News

That fellow Hank Kaiser is liable to upset our national economy. Hank borrows money from the government. And pays it back.

When he paid back his first big loan of $274,000,000 it took the government bookkeeper by surprise. He had to send out for a bottle of black ink.

Commissioners Hear Road Complaints

Road complaints took up most of yesterday morning's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Gilbert E. Johnson requested repairs to Ohr Street in Bowman's Addition. A group of residents of Valley View Drive in Cresaptown asked that something be done about a steep hill in front of their properties. The board arranged to meet with the group March 2 to inspect the situation.

Zones Hall asked that repairs be made to the old Wilson Road near Flintstone. A petition was received from 24 residents of 21st Lane in McCoole asking for repairs to the road.

Communists Elect Meyers Chairman

George A. Meyers, 39, formerly of Lonaconing, is the new chairman of the Communist Party of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Meyers, who has been labor secretary, succeeds Philip Frankfeld, party chairman for the past five years, who has shifted to Cleveland.

Meyers is a native of Western Maryland and quit a career as a labor leader to turn Communist. He is apparently the fifth man to head the organization since its organization in 1934.

Meyers becomes manager of the Free State Book Shop, the functioning title of the party offices, and also Baltimore correspondent for the Daily Worker, the party paper.

Stock Market Keeps Ahead Despite Late Selling Flurry

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP) — The stock market managed to keep ahead today despite a last minute flurry of selling.

Aircrafts were the feature of the session with a show of strength that buoyed the list for almost the entire day.

Of importance to the market was the fact that trading diminished to the smallest volume in nearly six months. It came to 1,540,000 shares. That's the lowest since last Sept. 7 when 1,340,000 shares changed hands.

Con-Vultee led its own group upward and closed up 1½ at 20⅛. It was the second most active issue in the list. Others were cut back at the last minute from their much wider earlier gains. Boeing ended up ⅝ to 52½, Douglas up ½ at 106, and United Aircraft off ⅛ at 38⅛.

Many others in the list suffered in the late selling. With the exception of the rails, losses were held to less than a point.

Steels, motors, radio-television, and utilities made the best showing.

Equitable Office Building was the most active issue up ⅜ at 7¾.

American Telephone was eighth most active, not usual for so high priced an issue, closing up ⅝ at 155½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 10 cents to $95.40. The industrial component was unchanged, rails lost 50 cents, and utilities rose 50 cents.

The small total of 1,540,000 shares traded compared with 2,670,000 shares Wednesday.

One last note, this one from the Old Southland: Tom Fesperman reports in "The Charlotte (N.C.) News" that a six-year-old citizen named Chuck Barton had his parents mighty worried when he started talking like a Yankee from Perth Amboy. It developed he'd picked up the dreadful accent straight off the coaxial cable.

It's quite a problem all right, but we're working on it. My spies tell me RCA is developing a new-type coaxial cable which will convert Arthur Godfrey's accent into pure undistilled Dixie the second it passes the Mason-Dixon line. Howdy Doody will sound as if he were raised on hominy grits and corn liquor. As for Milton Berle, this new cable will not only make him sound like Al Jolson but also look like Larry Parks.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HOLD THEM CHEAP

ONE OF the worst mistakes a bridge player can make is the very one which the Reds are now making — underrating an opponent. Some of the choicest gifts possible in the game of contract come from doubling of a less than game contract which gets made, thereby giving the beneficiary the game and possibly also the rubber. No matter who your opponents may be, it is risky to double them after two-suit bidding which might be based on extreme length in those suits and shortages or complete blanks in the others.

West rued the moment he made that business double. For the action, he reckoned too quickly that his opportunity was perfect. He had great strength in spades, diamonds and clubs, and his partner had bid the remaining suit, hearts. If he had decided to count twenty before taking such action, he might have reflected that South must have terrific distribution for that bidding when his opponents had such honors. South was sure to have a couple of truly long suits and extreme shortage in the majors, and an opportunity was extended through the bidding for North to choose the suit with which he had the better fit.

An extra trick, finishing the game and rubber, was scored by South. He won the heart 10 lead with the A. Reading the lead as a singleton, he led the heart K to make West ruff, which he did with the club 5. The spade K was despatched and ruffed with the club 4. Now the club A smothered the Q, the diamond A was scored and the 2 led to the Q. The club K won and the spade A was ruffed by the club 6. Now the club J was used to ruff the diamond 3, establishing the last three cards of the suit. To reach them South ruffed dummy's heart 6 with the club 9, then completed the hand with his three good diamonds.

West will not soon double again without thinking a bit about extreme distribution.

Under what circumstances should a No Trump game declarer, who has in the dummy five cards of a suit headed by the K-J-10, finesse the J toward his own A-6?

Faith In God Can Save U. S. GOP Is Told

Iowa Rep. Keynotes Lincoln Day Dinner

"What we need in the United States today is faith in God, hard work and a return to the fundamental principles of Americanism."

That was the keynote of the 55-minute speech last night by Rep. Paul Cunningham, of Des Moines, Iowa, principal speaker last night at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner of the Republican Party of Allegany county. Some 250 GOP stalwarts attended the annual get-together held in the Centre Street Methodist Church Recreation Hall.

"The Republican Party today has the challenge to save America," Rep. Cunningham emphasized. "We need to do a better job of selling true Americanism than other people are doing of selling false philosophies to the American people.

"Abraham Lincoln, the man whose memory we honor tonight, in his day realized that secession of a part of the United States would have destroyed our form of government. Lincoln faced the challenge to save America in his day and we must do it today. There is no other party today that can save America. The Democratic Party has been captured by the New Dealers, the New Dealers have been captured by the Fair Dealers, the Fair Dealers have been captured by the Socialists and the Communists have captured the Socialists."

People Are Masters

In his speech Rep. Cunningham said that through the centuries there have been only two types of government despite all of the various names that have been given to governments. Under one type, as typified today by Communist Russia, the government is the master and the people are the servants. Under the American system, as laid down in the Constitution, the government is the servant and the people are the masters.

Cunningham stressed that the Constitution established three separate branches, the law makers, the administrators and law enforcers and the judiciary. A bi-cameral legislature provided further checks because the cooling off process has served as a great safety valve for liberties, the speaker added.

The Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, has served as guarantee of those liberties, he told his attentive audience.

Cunningham was introduced by Rep. J. Glenn Beall of this district. Beall emphasized in his brief introductory remarks that the Iowa Congressman has been a big help to the people of Western Maryland. He said Cunningham was chairman of a sub-committee of the House Public Works Committee which prepared and pushed through the committee and Congress the legislation which provided both for the Savage River Dam and the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

Earl E. Manges, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany county, served as toastmaster.

GOP Officials Attend

Manges introduced a number of prominent Republicans who attended last night's affair. He began with the other members of the State Central Committee. Among these were Edgar M. Lewis, vice-chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Elias; Jeremiah T. Defibaugh and D. Jerome Wilson. Two other members, Victor M. Hebb and Marshall Van Meter were absent.

Also presented were Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Delegate

Manges, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, who served as toastmaster; Congressman J. Glenn Beall, who introduced the speaker, and Mrs. Thomas Elias, Frostburg.

$1,112 Awarded Driver In Suit Against Fireman

Action Results From South End Crash

Verdicts totaling $1,112.20 were returned yesterday afternoon against Lt. Francis J. Wallace, 43 New Hampshire Avenue, a city fierman, by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury which deliberated about 45 minutes.

Herman M. Meekins, 439 Pine Avenue, had filed two suits against the Mayor and City Council and Lt. Wallace for a total of $3,000 damages as a result of a collision between his automobile and a South End fire truck which Lt. Wallace was driving to a fire. The collision occurred January 3, 1950, at Virginia Avenue and Second Street.

The truck crashed into the window of the Cumberland Electric Company, Inc., 137 Virginia Avenue.

Associate Judge George Henderson dismissed the suits yesterday insofar as they pertained to the Mayor and City Council. He acted on a demurrer filed by City Attorney W. Earle Cobey.

Judge Henderson ruled that the Mayor and City Council could not be sued in this case because Meekins did not comply with a city ordinance which requires that persons having claims against the city must file notice of the claim within 30 days after the occurrence.

Attorney Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., who represented Meekins, presented four witnesses. Besides the plaintiff they were John Nisbet, North Cedar Street; Donald C. True, Grand Avenue, and Ronald McDonald, Arch Street. All said they did not hear a siren or any other sound of the approaching fire truck before the crash.

Defense witnesses besides Wallace included Edgar L. Bucy, Calvin Wilt and Ralph Mahaney, three other firemen who were on the apparatus with him. In all, Defense Attorneys Thomas B. Finan and John P. Mackey presented eight witnesses.

Finally, in rebuttal, the plaintiff's attorneys sent Detective Thomas J. See and Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis to the stand. They testified concerning visability as they observed it at noon yesterday at Virginia Avenue and Second Street when they were taken there by Ryan.

Old Will Filed In Court Here

Two wills, including one concerning the will of a Borden Shaft woman who died more than seven years ago, were admitted to probate in Orphans Court yesterday.

The will of the long-dead woman was written on a single sheet of stationery. It was the will of Mrs. Agnes McGregor, who died January 7, 1944. It left all of her estate to her daughter, Mrs. Helen McGregor Smith, who was her only survivor.

Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart said that Mrs. Smith had the will in her possession ever since her mother's death but was unaware that she should have it probated. Mrs. McGregor's will was dated May 8, 1943. Mrs. Smith was named executrix.

Charles Grant Davidson 79-year old retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad flagman, 609 Quebec Avenue, who died December 30, stipulated in his will, also admitted to probate yesterday, that his two daughters, Mrs. Grace D. Bartek, 606 Montreal Avenue, and Mrs. Thelma D. Manning, of the Quebec Avenue address, should be the executices.

The will provided $1 each for his four sons and divided the rest of his property, including the Quebec Avenue property, equally between the two daughters.

Births Announced

Allegany Hospital anounces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wallace, 127 West Oldtown Road, a son, yesterday morning.

Memorial Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hensel, LaVale, a son yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kunis, 237 Elder Street, a son, yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd B. Ashenfelter, Wiley Ford, W. Va., a son, yesterday morning.

9 Pickets Held For Jury Action

Nine pickets arrested February 12 for conspiracy action under the Red Man Act in the Preston County coal fields are being held for the grand jury which meets March 13. They were given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon at the office of Magistrate F. W. Pritt in Kingwood.

Eleven pickets had been arrested on that day but one of them was under age and was turned over to juvenile court authorities. John Rightman was released because of not being identified as taking part in the stoning of two Kray Coal Company buses in which two drivers were injured.

About 35 carloads of pickets were out yesterday morning in the Preston County mines area but Sheriff J. H. Benson said no violence or attempts at violence occurred. State police were on hand to quell any possible disorder.

Three separate hearings will be held on Monday. John Hartman and Arnold Jennings will be tried under provisions of the Red Man Act on charges of assaulting Clyde Lee last Sunday as he returned from a barn after watering ponies used in mine operations of the Foreman mine located on Route 26 south of Kingwood.

Four men arrested for strewing nails and tacks on the highway used by miners going to work near Tunnelton will also be given a hearing.

The final hearing involves 21 pickets who allegedly stoned a bus carrying non-union workers to a Kray Coal Company mine near Howesville, W. Va., Wednesday.

Thus far 70 pickets have been arrested in the Preston County flare-up, Sheriff Benson said last night.

Speaker Recalls Lincoln's Aid To Confederate Friend

A little-known incident of how Abraham Lincoln, during the Civil War, performed a friendly act for Alexander H. Stephens, vice-president of the Confederacy, while the North and the South were still at war was related last night by Rep Paul Cunningham, Iowa Republican, speaking at the annual Lincoln Day dinner here last night.

Cunningham said that during the Mexican War Lincoln and Stephens became friends as they both were members of the United States Congress.

In early 1865, just before the end of the war, an attempt to end hostilities was made when several representatives of the North and the South met on a gunboat at Hampton Roads, Virginia.

Although the meeting ended fruitlessly, Lincoln asked his friend Stephens if he could do any favor for him. Lincoln's political enemy but personal friend asked if the President could find the whereabouts of Stephens' nephew, who had not been heard from since 1861 but was believed to be a prisoner of war.

A few days later, Stephens' nephew was pardoned and released from a Federal prison in Lake Erie. He was brought to Washington and there Lincoln allowed the young Confederate to roam the city for four days renewing acquaintances with friends there. Later, the young man was returned safely to the Confederate lines.

Cunningham said the incident was told him several years ago by George A. Dondero, a Republican Congressman from Michigan. He said that Dondero was recognized as a leading authority on Lincoln.

The Iowan added that Dondero's own life was a typical American success story. He said that the Michigan Congressman was the son of Italian immigrants and as a teen-aged boy cleaned saloon spittoons to earn money to further his education.

Radio Club Aids Garrett Defense

The Mountain Radio Club last night offered its services for the Civil Defense of Garrett County.

The action was taken after John S. Elliott, Grantsville, Garrett County Civil Defense director, asked for information concerning amateur radio operators of that county.

He asked that all amateur or commercial operators of the Garrett County section volunteer their services in the work.

The radio club is already busy organizing its facilities for Civil Defense work in Allegany County.

The club, with an active membership of 25, includes 20 licensed operators. Fourteen of the radio hams have cars and two of them own mobile transmitters.

The club is awaiting word from the American Amateur Radio League on the frequency to be assigned for Civil Defense work.

During World War II, the two meter band was used.

Two pictures, "Realm of the Wild" and "Radio Antennas", were shown by Brook Bodkin, of the State Forestry Department.

Area Men Join Army, Air Force

Five men from the Tri-State area have enlisted in the U. S. Army and Air Force at Martinsburg, W. Va., according to M/Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local recruiter.

In the army for three years are James S. Cole, 23, former serviceman with the Corps of Engineers, Frostburg; John H. Snyder, Jr., 27, Ridgeley, W. Va.; and William A. Ruckman, 20, Wiley Ford, W. Va.

Enlisted in the Air Force for four years were Charles S. Clites, 21, Ridgeley, W. Va., and James T. Johnson, 19, of 206 Washington Street.

Army enlistees have been sent to Fort George G. Meade, and those entering the Air Force are enroute to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Joins Fraternity

Robert Keefe, this city, a student at the University of Richmond, has been initiated into Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity. Keefe, a freshman in Richmond College, is the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Keefe, 522 Beall Street.

Paper Collection Set

Waste paper will be collected on all streets north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue Monday morning. Bundles should be placed on curbs before 9 a. m.

Sherman The Turtle Visits Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 22 (AP)—Sherman the turtle, who raised more havoc on Savage Mountain with his hot tail than the general did in Georgia, visited the legislature today.

However, Sherman wasn't in his shell. He hadn't been for some time.

Sherman was caught two years ago spreading a fire all along the eastern slope of the Allegany County mountain. But he wasn't doing it intentionally.

Someone had strung a wire through his shell and tied an oil-soaked rag to it. A touch of a match and Sherman broke a speed record.

When state foresters caught up with him, Sherman had doused himself in a pool after setting a string of fires.

The foresters became fond of Sherman but finally separated him from his shell.

Sherman's exterior was the prize exhibit before a Senate Finance hearing of the Department of State Forests and Parks budget.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham said he had many more examples of "weapons" used by fire-setters, among them catapult devices which sling fires all around.

"But we didn't dare bring them in," he said.

"The Army has told us to withhold all information. They're afraid saboteurs might use them in a war."

Railroad Group Opposes City's Taxing Program

Urging the abolition of the Smoke Engineer's Department and additional economies by the city in a recent letter to the Mayor and City Council, the Baltimore and Ohio Local Federation No. 7 went on record as being opposed to the city's efforts to gain increased taxing powers.

Taking cognizance of the current economic situation of the present governing body, the letter, addressed to City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, said the Federation believes "remarks of City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson at a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting to be a feeler sent out for the sole purpose of judging the reaction of our citizens."

The organization unalterably opposed "any increase in any taxation which may be under consideration at the present time."

Believing that additional economies could be made by the Mayor and Council so "present income of the city would be sufficient" the B&O federation urged abolition of the position of Smoke Engineer as an "ideal means of saving us thousands of dollars per year."

The letter was signed by E. W. Valentine, Arch Street, secretary of the federation.

Bowling Green May Get Fire Hydrants, Lights

Assembly Approval Sought By Residents

A proposal for the installation of fire hydrants and a street lighting system in Bowling Green has been formulated and will be sent to the Maryland Assembly for consideration.

A group of 15 Bowling Green residents held an open meeting at the Volunteer Fire Hall in Bowling Green Thursday night to explain the plan to property owners and residents of the community.

George B. Hartman, chairman of the temporary committee said last night the purpose of the meeting was to discuss measures of establishing a special taxing area in the Bowling Green section.

This would permit the installation of fire hydrants on the Cumberland 20 inch water main which runs through the area along Route 220 and Cresap Drive from Cumberland to the Celanese plant. A street lighting system is also being considered.

Bill Is Prepared

The addition of the hydrants would allow more protection against fires in the Bowling Green section Harman said.

Recently a rough draft of a bill to establish boundaries and apply a tax rate adequate to defray the expense of the hydrants and line installation was sent to the General Assembly. Also included in the draft was data on the maintenance of both facilities after the initial costs are absorbed.

At the meeting, various phases of the program were discussed. J. Frederick Walton, Allegany County assessor gave the amount of assessable property in the area. James B. Gerderman spoke on the cost of the hydrants and the lines, and S. S. Smith talked on the location, style and cost of lights for the community.

E. L. Ewald, manager of the Potomac Edison Company office at Cumberland, gave a brief talk on installation of lights in Bowling Green.

Get Cost Estimates

After minor changes were made in the original draft sent back by the County delegation in Annapolis, Calvin Ayers made a motion to return the copy to the Allegany County Delegation for presentation in the General Assembly. A unanimous vote of the 84 citizens attending the meeting followed.

J. Milton Dick aided the group in formulating the proposal, Harman said.

On Monday night, R. G. Cover and S. S. Smith met with the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland. They discussed the plan with the city officials and secured estimates of cost of hydrants and installation of additional pipe lines as well as rental cost after installation.

Pollution Group May Undertake "Smog" Control

$100,000 Plan Now Pending At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP) — The State Water Pollution Control Commission is willing to handle a proposed $100,000 a year program for the study and control of "smog" conditions which have plagued industrial areas of Maryland for many years.

And the State Department of Health is anxious to administer the program.

As of now, legislation pending in the General Assembly spells out that the $100,000 a year would go to the State Department of Health, which, in turn, would split the appripriation with the Baltimore City Health Department.

But sentiment is developing in the Senate Finance Committee to amend the bill to delegate the study to the Water Pollution Control Commission.

Paul McKee, executive secretary of the commission, appeared before the finance committee last night.

Finance Chairman Goldstein D-Calvert) reported that McKee told the committee that the same industries that pollute the water belch the fumes from their factory smokestacks that help create smog.

Goldstein said that McKee reported today that the commission members were polled individually and five of the six reached are willing to undertake the study.

The only commission member opposed to the idea, Senator Goldstein said, is Dr. Robert H. Riley, who happens to be director of the State Health Department.

Wants Bonds Lumped

A bill specifying that all bond issues be lumped together in one of the governor's supplementary appropriation bills was introduced in the House of Delegates by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth Jr., of Westernport.

The legislature now may enact independent loan measures, such as one currently debated to float $5,000,000 in bonds for a state office building near Annapolis.

Such a bill would be regarded as "the initial proposal for disbursement" under Whitworth's measure. No money could be spent unless the item were adopted in a regular appropriations bill.

Local Hearings Set

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany county House delegation, said that hearings have been set for next week on several measures important to the City of Cumberland.

At 3 p. m. Wednesday the Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing on the home rule bills for Cumberland.

The county delegates will then meet at 7:30 p. m. the same day to hear proponents and opponents to three bills pertaining to the Cumberland Police and Fire Departments. These include proposed increase in the pay of the police and firemen.

The delegates will also meet with W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, on several measures in which the City of Cumberland is interested. This session is scheduled for 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Frostburg Seeks $100,000

House Bill 396 introduced by the Allegany county delegation would authorize the Mayor and councilmen of Frostburg to borrow up to $100,000 for town improvements. The bill was referred to the delegation.

The Mayor and Council, according to City Clerk Alex G. Close, of Frostburg, plan to use $50,000 for water department improvements, and $25,000 each for the street department and sewage disposal.

Service Officers Aid State Veterans

The Maryland Veterans Commission reported benefits totaling $74,048.48 were secured for Maryland veterans and their dependents during January.

The benefits included $16,313.28 for back pay, $45,935.20 for pensions $10,000 in insurance and $1,800 in burial allowances.

Sun And Brisk Winds Helping Improve Streets

The bright sun and brisk winds of the past few days have helped the city engineering department in their efforts to make the city's unpaved streets and alleys passable for traffic, Martin Corrigan, street superintendent, said last night.

When the recent thaw hit Cumberland the department was beseiged by numerous complaints from citizens that muddy conditions of the streets made it impossible to move cars over them. The city was forced to block off one street because of its impassable condition.

If the weather remains the same and no additional rainfall impedes the drying of the passageways, Corrigan noted, the thoroughfares should be in first class shape by the early part of next week.

B & O Converting Local Shops For Diesels

$500,000 Program Is Underway Here

Nearly one-half million dollars is being spent in Cumberland to provide for the servicing and maintenance of Diesel locomotives at the local Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops, Chester T. Williams, division superintendent said last night.

Williams said approximately one-third of the present shop facilities are being converted by the George F. Hazelwood Company. Completion of the work is expected by March 15.

The changeover will provide Diesel shops, fueling stations, drop pits and other maintenance facilities for the Diesel type locomotive.

This is part of a program in which $3,700,000 has been spent by the railroad to provide for servicing and maintenance of its rapidly-expanding fleet of Diesel locomotives.

Baltimore and Ohio President R. B. White estimated that the road will be able to handle sixty percent of its normal freight traffic load and more than half of its passenger train miles with this Diesel power. All of its through passenger trains already are Diesel powered, he added.

Draft Board 29 To Send Six Men

A call has been received for six inductees from draft board 29, P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of local draft boards, announced yesterday.

The men, to be inducted at Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5, are Olin Calvin Moody, RFD No. 6, Homewood Addition; John Russell Grabenstein, Jr., RFD No. 5, Winchester Road; Earl Kenneth Potts, RFD No. 6, Roberts Place; Albert Joseph Lawler, 214 Fayette Street; Charles Ernest Easton, formerly of RFD No. 6, now living in Riverdale, and Robert Franklin Ogilvie, 524 Fairmont Avenue.

They received physical examinations in December.

Emmanuel Methodist To Hold Conference

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of Emmanuel Methodist Charge will be held Sunday morning immediately following the morning worship service. Congregation members and officers are asked to attend.

Dr. William F. Wright, district superintendent, who will give the morning sermon, will preside.

No meetings are scheduled during the week of February 25 for Emmanuel charge except Sunday morning worship, in deference to the evangelistic services being held in the Centre Street Methodist Church. Dr. Harry Denman, secretary of the Board of Evangelism, will speak.

Union Official Flays Business Hold On Nation

Aldridge Installed As Local 1874 Head

Claiming big business has gained complete control in industry and mobilization during the present crisis, Boyd E. Payton, regional director of Upper South district of Textile Workers Union of America, presided at installation of officers of Local 1874 last night at Frostburg.

"Labor is getting it in the neck," Payton said, and noted that the federal government is contemplating regulations that would outlaw the 40-hour week and the escalator clause and other labor-management contract stipulations gained through collective bargaining.

Insisting wage stabilization should be geared to the cost of living, Payton told his audience prices could be frozen, thus voiding the necessity of labor unions asking the escalator clause in their contracts to hike wages as cost of living rises.

Labor as a whole is concerned with the right of the government to intervene in contract negotiations, Payton said, because if regulations knocking out one part of a labor contract could be passed, then the government, if it chose, could void the entire negotiating system.

Hits High Costs

The national textile union representative noted nothing has been done on price control and cost of living has skyrocketed unbelieveably in the past few months. The government took too long to make a move to control the situation, he thought.

Revealing that organized labor doesn't want everything frozen but wages, Payton said, "We're willing to take our share of sacrifices but big business has gained considerably while labor has fought for an equal basis."

Citing as an example how big business has gained the upper hand, Payton revealed the average worker pays the same tax today as he did during the last war while a man who heads an industry with a salary of $500,000 or over per year now pays some $40,000 less in taxes.

The textile industry is another example the labor representative noted with profits apparently highest in history of textiles this year. The industry is making 30 to 40 per cent profit compared to 18 per cent several years ago. The textile bosses are among the highest paid in American industry while the wages of textile workers are very low comparatively with steel, coal, auto and other industries, he pointed out. Only auto, cigaret and chemical executives draw higher salaries than textile men, Payton said. The union is fighting to put some of the industry's profits into the pockets of the workers instead of into huge executive salaries.

He stated that the main cause the textile union lags behind steel, auto, coal and other industries in wages is because those workers are 95 to 98 per cent organized while the textile employes are only 40 per cent organized.

Blackwell Speaks

James A. Blackwell, southern publicity director of the textile union, also attended the installation and revealed the union's fight with big business caused the president of the textile industry to resign from the Wage Stabilization Board.

Payton, one of 20 national vice presidents of the textile organization, installed the officers of the local union at the Frostburg Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion home.

Officers Installed

Taking office were Playford Aldridge, president; John M. Fatkin, vice president; John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer; Charles F. Davis, recording secretary; James McGann, David E. Rennie and Walter Hymes, auditing committee; Francis Harvey, warden; Harry Wright, Ira McBride, Ishmiel Adams, Lillian Burch and Richard Jenkins, executive board; Roy T. Crase, Charles E. Jones, James Roby, George P. Harris and John Francis Fatkin, board of trustees.

The local union officers were named to office after a run-off election February 1.

Trades Council Plans Election And Smoker

Officers will be nominated and elected at a meeting of the Allegany Trades Council Tuesday, February 27, at 7:30 p. m.

A smoker will be held following the election of officers of the AFL central labor body here.

Local Resident Hit

James E. Kelley, 70 of 444 Goethe Street was struck last night at 9:45 p. m. on Baltimore Avenue, police said, by a hit and run driver. He was admitted to Allegany Hospital with head injuries and X-rays will be taken.

Police officer Charles W. Thompson investigated the accident.

Weather

There seems to be little prospect of more cold weather soon although yesterday's wind made the day somewhat uncomfortable. Constitution Park weather station reported a high of 40 for the 24 hour period. Lowest reading was 31. The temperature stood at 34 last night about 9 o'clock. The forecast for today is for fair with little change in temperatures.

National Negro Opera Company Chorus

"The Ordering of Moses," a Biblical story told in operatic form, will be presented at Allegany High School auditorium tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock by the cast of the National Negro Opera Company, Inc. The company was organized in 1941 by the current director, Mrs. Mary Caldwell Dawson. The opera company has enjoyed success in various performances through the country and has been lauded by many outstanding critics of the opera. Written by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett, "The Ordering of Moses" portrays the struggle of the Israelities to escape bondage imposed by King Pharoah of Egypt.

Faith In God Can Save U. S. GOP Is Told

Iowa Rep. Keynotes Lincoln Day Dinner

"What we need in the United States today is faith in God, hard work and a return to the fundamental principles of Americanism."

That was the keynote of the 55-minute speech last night by Rep. Paul Cunningham, of Des Moines, Iowa, principal speaker last night at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner of the Republican Party of Allegany county. Some 250 GOP stalwarts attended the annual get-together held in the Centre Street Methodist Church Recreation Hall.

"The Republican Party today has the challenge to save America," Rep. Cunningham emphasized. "We need to do a better job of selling true Americanism than other people are doing of selling false philosophies to the American people.

"Abraham Lincoln, the man whose memory we honor tonight, in his day realized that secession of a part of the United States would have destroyed our form of government. Lincoln faced the challenge to save America in his day and we must do it today. There is no other party today that can save America. The Democratic Party has been captured by the New Dealers, the New Dealers have been captured by the Fair Dealers, the Fair Dealers have been captured by the Socialists and the Communists have captured the Socialists."

People Are Masters

In his speech Rep. Cunningham said that through the centuries there have been only two types of government despite all of the various names that have been given to governments. Under one type, as typified today by Communist Russia, the government is the master and the people are the servants. Under the American system, as laid down in the Constitution, the government is the servant and the people are the masters.

Cunningham stressed that the Constitution established three separate branches, the law makers, the administrators and law enforcers and the judiciary. A bi-cameral legislature provided further checks because the cooling off process has served as a great safety valve for liberties, the speaker added.

The Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, has served as guarantee of those liberties, he told his attentive audience.

Cunningham was introduced by Rep. J. Glenn Beall of this district. Beall emphasized in his brief introductory remarks that the Iowa Congressman has been a big help to the people of Western Maryland. He said Cunningham was chairman of a sub-committee of the House Public Works Committee which prepared and pushed through the committee and Congress the legislation which provided both for the Savage River Dam and the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

Earl E. Manges, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany county, served as toastmaster.

GOP Officials Attend

Manges introduced a number of prominent Republicans who attended last night's affair. He began with the other members of the State Central Committee. Among these were Edgar M. Lewis, vice-chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Elias; Jeremiah T. Defibaugh and D. Jerome Wilson. Two other members, Victor M. Hebb and Marshall Van Meter were absent.

Also presented were Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Delegate

Principals At Allegany County Lincoln Day Dinner

These were some of the principals at last night's Lincoln Day Dinner for Allegany County Republicans, held in the Centre Street Methodist Church Recreation Hall. At the speakers' table were, left to right, Mrs. J. Glenn Beall; Congressman Paul Cunningham, Des Moines, Iowa, the principal speaker; Earl E. Manges, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, who served as toastmaster; Congressman J. Glenn Beall, who introduced the speaker, and Mrs. Thomas Elias, Frostburg.

$1,112 Awarded Driver In Suit Against Fireman

Action Results From South End Crash

Verdicts totaling $1,112.20 were returned yesterday afternoon against Lt. Francis J. Wallace, 43 New Hampshire Avenue, a city fierman, by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury which deliberated about 45 minutes.

Herman M. Meekins, 439 Pine Avenue, had filed two suits against the Mayor and City Council and Lt. Wallace for a total of $3,000 damages as a result of a collision between his automobile and a South End fire truck which Lt. Wallace was driving to a fire. The collision occurred January 3, 1950, at Virginia Avenue and Second Street.

The truck crashed into the window of the Cumberland Electric Company, Inc., 137 Virginia Avenue.

Associate Judge George Henderson dismissed the suits yesterday insofar as they pertained to the Mayor and City Council. He acted on a demurrer filed by City Attorney W. Earle Cobey.

Judge Henderson ruled that the Mayor and City Council could not be sued in this case because Meekins did not comply with a city ordinance which requires that persons having claims against the city must file notice of the claim within 30 days after the occurrence.

Attorney Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., who represented Meekins, presented four witnesses. Besides the plaintiff they were John Nisbet, North Cedar Street; Donald C. True, Grand Avenue, and Ronald McDonald, Arch Street. All said they did not hear a siren or any other sound of the approaching fire truck before the crash.

Defense witnesses besides Wallace included Edgar L. Bucy, Calvin Wilt and Ralph Mahaney, three other firemen who were on the apparatus with him. In all, Defense Attorneys Thomas B. Finan and John P. Mackey presented eight witnesses.

Finally, in rebuttal, the plaintiff's attorneys sent Detective Thomas J. See and Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis to the stand. They testified concerning visability as they observed it at noon yesterday at Virginia Avenue and Second Street when they were taken there by Ryan.

Old Will Filed In Court Here

Two wills, including one concerning the will of a Borden Shaft woman who died more than seven years ago, were admitted to probate in Orphans Court yesterday.

The will of the long-dead woman was written on a single sheet of stationery. It was the will of Mrs. Agnes McGregor, who died January 7, 1944. It left all of her estate to her daughter, Mrs. Helen McGregor Smith, who was her only survivor.

Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart said that Mrs. Smith had the will in her possession ever since her mother's death but was unaware that she should have it probated. Mrs. McGregor's will was dated May 8, 1943. Mrs. Smith was named executrix.

Charles Grant Davidson 79-year old retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad flagman, 609 Quebec Avenue, who died December 30, stipulated in his will, also admitted to probate yesterday, that his two daughters, Mrs. Grace D. Bartek, 606 Montreal Avenue, and Mrs. Thelma D. Manning, of the Quebec Avenue address, should be the executices.

The will provided $1 each for his four sons and divided the rest of his property, including the Quebec Avenue property, equally between the two daughters.

Births Announced

Allegany Hospital anounces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wallace, 127 West Oldtown Road, a son, yesterday morning.

Memorial Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hensel, LaVale, a son yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kunis, 237 Elder Street, a son, yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd B. Ashenfelter, Wiley Ford, W. Va., a son, yesterday morning.

Speaker Recalls Lincoln's Aid To Confederate Friend

A little-known incident of how Abraham Lincoln, during the Civil War, performed a friendly act for Alexander H. Stephens, vice-president of the Confederacy, while the North and the South were still at war was related last night by Rep Paul Cunningham, Iowa Republican, speaking at the annual Lincoln Day dinner here last night.

Cunningham said that during the Mexican War Lincoln and Stephens became friends as they both were members of the United States Congress.

In early 1865, just before the end of the war, an attempt to end hostilities was made when several representatives of the North and the South met on a gunboat at Hampton Roads, Virginia.

Although the meeting ended fruitlessly, Lincoln asked his friend Stephens if he could do any favor for him. Lincoln's political enemy but personal friend asked if the President could find the whereabouts of Stephens' nephew, who had not been heard from since 1861 but was believed to be a prisoner of war.

A few days later, Stephens' nephew was pardoned and released from a Federal prison in Lake Erie. He was brought to Washington and there Lincoln allowed the young Confederate to roam the city for four days renewing acquaintances with friends there. Later, the young man was returned safely to the Confederate lines.

Cunningham said the incident was told him several years ago by George A. Dondero, a Republican Congressman from Michigan. He said that Dondero was recognized as a leading authority on Lincoln.

The Iowan added that Dondero's own life was a typical American success story. He said that the Michigan Congressman was the son of Italian immigrants and as a teen-aged boy cleaned saloon spittoons to earn money to further his education.

Radio Club Aids Garrett Defense

The Mountain Radio Club last night offered its services for the Civil Defense of Garrett County.

The action was taken after John S. Elliott, Grantsville, Garrett County Civil Defense director, asked for information concerning amateur radio operators of that county.

He asked that all amateur or commercial operators of the Garrett County section volunteer their services in the work.

The radio club is already busy organizing its facilities for Civil Defense work in Allegany County.

The club, with an active membership of 25, includes 20 licensed operators. Fourteen of the radio hams have cars and two of them own mobile transmitters.

The club is awaiting word from the American Amateur Radio League on the frequency to be assigned for Civil Defense work.

During World War II, the two meter band was used.

Two pictures, "Realm of the Wild" and "Radio Antennas", were shown by Brook Bodkin, of the State Forestry Department.

Area Men Join Army, Air Force

Five men from the Tri-State area have enlisted in the U. S. Army and Air Force at Martinsburg, W. Va., according to M/Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local recruiter.

In the army for three years are James S. Cole, 23, former serviceman with the Corps of Engineers, Frostburg; John H. Snyder, Jr., 27, Ridgeley, W. Va.; and William A. Ruckman, 20, Wiley Ford, W. Va.

Enlisted in the Air Force for four years were Charles S. Clites, 21, Ridgeley, W. Va., and James T. Johnson, 19, of 206 Washington Street.

Army enlistees have been sent to Fort George G. Meade, and those entering the Air Force are enroute to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Joins Fraternity

Robert Keefe, this city, a student at the University of Richmond, has been initiated into Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity. Keefe, a freshman in Richmond College, is the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Keefe, 522 Beall Street.

Paper Collection Set

Waste paper will be collected on all streets north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue Monday morning. Bundles should be placed on curbs before 9 a. m.

Sherman The Turtle Visits Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 22 (AP)—Sherman the turtle, who raised more havoc on Savage Mountain with his hot tail than the general did in Georgia, visited the legislature today.

However, Sherman wasn't in his shell. He hadn't been for some time.

Sherman was caught two years ago spreading a fire all along the eastern slope of the Allegany County mountain. But he wasn't doing it intentionally.

Someone had strung a wire through his shell and tied an oil-soaked rag to it. A touch of a match and Sherman broke a speed record.

When state foresters caught up with him, Sherman had doused himself in a pool after setting a string of fires.

The foresters became fond of Sherman but finally separated him from his shell.

Sherman's exterior was the prize exhibit before a Senate Finance hearing of the Department of State Forests and Parks budget.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham said he had many more examples of "weapons" used by fire-setters, among them catapult devices which sling fires all around.

"But we didn't dare bring them in," he said.

"The Army has told us to withhold all information. They're afraid saboteurs might use them in a war."

Railroad Group Opposes City's Taxing Program

Urging the abolition of the Smoke Engineer's Department and additional economies by the city in a recent letter to the Mayor and City Council, the Baltimore and Ohio Local Federation No. 7 went on record as being opposed to the city's efforts to gain increased taxing powers.

Taking cognizance of the current economic situation of the present governing body, the letter, addressed to City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, said the Federation believes "remarks of City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson at a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting to be a feeler sent out for the sole purpose of judging the reaction of our citizens."

The organization unalterably opposed "any increase in any taxation which may be under consideration at the present time."

Believing that additional economies could be made by the Mayor and Council so "present income of the city would be sufficient" the B&O federation urged abolition of the position of Smoke Engineer as an "ideal means of saving us thousands of dollars per year."

The letter was signed by E. W. Valentine, Arch Street, secretary of the federation.

Bowling Green May Get Fire Hydrants, Lights

Assembly Approval Sought By Residents

A proposal for the installation of fire hydrants and a street lighting system in Bowling Green has been formulated and will be sent to the Maryland Assembly for consideration.

A group of 15 Bowling Green residents held an open meeting at the Volunteer Fire Hall in Bowling Green Thursday night to explain the plan to property owners and residents of the community.

George B. Hartman, chairman of the temporary committee said last night the purpose of the meeting was to discuss measures of establishing a special taxing area in the Bowling Green section.

This would permit the installation of fire hydrants on the Cumberland 20 inch water main which runs through the area along Route 220 and Cresap Drive from Cumberland to the Celanese plant. A street lighting system is also being considered.

Bill Is Prepared

The addition of the hydrants would allow more protection against fires in the Bowling Green section Harman said.

Recently a rough draft of a bill to establish boundaries and apply a tax fate adequate to defray the expense of the hydrants and line installation was sent to the General Assembly. Also included in the draft was data on the maintenance of both facilities after the initial costs are absorbed.

At the meeting, various phases of the program were discussed. J. Frederick Walton, Allegany County assessor gave the amount of assessable property in the area. James B. Gerderman spoke on the cost of the hydrants and the lines, and S. S. Smith talked on the location, style and cost of lights for the community.

E. L. Ewald, manager of the Potomac Edison Company office at Cumberland, gave a brief talk on installation of lights in Bowling Green.

Get Cost Estimates

After minor changes were made in the original draft sent back by the County delegation in Annapolis, Calvin Ayers made a motion to return the copy to the Allegany County Delegation for presentation in the General Assembly. A unanimous vote of the 84 citizens attending the meeting followed.

J. Milton Dick aided the group in formulating the proposal, Harman said.

On Monday night, R. G. Cover and S. S. Smith met with the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland. They discussed the plan with the city officials, and secured estimates of cost of hydrants and installation of additional pipe lines as well as rental cost after installation.

Pollution Group May Undertake "Smog" Control

$100,000 Plan Now Pending At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP) — The State Water Pollution Control Commission is willing to handle a proposed $100,000 a year program for the study and control of "smog" conditions which have plagued industrial areas of Maryland for many years.

And the State Department of Health is anxious to administer the program.

The textile industry is another example the labor representative noted with profits apparently highest in history of textiles this year. The industry is making 30 to 40 per cent profit compared to 18 per cent several years ago. The textile bosses are among the highest paid in American industry while the wages of textile workers are very low comparatively with steel, coal, auto and other industries, he pointed out. Only auto, cigaret and chemical executives draw higher salaries than textile men, Payton said. The union is fighting to put some of the industry's profits into the pockets of the workers instead of into huge executive salaries.

He stated that the main cause the textile union lags behind steel, auto, coal and other industries in wages is because those workers are 95 to 98 per cent organized while the textile employes are only 40 per cent organized.

Blackwell Speaks

James A. Blackwell, southern publicity director of the textile union, also attended the installation and revealed the union's fight with big business caused the president of the textile industry to resign from the Wage Stabilization Board.

Payton, one of 20 national vice presidents of the textile organization, installed the officers of the local union at the Frostburg Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion home.

Officers Installed

Taking office were Playford Aldridge, president; John M. Fatkin, vice president; John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer; Charles F. Davis, recording secretary; James McGann, David E. Rennie and Walter Hymes, auditing committee; Francis Harvey, warden; Harry Wright, Ira McBride, Ishmiel Adams, Lillian Burch and Richard Jenkins, executive board; Roy T. Crase, Charles E. Jones, James Roby, George P. Harris and John Francis Fatkin, board of trustees.

The local union officers were named to office after a run-off election February 1.

Trades Council Plans Election And Smoker

Officers will be nominated and elected at a meeting of the Allegany Trades Council Tuesday, February 27, at 7:30 p. m.

A smoker will be held following the election of officers of the AFL central labor body here.

Local Resident Hit

James E. Kelley, 70 of 444 Goethe Street was struck last night at 9:45 p. m. on Baltimore Avenue, police said, by a hit and run driver. He was admitted to Allegany Hospital with head injuries and X-rays will be taken.

Police officer Charles W. Thompson investigated the accident.

Weather

There seems to be little prospect of more cold weather soon although yesterday's wind made the day somewhat uncomfortable. Constitution Park weather station reported a high of 40 for the 24 hour period. Lowest reading was 31. The temperature stood at 34 last night about 9 o'clock. The forecast for today is for fair with little change in temperatures.

9 Pickets Held For Jury Action

Nine pickets arrested February 12 for conspiracy action under the Red Man Act in the Preston County coal fields are being held for the grand jury which meets March 13. They were given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon at the office of Magistrate F. W. Pritt in Kingwood.

Eleven pickets had been arrested on that day but one of them was under age and was turned over to juvenile court authorities. John Rightman was released because of not being identified as taking part in the stoning of two Kray Coal Company buses in which two drivers were injured.

About 35 carloads of pickets were out yesterday morning in the Preston County mines area but Sheriff J. H. Benson said no violence or attempts at violence occurred. State police were on hand to quell any possible disorder.

Three separate hearings will be held on Monday. John Hartman and Arnold Jennings will be tried under provisions of the Red Man Act on charges of assaulting Clyde Lee last Sunday as he returned from a barn after watering ponies used in mine operations of the Borgman mine located on Route 26 south of Kingwood.

Four men arrested for strewing nails and tacks on the highway used by miners going to work near Tunnelton will also be given a hearing.

The final hearing involves 21 pickets who allegedly stoned a bus carrying non-union workers to a Kray Coal Company mine near Howesville, W. Va., Wednesday.

Thus far 70 pickets have been arrested in the Preston County flare-up, Sheriff Benson said last night.

National Negro Opera Company Chorus

"The Ordering of Moses," a Biblical story told in operatic form, will be presented at Allegany High School auditorium tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock by the cast of the National Negro Opera Company, Inc. The company was organized in 1941 by the current director, Mrs. Mary Caldwell Dawson. The opera company has enjoyed success in various performances through the country and has been lauded by many outstanding critics of the opera. Written by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett, "The Ordering of Moses" portrays the struggle of the Israelities to escape bondage imposed by King Pharoah of Egypt.

Weather Forecast
Fair with little change in temperature today; tomorrow partly cloudy and warmer.

ALLIES GAIN; RESISTANCE HEAVY

Wilson Warns Would-Be Profiteers

Truman Collects Legislators' Letters To RFC But Finds No Evidence Of Illegal Influence

President Says He Will Send Material To Probing Senators At Their Request

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—President Truman stirred the wrath of investigating senators today when it was disclosed he had collected a file of letters written by congressmen to the RFC, but he later explained he found no evidence of 'illegal influence' on the huge lending agency.

Mr. Truman said he saw no reason to make the correspondence public since, he said, it did not show any illegality either on the part of the executive branch or legislators.

If the senators thought otherwise, he stated, "the material will be sent to the subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee at its request."

Thus ended a wild day of alarms and excursions on Capitol Hill.

It all started with a morning session of the subcommittee, which has charged that influence emanating from the White House had been exerted on lending policies of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Interpreted As Counterattack

Senators on the subcommittee discovered that the President had ordered the mass of correspondence delivered to the White House. They immediately interpreted this as a counterattack against their investigation and got hopping mad.

Almost in a chorus they declared they refused to be intimidated.

It was disclosed that the President had in his possession between 700 and 900 letters from RFC files. Most of them are from congressmen, and some ask favorable consideration of loan applications. And among the correspondents are Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), chairman of the subcommittee, and Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), a committee member.

While the cries of indignation were still echoing through Congress, the President issued a brief statement through his press secretary, Joseph Short, which said that the letters were requested in connection with a study of his plans for reorganization of the RFC. It did not explain exactly why they were needed in connection with that study.

Dawson's Wife Gathered Letters

Mr. Truman has proposed to abolish the five-man board of directors and put administration of the agency under a single head. He has also suggested additional safeguards with respect to loan policy.

Chairman Fulbright accused the RFC of planting reports that he had tried to influence an RFC loan.

When the subcommittee charged recently that political favoritism and influence has affected the RFC's policy in handing out millions of dollars in public money, President Truman brushed the charges off as asinine.

Among those accused of exercising influence on the agency was one of the president's aides, Donald Dawson.

Today's testimony brought to light that the congressional correspondence was gathered together by Dawson's wife, an employe of the RFC, and that it passed through Dawson's hands on its way to the presidential desk.

Caldwell Rules Out Building Of Large, Deep Raid Shelters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell announced today that no federal funds will be put into construction of big deep, community-type shelters.

Caldwell told a news conference that idea has definitely been abandoned because such a huge undertaking would be too slow and impossibly costly in money, materials, labor, time and effort.

"It would require $300,000,000,000 and all the labor and all the steel for the next several years—to the exclusion of the defense program and much else that is essential to life," he said.

Caldwell said chief reliance in civil defense will have to be placed on existing structures, which can be strengthened or adapted where necessary for shelter use.

Truman Ignores Report He May Run For Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — The White House kept silent today on reports that President Truman may run for his old Senate seat when his term expires Jan. 20, 1953.

But Attorney General McGrath appeared skeptical.

Emerging from a Cabinet meeting at the White House, McGrath was told of the reports circulating on Capitol Hill.

"Would you buy that?" a reporter asked.

McGrath smiled. "No," he said, and walked away.

White House Press Secretary Joseph Short said he had no comment.

However, old friends of Mr. Truman in Congress said he is seriously considering a return to the Senate where he spent 10 happy years. One Congress member, who declined to be quoted by name, but put it this way:

"If Harry Truman does what he really wants to do, he will run against Sen. Kem (R-Mo) in the 1952 election. He really loves the Senate."

Several White House callers have privately quoted the President as hinting he will not seek another term in the executive mansion. They say he sometimes talks nostalgically about returning to the Senate.

Johnson Returned To Senate

Mr. Truman will have served nearly eight years in the White House when his present term expires. He stepped up from the vice presidency on April 12, 1945, after the death of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Only one American president, Andrew Johnson of Tennessee, has ever been elected to the Senate after serving in the White House. Johnson, a former senator, was re-elected to the Senate in 1875 but died a few months later.

John Quincy Adams, the nation's sixth president, went from the White House to the House of Representatives and served almost 17 years there.

Truman Plans Long Rest At Key West, Fla.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — President Truman decided today to get away from some of the White House routine and take his first extended rest since the outbreak of the Korean war last June.

He will fly to the Key West, Fla., submarine base, his favorite spot for relaxing, next Friday to stay at least 23 days. It will be the first vsit to the "Summer White House" in a year.

He will return to Washington in late March in time for the Latin-American foreign ministers conference and the visit of President Auriol of France

"Tippy" Makes Best Of "Eviction"

Token Sales Are Ruled Out As Basis For Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — The government today ruled out "token" sales of meat and other items by manufacturers and wholesalers as the basis for fixing ceiling prices.

Ceiling prices now must be based on those which were charged for at least 10 per cent of the items.

Director Michael V. DiSalle of the Office of Price Stabilization said in a statement the action is designed to reduce the prices of some manufacturers and wholesalers "who are taking advantage of isolated sales before the freeze to establish abnormal ceiling prices for their goods and services."

May Help Retailers

Other stabilization officials told reporters they did not look for much change at the retail level as a result of the new order.

They said, however, that in some cases it might help relieve the "squeeze" on retailers who are paying abnormally high prices but must sell at no more than their highest prices between Dec. 19, 1950 and Jan. 25, 1951. They also said that complaints of price run-ups had come particularly from the meat industry.

Under the general freeze order of Jan. 26, sellers' prices were set at the highest price they "delivered" goods and services during the base period.

Anticipated Freeze Order

"Some manufacturers have claimed ceilings at substantially higher prices than those which they were generally charging in the base period because of a few isolated sales," today's announcement said. It added that in some cases "there is reason to believe that sellers anticipated the freeze order by deliberately embarking on a policy of periodically making sales in small quantities at abnormally high prices in order to record transactions at prices which would prove advantageous if prices were frozen as of some earlier period."

Today's order is intended to correct this. "The "highest price" provision of the original order will apply to manufacturers and wholesalers only to sales which amounted to 10 per cent or more of all deliveries to one class of purchasers during the base period.

British Jet Lands At Andrews Field

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — A slick black jet bomber slid in to Andrews Air Base today after a 450-mile-an-hour flight from Gander, N. F., for a demonstration before top Air Force officials.

The plane was the English Electric Company's Canberra, first British jet bomber type. Tuesday it flew from Belfast, Ireland, to Gander to set a new speed mark for North Atlantic crossings of four hours 40 minutes.

Squadron Leader A. E. Callard, husky, mustachioed pilot of the Canberra, gave a brief show of high speed and slow speed passes over a crowd of military and British officials gathered at the air base. He had given a similar show at Gander after taking off, so that his total time from wheels up to landing was three hours and ten minutes for the 1,325-mile flight.

Senate To Speed Draft Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Senate administration leaders today decided to speed action on legislation for the drafting of 18-year-olds before settling the troops-for-Europe issue.

Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz.) told newsmen after a Democratic caucus that Senate debate on the manpower bill will start early next week, probably on Tuesday.

The bill, providing for a universal military service and training program, would grant restricted authority for drafting 18-year-olds. It would also extend the period of service from 21 to 26 months.

Previously, the Senate had planned to take up the controversial question of sending more U. S. troops to Europe before debating the draft.

But McFarland said the change in plans was decided on because the draft measure is ready while an administration-backed resolution on the troops-for-Europe issue has not yet been drawn up by Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

McFarland said he didn't expect any attempt to tie a troop-limitation rider onto the draft bill. He said he thought both Democrats and Republicans wanted to treat the two subjects as separate issues.

Historic Flag-Raising On Iwo Commemorated

IWO JIMA, Feb. 2 (AP) — A simple ceremony today commemorated the historic, heart-stirring moment six years ago when U. S. Marines raised the American flag atop Mount Suribachi.

The Marines stormed Mount Suribachi's volcanic pile four days after they tackled thousands of Japanese in a landing on Iwo Jima Feb. 19, 1945.

As the leathernecks raised the flag, the scene was recorded by Joe Rosenthal, then an Associated Press photographer. The photograph became an Allied symbol of victory and was called the outstanding picture of World War II action

U. S. Ready To Try To Build Atomic Engine For Aircraft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The United States is now ready to try for actual construction of the world's first known atom-powered aircraft engine.

This was disclosed today, with Air Force permission, by a General Electric Company spokesman who told newsmen:

"Contractual negotiations are under way between General Electric and the Air Force for development of a nuclear power plant for aircraft.

"Subject to the successful completion of negotiations, it is expected that this activity will be carried on by the aircraft gas turbine (jet engine) division of the company at its Lockland, Ohio, plant."

The announcement came just 24 hours after the Air Force and the Atomic Energy Commission reported that after four years of intensive research, the first phase in the program to develop an atomic airplane has now been completed.

The initial phase centered chiefly on mathematical computations and theoretical possibilities — the groundwork for blueprints to build the first experimental model.

Husband, Wife Reenlist

ATLANTA, Feb. 23 (AP) — A couple of ex-GIs walked into the Atlanta induction station today and reenlisted. They are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Holt, Trion, Ga., husband and wife for 14 years.

Stassen Urges GIs For Europe, Huge Air Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen today solidly backed the administration's troops-for-Europe policy and called for a mighty U. S. air fleet capable of smashing Russia's war potential.

Agreeing partly with both sides in the "Great Debate" over helping Western Europe, Stassen:

1. Strongly supported President Truman's claimed authority to send American troops overseas without congressional restrictions.

2. Advocated air power as of paramount importance in a five-point program which he said could lead to "victory without war."

Testifying before a crowded Senate hearing, Stassen spoke as lead-off man among the Republicans engaged in the troops-for-Europe controversy. Administration leaders, including Secretary of State Acheson and top military figures, have already had their say in weeks of testimony before a joint session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 1948 GOP presidential candidate, is scheduled to testify tomorrow. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and Wherry (R-Neb) will be heard next week, with former President Herbert Hoover as a possible later entry.

Stassen, who aspired to the GOP nomination in 1948, threw his support behind the Taft-Wherry-Hoover school of thought to the extent of urging a great buildup of American air power. The Truman program calls for an air power buildup, but some members of Congress and others contend not enough emphasis is being put on that aspect of defense.

Stassen championed the policy of the Truman administration in sending troop reinforcements to Europe, declaring:

"The program so ably presented by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for rearming Western Europe, including the use of American arms and men, (should) be given solid support.

"If America showed timidity and shortsightedness in refusing to back up Gen. Eisenhower, I believe the reaction right inside America would seriously undermine the stability and confidence in our own economy which is essential for all purposes."

Formosa Raid Alarm Spreads Excitement

TATTIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 23 (AP)—An air raid alarm, at first believed to be the real thing, spread excitement today in this city, which is preparing for Chinese Communist attacks expected with the arrival of good weather.

Radar detectors spotted the approach of unidentified planes flying toward this Chinese Nationalist island stronghold from the northwest, an air defense spokesman said.

Another government report said there were six planes and the radar eventually lost them. It was not known whether they were hostile.

Hints Pending Wage Formula To Be Revised

Increased Defense Budgets Indicated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson told the nation tonight that "nobody—I said nobody" is going to profiteer from the defense emergency without being prosecuted.

Wilson promised to recommend legislation to back up this pledge made in his first address to the country on the progress of the gigantic mobilization program. His speech was broadcast nationwide.

It contained a possible hint that the government's proposed wage ceiling formula might yet be modified. Organized labor has bitterly assailed it as too low. He said:

"Wage policies are being modified again to conform with the best interest of the entire economy."

But there was no assurance this would satisfy labor unions in their heated demand for broad liberalization of the formula now before Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnson for his decision.

18,000 Jet Engines A Month

The pending formula would have knocked out the Jan. 26 wage freeze and allowed wages to reach 10 per cent above the figures on Jan. 15, 1950. Labor wanted 12 per cent without counting indirect gains such as pensions and automatic cost of living increases.

A weekend announcement by Johnston was expected.

Wilson also disclosed:

1. The United States intends to expand jet engine production capacity to 18,000 a month. He did not give the present figure.

2. The United States will be asked for $150,000,000,000 extra for defense "in the next two or three years." Over a three-year period this would be about $100,000,000,000 more than the rate of defense appropriations before the Korean outbreak.

Also it apparently meant much greater future budgets than the $71,600,000,000 which President Truman already has asked for the 1951-52 fiscal year.

3. Production increases on such basic commodities as steel and aluminum will be so great that in two years — barring all-out war — the amounts available for civilian uses will be equal to what consumers received before the Korean war.

Sees Big Car Output

4. Automobile plants will produce more cars this year than they did in 1948 unless war breaks out—"and that is a lot of cars."

5. At the top of the defense buildup "we shall be ready for all-out war, or all-out peace."

The union leaders' violent attack on the mobilization setup as unfair to labor and dominated by big business drew no direct reply from Wilson.

On wage policy modification, Wilson did not elaborate.

Asked specifically whether he meant that Johnston would modify the wage formula, Wilson told reporters: "It doesn't mean that at all."

Earlier, Howard Chase, a spokesman for Wilson, told reporters the reference in the Wilson speech meant that Johnston was going to modify the formula and was probably going to announce it by Sunday.

To combat inflation Wilson advocated:

1. Stricter credit restrictions.
2. Higher taxes.
3. Elimination of inequities in the "stopgap" price and wage freeze orders of January 26.
4. Solution of the problem of controlling food prices.
5. "A fiscal policy that discourages inflation."
6. The promised legislative recommendations, which he did not forecast in detail, to prevent profiteering and "chiseling."

Total Communist Casualties Reach Estimated 624,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Total Communist casualties in Korea reached an estimated 624,000 on Feb. 20, the Army reported today.

The breakdown of all enemy losses for eight months of fighting shows that the Chinese Reds lost an estimated 325,000 killed and wounded and about 21,000 from disease, accidents and cold weather afflictions such as frostbite, making total Chinese casualties 346,000.

The North Korean forces have lost a total of 410,000 men since June 25, the Army calculated. This casualty figure is made up of an estimated 242,000 killed and wounded, 40,000 non-battle casualties and 128,000 prisoners of war.

Total American casualties announced through Feb. 16 were 49,132.

U.N. Good Offices Committee Sends Feeler To China

Hopes To Arrange Peace Discussions

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 23 (AP)—The U. N. Good Offices Committee is using every available diplomatic channel to see whether Communist China will change its mind and negotiate on peace in Korea. This was disclosed today by a spokesman for the committee chairman, Nasrollah Entezam, who is awaiting Peiping's reply to the first tentative feeler.

Swedish channels in Stockholm and Peiping were used for the first efforts by the committee which was established by the General Assembly on Feb. 1, it was reported. Sweden is one of the few non-Communist countries which recognized Red China and Sweden's delegate, Sven Graftstrom, is a member of the committee, along with Luis Padilla Nervo, Mexico.

Red China denounced the committee at the time it was created and indicated it would not deal with it. The main purpose of the Good Offices Committee's first approach to Peiping is to see whether the Red Chinese really meant it.

Entezam's spokesman made his disclosure after diplomatic quarters had said the Good Offices Committee sent its feeler earlier this week through Swedish channels.

The three committee members have undertaken their talks and plans in secrecy and have studiously avoided talking about them. The last time the three were known to have met formally was on Monday.

Top Reds Warn "Imperialists"

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP) — Two Soviet marshals, Vassily D. Sokolovsky and Ivan S. Konev, declared today Russia's armed forces would smash "imperialism" in any new world war.

The Moscow radio broadcast articles by them in Izvestia and Pravda on this 33rd anniversary of the founding of the Soviet army and navy.

Sokokovsky said in the government paper Izvestia that any imperialist power "which encroaches upon the honor and independence of the Soviet state will be ignominiously defeated by the Soviet armed forces."

Konev, in the Communist paper Pravda, said the United States "imperialists should understand that the times of unbridled and unhindered colonial conquest and robbery of other countries are long and irrevocably past."

Boy, 10, Doomed By Cancer Poses Unanswerable Query

McLEANSBORO, Ill., Feb. 23 (INS) — Ten-year-old Donald Redfern, who is apparently hopelessly ill of bone cancer, looked up from his hospital bed in McLeansboro, Ill., today and posed an unanswerable question for his mother.

"Mama," said Donald, "I don't want to die but do you think God will let me play cowboy when I get to heaven?"

His mother pressed her blond son's thin hand and did not reply.

Donald had been seriously ill of the dread ailment for the past 18 months. Physicians say he may die at any time before his eleventh birthday May 24.

Before he became bed-ridden, he sang and played the piano and mellohorn. He liked to play baseball, to read comic books and to listen to hillbilly music.

Most of all, he liked to play cowboy.

His mother says his only relaxation now is molding clay figures as he lies in bed.

Donald's father, Harry E. Redfern, is a $2,150-a-year schoolteacher in McLeansboro.

Reds Expected To Make Stand In Mountains

U. N. Forces Close In On Hoengsong

TOKYO, Saturday, Feb. 24 (AP)—Battling Chinese and North Korean Reds gave ground slowly today in Central Korea under the weight of a 100,000 man Allied offensive.

Supplied by C-119 "Flying Boxcars," mud-wading troops of six nations had sealed the last hill overlooking Hoengsong and advanced east and west of that vital highway hub.

A dispatch from U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Reds still were withdrawing on the fourth day of the new Allied offensive but were expected to make a stand in the mountains beyond Hoengsong.

Communiques of both the Eighth Army and Gen. MacArthur stressed heavy enemy resistance.

West of war-wrecked Hoengsong, an enemy battalion unleashed a counterattack this morning against South Koreans. The enemy struck behind a Red mortar barrage. The result was not disclosed.

25 Miles From Parallel

Between Hoengsong and Chipyong, 20 miles west, British and Canadian soldiers found it slow going against a hard-fighting foe. But northeast of Chipyong, U. S. troops advanced five miles beyond the town to a point less than 25 miles from the 38th parallel.

Twenty-five miles east of Hoengsong, Allied troops moved north from reoccupied Pyongchang, the enemy's abandoned eastern anchor. There was no mention of opposition.

Latest reports from Eighth Army headquarters said there were indications the Reds may make their big stand somewhere on a line running from north of Hoengsong westward to the Chipyong sector.

Previously there were signs that a 15,000-man Red force was prepared to stand or die at Hoengsong.

Such a line would defend Hongchon, a vital Red assembly point and road junction 15 miles northwest of Hoengsong.

Drive To Kill Reds

Allied officers have emphasized that the primary objective of the drive is not to seize territory but to find and kill Reds. But advances Friday were up to eight miles, MacArthur's communique said.

Friday, for the second straight day, the estimate of Red casualties was under 1,000.

Twenty-five miles east of Hoengsong, an American column raced four miles north of Pyongchang, straddling a vital road.

West of Hoengsong, Canadians of the Princess Pat Regiment had an all-day firefight with two enemy battalions as the Canadian battalion spearheaded the action in the British commonwealth area.

Still farther west, along the Hukchon River valley northeast of Chipyong, Americans patrolled deep in Red teritory without contacting the Chinese. Other such Allied patrols met small-arms and automatic weapons fire, however.

The whole United Nations front was within 35 miles south of the 38th parallel, onetime boundary of North and South Korea.

Before Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Eighth Army forces could reach that elusive line, they would have to comb over 5,250 square miles of rocks, cliffs, steep hills and mid-sloppy mountain roads to kill unknown numbers of Chinese and Korean Reds.

Bloody Chinese Purge Forecast

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — State Department officials believe China's Communist leaders are about to undertake large-scale, bloody purges to consolidate their iron hold over the country.

That was the interpretation generally placed here today on a Peiping announcement broadcast yesterday. The broadcast, as picked up in Hong Kong, disclosed that Red leaders had ordered the death penalty for any acts which might be construed as "opposition" to the regime.

Information which is credited by government experts here is that there has been considerable resistance in China to the Red regime since it took over. However, according to this information, resistance has been for the most part spotty and localized.

American officials say they are unaware of any fighting that even begins to approach civil war. Resistance is attributed more to isolated guerrilla groups loyal to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek on Formosa, to bandits of the kind traditionally found in China or to persons who preferred underground independence to subservience to the Communists.

28 Nominated For Peace Prize

OSLO, Feb. 23 (INS)—U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and a number of Americans, including former Chicago University President Robert M. Hutchins, were among 28 individuals nominated today for the 1951 Nobel peace prize.

The Norwegian Parliamentary Committee said Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and British Attorney-General Sir Hartley Shawcross were candidates for the award to be given next September.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, American U. N. mediator who helped end the Palestine fighting, received the 1950 peace prize.

Besides Hutchins, an associate director of the Ford Foundation, these other Americans are among the nominees:

Frank Buchman, Washington, D. C., leader of the moral rearmament movement; H. C. Honegger, founder of the Pestalozzi Foundation in New York; Manley O. Hudson, Harvard Law School professor and world peace movement figure; Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of the Supreme Court; and Prof. Raphael Lemkin, Polish-born Yale professor of international law who wrote the U. N. anti-genocide (anti-mass murder) pact.

Other Americans named were Ewing Cockrell, Warrensburg, Mo., a lawyer who compiled a declaration of ten fundamental peace policies approved by 65 government and business leaders in 1946, and Charles Cheney Hyde of New York, an international lawyer who is a native of Chicago.

Resolution Proposes Sale Of State Yacht

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Sale of the state yacht will be proposed in a resolution being prepared by two Eastern Shore senators.

Sen. Malkus (D-Dorchester) and Shehan (D-Talbot) said today they will sponsor the resolution and plan to introduce it early next week.

The resolution would direct the Board of Public Works to sell the yacht Potomac which costs $60,000 a year to operate. Besides being for the use of the governor, the 160-foot vessel is listed as flagship of the conservation fleet. The money to run it comes from the Tidewater Fisheries Department.

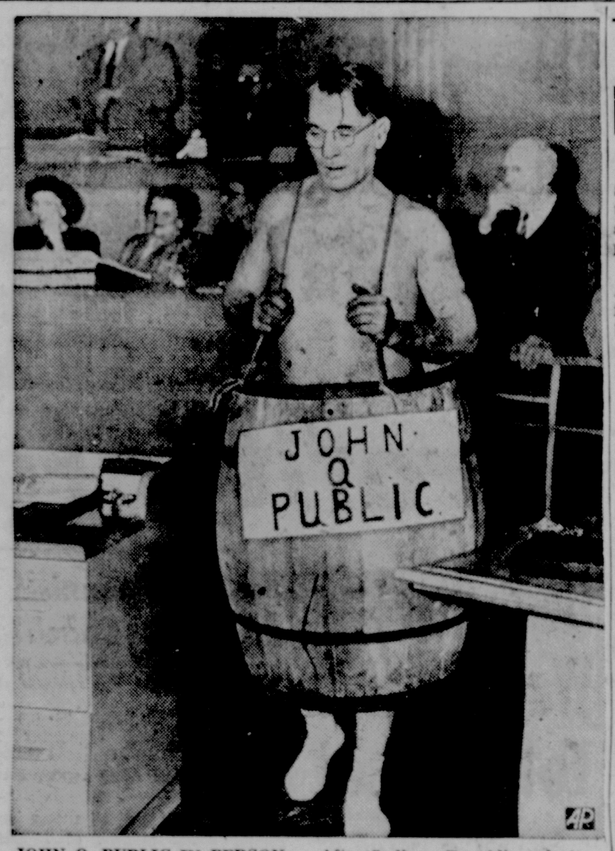
Six Pallbearers To Retrace Steps

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Feb. 23 (AP)—Six pallbearers will retrace their steps Sunday.

Thursday they bore Nelson C. Robinson, 48 to his grave at nearby Front Royal, Va., after he had died at his home here Sunday of a sudden heart attack.

Wednesday evening, Robinson's father, Robert Walter Robinson, died at 77 after a lingering illness.

The same pallbearers, all nephews of the father, will carry him to a grave in the same cemetery.



JOHN Q. PUBLIC IN PERSON — After Indiana Republican legislators demanded a cut in federal taxes and spending, a man wearing a barrel and little else except a "John Q. Public" label paraded through the legislative chamber in Indianapolis. He is George Tipps, Plainfield, Ind., invited by the GOP leaders.

Church Doesn't Expect Soviets To Enter War

FREDERICK, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Maj. Gen. John H. Church said today United Nations forces won't be pushed out of Korea unless Russia starts an all-out offensive of her own—and that possibility is very remote.

"The Russians are letting somebody else do their dirty work and are staying clear of actual war," said the man who commanded the badly outnumbered U. S. 24th Infantry Division during the early, anxious days of the Korean campaign.

Church visited his home here before leaving tomorrow for his new assignment as commander of the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga.

Progressive Appeals To Supreme Court

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Thelma Gerende, Baltimore Progressive whose plea that she be allowed to run for city councilman without signing the loyalty oath was rejected, is appealing to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury of the Court of Appeals signed the order allowing the appeal today. Some of the appeal papers have already been received, others are expected momentarily. The appeal should be delivered to the Supreme Court on Monday.

Case Of Sticky Broker Probed By Authorities

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23 (AP)—Treading lightly, officers today delved deeper into the sticky case of the real estate broker who was syruped and feathered.

They are looking for three men who, Charles S. Smith, 49, said held him captive for 48 hours, then gave him the corn syrup and feathers treatment, even adding a few handfuls of sawdust.

Deputies, lacking any gooey finger or footprints, said Smith related that he was knocked out, abducted and robbed of $1,600.

There was no doubt about Smith's condition when deputies found him. He was wearing only his wedding ring and the very sticky coat of vegetable by-products.

Teachers Asked To Present Tax Plan To Meet Proposed Pay Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP)—Senate Democrats asked school teachers today how they think the state could raise money to give them pay increases.

Chairman Turner (D-Queen Anne's) said the majority's steering committee would not consider boosting salaries until teachers themselves or the Department of Education presents a tax program.

"We are making no commitments pending receipt of the other half of their program, the tax portion, to provide a complete package for consideration," Turner said.

Nor will the seven-member committee take a position on teacher pay scales until the status of Gov. McKeldin's $160,000,000 primary budget recommendation is clear.

Earlier this week McKeldin bluntly announced his "firm opposition" to the Department of Education's bid for $500 raises for the state's 13,000 teachers and a huge outlay for construction. Its request would cost some $45,000,000.

"We will do nothing until the Finance Committee advises us about progress of the budget," Turner said.

He disclosed that Milson C. Raver, executive secretary of the State Teachers' Association, and several colleagues delivered a "compromise" program to Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) on Wednesday.

In a two-hour meeting this afternoon, the committee also endorsed generally five measures prepared by the Maryland Classified Employes Association to give state troopers a $300 pay raise and lesser benefits to retired state employes, sanatoria personnel and reformatory guards.

The Senate Finance Committee meanwhile reconsidered its decision of last week to promote a straight 2.33 per cent income tax rate. Suggested by Sen. Barton (D-Balto. 1st), the flat rate would replace a 2 per cent charge of earned income and five per cent on most income from investments and pensions.

Banjamin F. Marsh, chief auditor of the income tax division, estimated that on the basis of 1949 figures the straight rate would increase returns about $50,000 a year. A 2.5 per cent levy would bring in an additional $1,000,000.

The committee retracted its earlier favorable vote and asked marsh to bring in more data.

The House decided it is better to spell out in the statutes when and how much game and fish may be taken by sportsmen, despite the fact that the Game and Inland Fish Commission has had the power for 12 years to set the open seasons and bag and creek limits.

The delegates voted down three measures to remove the statutory provisions.

In 1949, 1,000 million passengers were carried on British railways without a single fatality.

$16.4 Billion Obligated For Military Purposes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Defense Department said today $4,400,000,000 was obligated for major military purposes during January.

The January figure raised the total for the seven months beginning last July to $16,400,000,000 out of a total of $31,800,000,000 budgeted for all military procurement and construction during the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

Bookie Says Business Grossed Millions

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23 (AP)—A member of a group charged with conducting a nationwide betting business by telegraph told the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today that his business had grossed as much as four or five million dollars annually.

Sidney Wyman, the witness, testified from the stand that the business grossed about $1,000,000 during its best year.

Later Attorney Morris Shenker told officials of the committee that upon reconsideration his client, Wyman, wanted to go on record as saying the business grosses four or five million dollars a year.

Women In War Service

Officials of women's political and civic organizations and presidents of women's colleges will discuss the contribution of women to the whole national emergency program at a conference in Washington in the spring. Women will not be drafted for military service, according to Dr. Esther B. Strong, representative of women's interests as a staff member of the Defense Department's personnel policy board.

"Women will be recruited on a voluntary basis," Dr. Strong told a group of college women February 15. "They will serve in jobs where, as women, they can render most effective service, in nursing, in communications, and other necessary duties." On January 12 Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna Rosenberg had told a Senate committee that the armed forces could use twice as many women as the number now authorized.

The Women's Armed Services Integration Act of 1948, which gave the WACS, WAVES, and WAFS the same status as men in uniform, also limited the strength of the women's branches to two per cent of armed forces personnel. The 27,000 women in the services in December, 1950, represented 1.3 per cent of all persons in the services, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. Women in the armed forces at the end of World War II totaled about 275,000, slightly more than two per cent.

In World War II women were at first assigned to "only the simplest and least responsible tasks," according to Dorothy C. Stratton, who directed the SPARS. The first volunteers, Miss Stratton recalls, "met a triple test: learning new jobs, proving that they could do those jobs without special favors, and convincing their families and the public that they were rendering an essential service." In a national emergency, Miss Stratton declares, "it is hardly realistic to suppose that it would be possible to recruit women in sufficient numbers solely by voluntary enlistment."

Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton, World War II commander of the WAVES, on February 10 advocated drafting women for military service. Mrs. Horton called for universal registration of youth "to discover the skills, resources, aptitudes and interests of the total age group and select the people who can do the work which needs to be done, with the least disruption of our economy."

The Air Force has announced that in all-out mobilization it could efficiently use women up to 10 per cent of its strength. In addition to numerical limitations, WAVES are at present forbidden foreign duty. On the latter limitation, the Louisville Courier-Journal has commented: "WACS . . . braved death and what is sometimes referred to as worse than death without any noticeable breakdown either in morale or morals, and we have no reason to conclude that their Navy counterparts cannot do as well."

It was not until 1942, some six months after the U. S. had entered World War II, that Congress authorized the service of women as auxiliaries—first in the Army and then in the Navy and Marines. Women were made part of the regular forces on July 1, 1943, but not until 1944 were WAVES allowed to serve abroad.

U. S. Losses Of Gold

The flow of more than $2 billion in gold from the United States in the past calendar year is explained by the Treasury Department as reflecting both a shift in the U. S. export-import ration and the improved position of Great Britain and France in gold and dollar reserves. U. S. gold assets on February 8, 1951, were $22,310,143,772, as compared to $24,344,434,541 on February 8, 1950.

The one-day loss of gold on February 7, 1951, was $31,106,852. In the week ended February 7, foreign nations withdraw $51 million in gold from the U. S.

Treasury figures on U. S. gold assets began to show a loss in January, 1950, after a year-end high for 1949 of $24,427 million. Withdrawals in July, 1951, totaled almost $510 million.

The flow of gold away from the U. S. reverses a trend that has caused economists serious concern as recently as the summer of 1949. Britain's gold and dollar reserves dropped by $260 million in the second quarter of 1949. In September, 1949, Britain devalued the pound sterling from $4.03 to $2.80, following talks between Sir Stafford Cripps and U. S. Treasury Secretary Snyder and a meeting of directors of the International Monetary Fund. In August, 1950, France devalued the gold reserve of the Bank of France and made official the "free market" rate of 349.6 francs to the dollar.

In the four years from July 1, 1945, to June 30, 1949, U. S. exports amounted to almost twice as much, in dollar values, as imports. Exports for that period were $67,100 million, as compared to $35,268 million in imports. This imbalance resulted in a flow of gold to the U. S. of more than $4 billion from the end of 1945 to the end of 1950. Unable to find the dollars with which to pay for purchases in the U. S., foreign governments were sacrificing gold reserves for that purpose.

Prior to the devaluation of the pound, Anthony Eden, former British Foreign Secretary, had suggested that the U. S. either release some of its gold stored at Fort Knox or increase the official price of gold above $35 an ounce. According to Eden, gold itself or the "profits" resulting from revaluation could be donated to European governments—to relieve their dollar shortages and thus redress the imbalance of trade. Profits accruing from the upward revaluation of gold by the U. S. by $10 an ounce would have amounted to $7,031 million.

Throughout 1950 U. S. imports were slowly catching up with exports. In August and again in October, 1950, U. S. imports actually overbalanced exports, in the latter month of almost $31 million. During 1949 U. S. exports ($12,041 million) had been almost double U. S. imports ($6,622 million).

Treasury officials find U. S. gold losses natural from U. S. payment for purchases abroad in gold and from the devaluations of currency by Britain, France, and other countries. But the Treasury will not comment on reports that the Bank of France has recently been buying gold from the U. S. reserve at the pegged rate of $35 and selling the gold for dollars on the free market at $42 an ounce. Gold bars bearing Russian markings have been reported selling on the free market at the $42-per-ounce rate.

Most persons don't know where the world is going and have concluded the only thing they can do is just hang on for the ride.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Inflamed Larynx

WHEN a cold spreads to the vocal cords the voice becomes rough and rasping in character. Hoarseness is part of the respiratory infection and demands the same amount of care. In most instances there is no need for concern because the disturbance will disappear within two or three days.

Ordinarily the larynx is too deep in the throat to be treated locally. As a result, physicians rarely paint the structure or suggest a gargle when simple infection exists. Inhaling steam containing tincture of benjoin helps because the moisture is soothing and the chemical mildly antiseptic. When laryngitis is accompanied by fever, the physician may recommend one of the antibiotics or sulfonamides. These substances are absorbed into the system and reach the diseased tissues via the blood stream. But the best treatment is keeping quiet. The less talking, the more rest the vocal cords receive, and rest helps any structure that is ailing.

• — • — •

Infection is only one of a hundred different causes of laryngitis. In any large crowd watching a wrestling match or football game, a small percentage is bound to yell too much and become hoarse. The same can be said of those who sing or speak too loud or too long. The excess apparently traumatizes the muscles of the larynx in the same way that our muscles become stiff and sore after doing too much around the house.

In children, an attack of acute laryngitis bears special consideration because of the possibility of diphtheria. Some youngsters also are prone to develop croup, a spasmodic form of laryngitis. When this disease appears, it is likely to take 10 years off the lives of the parents because of its terrifying nature. They usually are awakened in the middle of the night by the harsh, metallic cough of the child. Hacking is so pronounced there is difficulty in obtaining oxygen and the larynx becomes so narrowed that air actually whistles while going into the lungs. The mother and father are sure this is the end. Steam inhalations, expectorants, and emetics (to produce vomiting) are most helpful and generally bring relief within a short time. Hot applications over the throat may be of value. The child then falls into an exhausted sleep and awakens the next morning none the worse for his nocturnal experience.

• — • — •

Laryngitis after the age if 40 is significant, especially when it persists. Tumor may be responsible and anyone who is hoarse for more than 10 days should seek competent medical care. A small cancerous growth can be cured without leaving residual changes in a high percentage of victims. Cure also is possible when the tumor is more extensive but a greater part of the larynx must be treated to accomplish this, which means that the voice may not be perfect thereafter. In some cases it becomes necessary to remove the voice box entirely to save the life of the victim. But all is not lost even here; some individuals have been able to talk by learning to use the esophagus.

ICE WATER

Mrs. W. writes: My husband drinks large quantities of ice water direct from the refrigerator, and very rapidly. This has caused arguments in our home. Will you tell us whether the practice is harmful?

REPLY

No, so long as it does not cause distress. On the other hand, iced liquids have an adverse effect on some individuals in that they lead to spasm of the stomach and intestine.

Taste Switch

A. B. C. writes: I never cared too much for cheese and eggs but now I do. Is there anything wrong with me?

REPLY

No. Our likes and dislikes change all during life, including our food preferences.

RH Blood Groups

Mrs. M. B. R. writes: I was much interested in your article on blood groups because I have a special problem. I have read that it takes one Rh negative parent at least to produce an Rh negative child. I am Rh positive B type, and my husband is Rh positive O type—but we have an Rh negative B daughter. When I first read of Rh blood I was very upset, thinking that the hospital might have given me the wrong child but my daughter looks like me and her brother and resembles her father in stature. I talked the matter over with a physician who said that—like redheads — a negative child may pop up in a positive family. What is your opinion?

REPLY

The Rh negative gene is recessive. In other words, both you and your husband have RH positive and Rh negative genes. It so happened that two Rh negative genes got together so far as your daughter is concerned. The possibility of this likelihood is one in four times. Your physician can explain this to your in diagrammatic form.

Priceless Musical Manuscripts Believed Stolen By Russians; Frostbite Victims To Get Purple Heart; Taft Has Inflation-Stopping Plan

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It hasn't been publicized, but some of the most priceless musical manuscripts in the world appear to have been stolen by the Russians from the State Library of Berlin.

These include the Ninth Symphony of Beethoven; also Mozart's opera "The Magic Flute" and a Mendelssohn oratorio, "The Elijah." The Ninth Symphony is especially valuable, being the last that Beethoven wrote, and having notes on the margin in which Beethoven talks of the brotherhood of man.

These priceless manuscripts were in the State Library of Berlin when the Russians entered the city. But, despite several years of search by Carleton Smith, director of the National Arts Foundation, they are still missing.

Smith, who has restored many important musical manuscripts to their rightful places since the war, learned from the custodian of the State Library that the Russians had taken the three missing manuscripts to a Benedictine monastery at Grussau in Silesia—now Poland. Smith wrote the monastery, but got no answer. He also induced Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, to write, with similar result.

Finally, Smith himself managed to get a visa to enter Poland, and visited the monastery. There he found that the monks had been banished, and no one knew anything about the precious manuscripts.

Journeying to Rome, Smith interviewed the Pope, who put him in touch with the former head abbot of the monastery, whom Smith located at Bad Wimpfen in Germany.

Abbot Schmidt remembered vividly that members of the Red Army had come to the monastery, packed up certain manuscripts and other valuables which had arrived from Berlin, and carried them off "to the east."

That is as far as the manuscripts have been traced. Since then, Smith has written a letter to Stalin, asking that the works of Beethoven, Mozart and Mendelssohn be returned, but has not received an answer.

Purple Heart For Frostbite

The Korean winter has been so severe that the Defense Department, for the first time in history, will award the Purple Heart for frostbite. This will affect 5,300 frostbite casualties, who often suffered more than the wounded but who otherwise would not have been entitled to the Purple Heart.

During the battle of the bulge in World War II, many G.I.'s lost arms and legs from frostbite. Yet they were never authorized to wear the Purple Heart, because of the technicality that they were not wounded in battle.

However, the 5,300 G.I.'s and Marines, who were victims of the Korean winter, demonstrated the same heroism and sacrifice as those who fell from Communist bullets. As a result, the Defense Department has at last recognized the Purple Heart for frostbite.

Stopping Inflation

Senator Taft was either a brave man or else speaking strictly off-the-record when he offered some ideas on how to lick inflation at a recent closed-door session of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report. What he said was not calculated to endear him to three powerful voting groups—farmers, veterans and labor. Nevertheless, here are his proposals:

1. Workers' overtime pay should be taken away in taxes.

2. Farmers' prices should be lowered.

3. Veterans should not receive another G. I. insurance dividend.

Regardless of the economics involved, these proposals are good examples of how not to get elected President in 1952. Nevertheless, Taft advocated them in characteristically blunt language at the congressional closed-door meeting. Here are excerpts from the testimony:

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Acts 15:25—26 (K. J. V.).
Read verses 22—35

"Men who have hazarded their lives." This was the only credential which the church at Jerusalem put into the hands of a few men whom it sent to the church at Antioch to settle a dispute which had arisen over the Mosaic law. They had risked their lives in a great enterprise.

In a similar situation in our day the credentials might read: "These men come from our best families. They have been honored with degrees from various colleges and universities. They have served their church on various committees, and have supported it liberally." Nothing about having risked their all for the sake of Jesus Christ.

If we had eyes to see, we would discover the word "hazard" written over every great enterprise. The enterprise that tries to live on the risk taken by a former generation will die. Every generation must carry its own weight and take its own risk. How much is the present generation of church people willing to risk?

Let Us Pray: Our Father, increase our faith in thee to the point where our actions begin to match our prayers. May we not fear to go out in faith, not always knowing where, but with the assurance that we belong to thee. Amen.

Inflation And Communism Are Joint Menace To U. S.

By MARK SULLIVAN

WHEN Congress passed the Defense Production Act last September the practically universal interpretation by the public was that this was an anti-inflation measure, that it would check the rising cost of living. Consumers drew an anticipatory long breath. After control agencies to administer the act had been appointed and began to function in late January, the orders they issued were in terms of "ceilings," the sum of them commonly interpreted as a "freeze." Consumers felt that hope was about to be fulfilled.

But by the third week in February consumers again felt themselves under the harrow, cost of living was at a new all-time high. Consumers might have got some solace from supposing that this was a hangover of momentum that had been under way a long time. But the head of one of the control agencies announced with candor that cost of living would be materially higher by next summer. This is the prospect officially held out. As of the present there is skepticism, one hopes it is not justified, whether the Defense Production Act with the immense personnel administering it will really turn out to be a successful anti-inflation measure, whether it will really check rising cost of living.

For the failure thus far to check rising cost of living, a large part of the cause is an immunity which the Defense Production Act gives to farm products. The immunity was written into the Act in sub-section 402 (D) (3). In part it reads:

"No ceiling shall be established . . . for any agricultural commodity below . . . the parity price for such commodity as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture" (or equivalent standards likewise "determined by the Secretary of Agriculture").

Crops Immune

This, with other language of the act, means that no ceiling shall be placed on any farm crop that is now selling in the market below the artificial parity price determined by the Secretary of Agriculture (or equivalent standards similarly determined). The crops thus made immune are a major portion of all crops; they include wheat, corn, milk, poultry, butter, and some 70 others.

These crops are so large a part of the cost of living that when the immunity given them in the Defense Production Act came to the attention of persons having competent judgment, doubt was expressed whether the act and the agencies under it could successfully check the rising cost of living unless the section giving this immunity were removed from the act. Heads of the control agencies recognized the obstacle but apparently hesitated to ask Congress to remove it from the act; the head of the agency most directly affected stated specifically and publicly that he would make no such request of Congress at the present time. Members of Congress representing farm constituencies who compose the so-called "farm bloc" and who were originally responsible for the immunity of farm crops in the act are now vigilant to keep it.

Relied On By Stalin

One effect of immunity of many farm crops from ceilings, as provided in the Defense Production Act, is upon the attitude of labor leaders. They see ceilings upon wages provided for in the act and now in process of being put in effect. Against the ceilings proposed, labor leaders have protested sensationally. It is not unreasonable for them to apprehend that because of lack of ceilings on many farm crops, cost of living may go up, and to argue that wages should be free to go up correspondingly. Here we have a threatened repetition of the spiral mechanism of rising cost of living that has gone on in the past. The mechanism is generally recognized. It can be described as a sequence.

Cost of living goes up. Labor uses this as a reason for higher wages. The higher wages cause higher cost of manufacture and are followed by higher prices of manufactured goods. At this point price support of farm crops takes a dynamic part. The Agriculture Department computes the prices of what farmers must now pay for manufactured and other goods and by this computation arrives at a new and higher parity price. The higher parity price is followed by higher cost of living, and here the spiral begins another upward round.

Repetition of that spiral now would be a danger greater than in the past. It is not merely that a late stage is more serious than earlier ones. Much more serious yet, inflation as a menace is tied to our other menace, that of Russian communism. It is not merely by military measures that Russian communism hopes to destroy us. It relies also on destruction of our economic system by unrestrained inflation here or similar economic disaster. Stalin once named this as the primary reliance for overcoming us.

Probe Tydings Started Will Show He's Bad Loser

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Maybe the United States Senate should investigate every election among its members and let the loser come in and complain about the statements made by the victor. Maybe the so-called "liberals" want a national board of censorship which shall pass upon what the candidates say and what their overzealous managers and supporters write or print during a campaign.

Maybe the "liberal" of today isn't much different under the skin from the totalitarian who wants to regulate everything by a law and who doesn't really at heart believe in free speech or a free press unless the views expressed happen to agree with his own.

But, unfortunately, the hullabaloo which has been started by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, because he was defeated by John M. Butler, Republican, isn't going to resolve any of these questions. It is merely going to prove that Mr. Tydings is a bad loser—which in politics is rather unpardonable.

Severity Doesn't Matter

It is also going to open up for debate in a congressional committee the whole question of free speech and a free press. Unfortunately the senators who gave the go-ahead to this inquiry cannot have read the major cases decided by the Supreme Court of the United States and the lengths to which freedom of expression may go without violating constitutional rights.

In one instance, the editor of a weekly newspaper in Minnesota printed the most vitriolic stuff imaginable, but the court held that free speech doesn't depend on the severity of anybody's denunciation and that, if anything truly slanderous or libelous is written, there are state laws which can protect the aggrieved individual.

It was the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and a true liberal, who said that freedom of speech is "freedom for the thought we hate." Few "liberals" today show that degree of tolerance in defining freedom of speech.

Now, there is no doubt that the attacks on Senator Tydings were bitter. But he let himself in for much of it by his own vitriolic condemnation of those who had sought a fair and impartial inquiry by the Senate into the alleged Communistic influences in the government. The Tydings report had in it many statements which were unfair and might even be called scurrilous in relation to those who had asked for a fair investigation. The report itself was so unsatisfactory that the job now has to be done over again by a new committee.

Hardly an election contest occurs in which one side doesn't argue the other side is unfair. The laws of libel and slander protect a candidate against extremes. Sometimes during the campaigns a threat to sue for libel is made and usually these suits are never heard from again or filed.

"Liberals" Attitude Puzzling

But the spectacle of a United States Senate committee inquiring now into election literature and trying to set itself up as a judge as to what is "fair" or "unfair" in a political campaign is something startling. It represents a trend which began with the recent interference with the right of petition under the Constitution.

It certainly is puzzling just why under a so-called "liberal" concept there are such frequent attempts to muzzle free speech or to question it. Thus, it is the "liberal" of today who wants to abolish congressional immunity and make it possible to intimidate a member of Congress and prevent him from exposing fraud and crime. The gamblers and racketeers would certainly have made short shrift of the Kefauver committee if congressmen were subject to libel suits for what they say in speeches or reports on the floor of Congress.

Campaign literature has no immunity from suits. If anything libelous was said about Senator Tydings in the last campaign, he has a right to file suit against his opponent or anybody connected with his opponent's campaign. But to denounce somebody in public office whose views are unpalatable is not yet a crime or an offense for which the laws inflict punishment.

If the Senate committee means merely to give publicity to the nasty methods used in campaigns, that's a worthy objective. But to be honest about it, the committee must not hesitate to go into Ohio and take a look also at the campaign literature circulated against Senator Taft. Some of the stuff would hardly be covered by such a gentle word as "scurrilous."

The Institute Of Pacific Relations

THE files which were taken from Edward C. Carter's barn in Lee, Massachusetts, by the McCarran Committee will lead to a complete study of the Institute of Pacific Relations and its activities.

The institute was organized by the Young Men's Christian Association as an effort to bring together the peoples of the Pacific countries, holding its first conference in Honolulu, July 1 to 15, 1925. Its Pacific Council consisted of Ray Lyman Wilbur, United States, chairman; Junnosuke Inouye, Japan, first vice chairman; David Z. T. Yui, China, second vice chairman; Frank C. Atherton, Hawaii, treasurer; Sir Mungo McCallum, Australia; Sir Robert Borden, Canada; Sir James Allen, New Zealand.

No organization could have had a better start. Actually American businessmen in Honolulu were anxious for this organization to prosper, as they hoped it would bring large numbers of distinguished tourists to Hawaii. At first, they put up most of the money for it. Subsequently, the Rockefeller and other foundations came through with sizable grants.

At the head of the organization was J. Merle Davis, a Y. M. C. A. general secretary. One of his tasks was to organize national councils in each of the Pacific countries. The 1925 conference was attended by delegates from Australia, Canada, China, Korea, Japan, New Zealand, Philippines, and United States. One of the principal Pacific countries, Soviet Russia, was absent.

The 1927 conference was held at Honolulu in July. The following were represented: Australia, Canada, Great Britain, Hawaii, Japan, Korea, New Zealand, Philippines, United States, League of Nations, International Labor Office. Soviet Russia was not present.

A full list of the 137 delegates to this conference cannot be given here, but some of the men present were among the most important in their countries. For instance, the British sent Sir Frederick Whyte, former president of the National Indian Legislative Assembly; Malcolm MacDonald, son of the Prime Minister and afterwards himself a member of the British Cabinet.

The American delegation was headed by Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, with whom was associated a distinguished group of men and women, several being presidents and professors of universities. E. C. Carter was honorary secretary of the American group.

The 1927 conference was a great success. The speeches were important, expressing authoritative statements of policy. The papers were interesting and well prepared. The institute was an established organization. National councils had been organized in Australia, Canada, China, Japan, New Zealand, and the United States. E. C. Carter was chosen to be the secretary and driving force of the American Council, which under his leadership developed into the pivotal group of the institute. It was not long before New York overshadowed Honolulu.

The 1929 conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations was held in Kyoto, Japan, from October 28 to November 9. This may in some respects be regarded as the end of the organization period; the institute was already a powerful agency. The American delegation was headed by Jerome D. Greene of Lee, Higginson and Company, chairman, and E. C. Carter, secretary. Carter's assistants were Frederick Vanderbilt Field, John D. Rockefeller III, Miss Catherine Porter and Hobart N. Young. The Rockefeller Foundation was represented by Roger S. Greene; the Carnegie Corporation by Frederick P. Keppel. The British Delegation was headed by Viscount Hailsham, former lord chancellor, as chairman.

This was a big affair of top-notch personalities. I shall discuss this Kyoto conference in subsequent articles, but here I wish to include a statement of purposes of the Institute of Pacific Relations as prepared for this conference by its secretary, J. Merle Davis:

". . . the international machinery by which nations have been dealing with one another since the beginning of history has been evolved on the assumption of the inevitability of war; of the necessity of force as the means for adjusting their differences. From this has sprung the school of secret diplomacy with its inevitable code of reticense and the withholding of facts. This technique to be effective requires the dominance of the few; the acquiescense and ignorance of the many. Since 1918, however, a different international technique has appeared. This is born of a new vision of human relations, based upon the concept of the rights of the weak, international interdependence, the power of facts, the intelligence of the people and their participation in government. The Institute of Pacific Relations has emerged as a part of the mechanism which the era provides for meeting its new requirements."

The courage and vision of women, their diplomacy and charm, could help solve the world problems of today.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

BESIDE a highway in one of our western states stands Sakajawea (the Bird Woman), shading her eyes and the other pointing the way ahead. It is a memorial statue, commemorating the contribution of this Shonshone Indian woman who acted as guide and interpreter for the Lewis and Clarke expedition to the West in 1805.

On a recent cross-country trip, as I looked at this statue symbolizing the courage and vision of this little Indian woman, I thought of a pithy comment of Edward Bok, the great editor. "The man who speaks of women in any but the most respectful terms is either a knave or a fool—very often he is both. And this is one of the few rules of life to which there is no exception."

Leadership of Women

Most men who are accredited with great deeds give almost reverential credit to some woman whose courage and vision made their accomplishments possible. They are qualities that are found in abundance among women, and never more needed by the world than today.

As one of women's strongest boosters, it gives me great pleasure to note more and more evidence that women are taking an active interest in the affairs of the world. Their increasing participation in open forums reveals their keener knowledge of history and current problems than ever before. We have more women in top-level capacities every year. Because woman's leadership is in its ascendency, I believe we can have greater optimism about the future.

Point the Way

Economic security and peace are inherent feminine goals, because under such conditions family life thrives best. Combine those goals with the courage and vision to attain them, and the natural feminine diplomacy and charm that makes women so successful at winning their way . . . then, doesn't it seem time that women pointed the way for all of us?

Teenage Club Celebrates G.W.Birthday

One hundred and twenty-five young people of North Cumberland registered for the Teenage Club, sponsored by the North End Playground Association, Thursday evening in the field house, after which a George Washington birthday party was held. Mrs. John Kienhofer was in charge of registration.

The field house was elaborately decorated in red, white and blue, with streamers across the ceiling, interspersed with large bells. White chalk drawings of Washington on a red background filled the window recesses alternately with hatchets. A picture of Washington, and bells were over the fireplace with a large American flag nearby.

A musical program was presented. Joseph Schulinger sang three numbers and James Firley played three accordion selections after which they played and sang several old time pieces. Songs were also sung by a group composed of Robert Morris, Paul Ackerman, Ronald Miller, Frank Young, Charles Kienhofer, William Kegg, James Wilt, James Nixon and James Digman.

Square dancing concluded the evening with Edmund Hoey calling the numbers, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Mackert. A group also danced the polka. Mrs. Kienhofer reports the club members are making "good progress with the square dancing." Refreshments were served during the evening.

Chaperones for the year are John Bauer, Ralph Knieriem, Mrs. John K. Rozum, Mrs. Kienhofer, Mrs. Frank H. Kaplon, Jr., and Mrs. John Bauer.

Next Thursday evening besides moving pictures there will be instructions in square dancing. Each member may bring one friend for the evening from 7 until 9 o'clock.

Duo Club To Have Socials

James Wilson, Program chairman of the Duo Club, has arranged a musical program for March; barn dance for April; men's program in May and an outing for June, he announced at the meeting of the club recently at the lecture hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Reuschlein are chairman for March; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shea, April; William Mateer, for May; and Mr. and Mrs. Don Black, June.

A dinner preceded the meeting with John Robb presiding and Thomas N. Berry, the speaker, had as his topic, "My Experiences with Communism as an FBI agent." Edgar Duke led group singing.

On behalf of the group Mrs. Robb presented going away gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smalley and Mr and Mrs. William Rooney.

PLANNING ACTIVITIES—St. Mary's Mother's Club will sponsor a bake sale at the regular parish game night Monday at 8:30 in the social hall. Proceeds are to be used for school equipment. Officers shown above are Mrs. Frances Comer, secretary; Mrs. Regis Brinker, vice president; and Mrs. Marcus Naughton, acting treasurer. Mrs. Andrew Saliga, president is ill.

Esta Kerns Honored

A surprise miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Marshall Layman in compliment to Miss Esta Marie Kerns at her home Potomas Park, recently. Miss Kerns is the fiance of Fred A. Williamson.

The Valentine motif was used in the decorations. Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Paul Keinhofer, Mrs. John Wills, Mrs. Benny Kidwell and Mrs. Lee Fairgrieve.

Mrs. Rufus Nave Heads Women's CTP

Mrs. Rufus Nave was elected president of the Women's CTP at the meeting Tuesday night at the B. and O. YMCA. Other officers are Mrs. E. C. Kilroy, vice president; Mrs. Armand Fanelli, recording secretary; Mrs. Guy Ziler, financial secretary, and Mrs. Blanche Lueck, treasurer. Installation will be March 20.

Donations of $5 each were made to the Navy Mother's Television fund and the March of Dimes. Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. B. H. Slaton and Mrs. Edgar S. Leasure were received as members. Plans were made for the bowling match with Connellsville, March 13.

The annual Valentine party followed, and the 17th anniversary celebrated.

Club Names Chairmen

The E-G-B-D-F Junior Music Club appointed Judith Krapf as Publicity chairman; Patricia Kerns, Social chairman, and Carol Jean Lannon, accompanist, at the meeting recently at the home of Marianne Hoelzer, Greene Street.

Patricia Kerns, JoAnn McFarland, Judith Krapf, Judith Kompanek, Carol Lannon, Ann Decker, Carol Isiminger and Martha Miller were received as new members.

Piano solos were played by Marianne Hoelzer, Barbara Stearn, Judith Kompanek, Judith Krapf, Ann Decker, Carol Isiminger, JoAnn McFarland, Carol Lannon, Nancy Close; a flute solo by Sharon Growden and a violin solo by Patricia Kerns. Refreshments were served after the program.

Group To Aid Defense

Members of Xi Beta Exempl'r chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, volunteered for civil defense work and discussed receiving new members, and taking part in the S. T. Little Style Show, March 2, at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Ambrose McKenzie, South Allegany Street, earlier in the week.

The geography, czars and customs and dress of Russia was presented by Miss Alta Earl, Mrs. Earl Judy and Mrs. Wulbur Parker during the cultural program.

WIFE PRESERVERS

This cut of meat is a boneless beef chuck pot-roast which comes from the chuck which has been boned and rolled. It should be braised — browned well, a small amount of water added, covered, and slowly cooked until tender. A three to five-pound bonless chuck roast requires from three to four hours' cooking time.

Vivian Junkins Given Party

Mrs. Georgia Dick, Bowling Green and Miss Judith Grant, Cresaptown, entertained with a prenuptial shower for Miss Vivian Junkins, fiancee of Ward Hovatter, recently at the Bowling Green Fire Hall.

Gifts were arranged beneath a red and white umbrella and a shower of hearts. The same color scheme was carried out in the cake, enscribed with the couple's names and topped with a miniature umbrella.

Twenty-eight guests attended.

Liquid helium can be boiled by "heating" it with liquid air at a temperature of 340 degrees below zero. Reason is that liquid helium is more than 100 degrees colder than liquid air.

Two Youths Held In High Bail For Extortion Plot

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP) — Two youths with "splendid educational background" were held under $5,000 bail each today by U. S. Commissioner Ernest Volkart for trying to extort $2,500 "protection money" from a Baltimore County man.

Volkart told the defendants, 21-year-old Edwin Cranston Riggin, Jr., and 23-year-old Warren Jackson Gore, he had to set a high bail despite their education and the fact they came from good families.

Riggin is an arts and sciences junior at the University of Maryland and the son of a prominent Methodist minister. Gore is an engineering graduate of Johns Hopkins University.

The youths are charged with mailing a letter Feb. 14 to Christopher C. Campbell of Boring, Md., demanding $2,500 under threat of injuring his reputation. The letter was signed "Demarest."

Campbell received a fine and a suspended jail sentence a year ago after an abortion conspircy trial here.

Riggin and Gore were arrested Wednesday night by state police and postal inspectors. After receiving the threat, Campbell had notified the authorities, who set the trap resulting in the arrest of the two.

Campbell drove across a railroad bridge near his home as designated in telephone calls he received Monday and Tuesday nights.

He blinked his auto lights twice, according to thei nstructions, and continued driving until a car behind him blinked its lights.

Campbell then tossed out a bundle, which contained a few bills around a paper core. When the rear car had time to stop, Campbell halted suddenly and Lt. John P. Novicki and Trooper Charles E. Hollie hopped out of the back seat of Campbell's car.

They ordered the occupants of the rear machine to get out. The driver did. His companion jumped out of the other side with a rifle, but dropped it upon Novicki's command. At the same time, however, he kicked Novicki in the shin and fled.

Novicki fired several shots at the fleeing figure. Iess than three hours later, Rigging was found at a friend's home nearby, with a minor bullet wound in his arm.

The event was sponsored by the Jenkins and Shriver Company, local dealers for the farm implement company.

Greenbag Filled At Last Minute

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP) — The Governor's "greenbag," a treasure of patronage, wasn't filled until the very last minute.

The greenbag actually is a typewritten list of nominations to hundreds of state and local positions, some important and many mere sidelines for loyal party workers. Gov. McKeldin sent it down to the Senate for confirmation yesterday.

It was the first big chunk of patronage Republicans have enjoyed since the late Gov. Nice submitted his last greenbag in 1937. McKeldin's office had been under siege of anxious job seekers for 10 days. The pressure did not subdue until the nominations, this time contained in a green chair back, reached the senate rostrum.

Last-minute changes were made in both the state and county groupings. Some were written in so hurriedly that corrections did not appear in lists released by the executive office and were discovered only today.

A roster of justices of the peace for Prince George's County was formed too late for the greenbag. It was submitted this afternoon.

One switch inserted John A. Bradshaw, Sr., of Crisfield, among recommendations for the state board of funeral directors and embalmers. Bradshaw, backed by Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset), replaced John R. Byers of Westminster.

Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!

"Feed My Lambs!"

A little group of fisherman sat around an open fire on the shore of the sea of Galilee. In their midst was the greatest Teacher the world has ever known, Jesus of Nazareth.

When they had finished their simple breakfast He turned to one of them and said, "Simon, do you love me more than the others?"

The burly chap, who had thrice denied his Master, winced. "You know, Lord, that I love you."

Then Jesus said, "FEED MY LAMBS!"

The echo of that simple commandment has never died away. It rings from the belfry of every Christian church. It calls men from spiritual starvation to a full and abundant life of service to others.

Attend and support a church in your community. Receive all the good things it offers you . . . and help your Church bring these blessings to other people.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Yale Scientist Spends 2 Months As Patient In Mental Institution

DETROIT & — In the first experiment of its kind in medical history, a Yale University scientist spent two months as a patient in a mental institution to gain further insight into problems of insanity.

This was disclosed in a report to the American Orthopsychiatric Association meeting by four members of the Yale Department of Psychiatry and Mental Hygiene.

The names of the scientist and the institution where the novel experiment was carried out more than a year ago were not revealed. His identity was unknown to patients and other psychiatrists who treated him. But he did keep an elaborate diary and reported a few times during the two months to two staff officers of the hospital.

The scientist, who might be called "Dr. X" was described as "a normal man who exaggerated some of his shortcomings."

Dr. Frederick C. Redlich, chairman of the Yale Psychiatric Department said the study "opened up a new area of psychiatric knowledge."

"The implications," he said, "are that the whole physical and social structure of our mental hospitals should be restudied."

For one thing, Dr. Gedlich said, the results of the experiment raised the question whether most neurotic patients "still able to function in some areas of life" would not fare better by treatment outside a hospital than inside.

Notable exceptions, he said, would be patients with "anxiety-provoking" home situations and patients threatening suicide.

Dr. Redlich said that by becoming a patient "Dr. X." became "one of the group" and communication barriers which normally separate doctors and patients were broken down immediately. Even during therapy hours, he said, such communication normally is "artificial, inadequate and unrewarding."

"The patients live in one social world and the staff in another," he explained. "The patients, therefore, turn inward and build their own social structure which was insulated as much as possible from friction with the hospital routine."

Within this structure, Dr. Redlich said it was learned that hospital patients exert "tremendous pressures" on newcomers to act in certain ways toward other patients, toward treatment and doctors and toward nurses and other hospital personnel.

It also was learned, he added, that patients "support, help and even treat each other even if this often means going against a rule of the hospital."

The psychiatrists reported that patients were found to act one way in the presence of doctors and altogether differently when no staff members were present. They cited the case of one patient who acted "perfectly normal most of the time but created a scene every time a doctor showed up."

Parking Violations Hike City Revenue

The city had only $174,031.26 of its levy outstanding as of January 31, the report of City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson reveals.

Collections total $1,102,315.76 or 86.5 per cent of the total levy of $1,275,340.

Excess collections are listed at $1,007 and include $903 for police fines and $104.02 from weights. A total of $10,000 was levied for police fines but already the sum has reached $10,903, which sources say, is attributable in part to the crackdown on parking violators.

Appropriations figures show a balance of $427,879.66 for operation of the city. Appropriated was $1,037,430 of which $609,550.34 has been expended, the report shows.

Directors Are Named By Paper Company

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 (AP) — James R. Shea and L. Frank Thompson today were elected directors of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co.

Stockholders at the annual meeting reelected 12 other directors including Wiley L. Jennings, vice president in charge of sales, who was named to the board in an interim capacity last November.

The board later elected Vice President John D. Cowan to the position of executive vice president.

Shea, an emplye of the company for more than four decades, is resident manager of the Tyrone, Pa., plant.

Thompson is resident manager of the plant at Charleston, S. C.

Will Is Filed

The will of Mrs. Agnes McGregor, this city, who died January 7, 1944, was filed for probate yesterday in Orphans Court. A daughter, Helen McGregor Smith, obtained letters of administration on the estate. She was listed as the beneficiary.

Braves Subdue Beall, 61 To 44, Catch Fort Hill

Tichnell Tops Attack With 22 Tallies As Barton Bags 17th Win

FROSTBURG, Feb. 23 — Barton High School caught up with Fort Hill in the W.M.I. League championship race tonight by whipping Beall High School, 61 to 44, while the Sentinels were losing to Allegany High at Cumberland.

Barton went into a first place tie with Fort Hill, thus necessitating a playoff for the W.M.I. League championship.

Coach Johnny Thomas' Braves got away to a 12-5 lead at the quarter and held the upper hand throughout. The score was 35-17 at halftime and 53-31 at the close of the third stanza.

Arnold Tichnell was the big point maker for Barton with 22 points to his credit. Tim Clark had 13 and Bill Kirk 12. Duncan and Arnone headed Beall with 14 and 13 markers.

Beall played without the services of Capt. Don Blank who was ill.

Arnone, Workman and Hawkins of Beall and Clark of Barton were ejected on personal fouls.

The victory was the 17th in 19 starts for the Braves. Barton defeated Beall in their series opener by the score of 85-40. Lineups:

Laurel Race Meet To Open March 23

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP)—Laurel will open Maryland's 1951 racing season with a 24-day meet beginning March 23, the State Racing Commission announced today.

The commission also approved the splitting between Laurel and Pimlico of the 25 days formerly given to Havre de Grace.

Pimlico and Laurel bought the Havre de Grace stock when owners of the latter decided to quit the business. Bowie stockholders wouldn't agree on participation in the stock purchase deal.

The commission said Laurel's fall meet will run from October 10 through October 25.

Bowie's spring meeting will open April 21 and continue through May 5. The track will close the racing year with a November 17-December 1 program.

Pimlico gets 19 spring days—May 7 through May 26—and 18 days in the fall—October 27 through November 16.

LaSalle Plays Men Of LaSalle In Booster Cage Game Tonight

Altoona, Explorers Clash Sunday At 2

LaSalle High School's Explorers will engage in games at home tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

Tonight the varsity quint will play host to the Men of LaSalle cagers in a Booster game for the benefit of the school and the Men of LaSalle at 8 o'clock.

St. Mary's and SS. Peter and Paul of the Knights of Columbus Youth League will tangle in the preliminary game tonight at 7 o'clock.

Bobby Stakem will be the coach of the Men of LaSalle team.

LaSalle, winner of 10 out of 19 games played to date, is billed to play Altoona Catholic High School Sunday at 2 o'clock on the west side court. There'll be a preliminary game at 1 o'clock between the Altoona and LaSalle Jayvee quints.

Coach Art Slocum's outfit lost a 32-30 decision to the Marauders earlier in the season at Altoona and the Explorers will be out for revenge tomorrow.

Clifton Van Roby and "Bee" Orndorff will officiate.

Duke's Dick Groat Breaks Scoring Mark

Durham, N. C., Feb. 23 (AP)—Dick Groat, Duke's All-American candidate, smashed the national collegiate major individual scoring record for a single season in leading his Blue Devil mates to a rousing 84-72 Southern Conference basketball triumph over North Carolina's Tar Heels here tonight.

Groat burned the nets for 29 points to crack the all-time high of 740 points set by William and Mary's Chet Giermak two years ago. He ran his total for the year to 746 points.

U. S. Skaters Lose

MILAN, Italy, Feb. 23 (AP) — The United States defending titleholders, the brother and sister team of Karol and Peter Kennedy of Seattle, was dethroned tonight as the world's figure skating championship pair.

The new champions, Ria Baran and Paul Falk, of Western Germany won by a narrow margin over the U. S. pair in the competition at the Milan ice palace.

Oliver Leads By Stroke In HoustonOpen

Leader Posts 134, Jim Deal Is Second

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 23 (AP)—Ed Oliver, the chubby Seattle pro, celebrated his ninth wedding anniversary today by taking a one-stroke lead at the midway mark of the $10,000 Houston Open.

Ed Oliver

Oliver fired a six-under par 66 for a 36-hole 134 that gave him a narrow edge over Houston's Jim Deal, the former shot put champion who finished strong with a two-under 70 for a second round 135 total.

Deal, runner-up by one stroke in yesterday's opening round, was two over par on the front nine today but was four under on the backside.

Oliver said he just played "average golf." Deal said his first nine troubles found him unable to "concentrate."

Oliver's pair of 33's on the 6967-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course were based on six-one-under holes, including each of the four par-5 holes.

Trailing Deal at 136 were Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., John Weitzel, Harrisburg, Pa., and Marty Furgol, Long Beach, Calif.

Tied at 137 were Jimmie Clark, Laguna Beach, Calif., the first round leader who went nine strokes higher today with a one-over 73, Glenn Teal, Jacksonville, Fla., and Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa.

Oliver, with his iron shots working smoothly, got three of his one-under holes with eight foot putts.

Chuck Scally, Pittsburgh, Pa., got the tournament's first hole-in-one, connecting with a No. 9 iron shot on the 145-yard second. He finished with a two-under 70 that gave him a 141 total.

The bulky field of 162 players were cut to the 60 low scorers, plus ties and 10 amateurs. It took a two-over 146 for the pros to stay in the last two rounds. Amateurs needed 149.

MINOR LEAGUE PREXY TO KEEP GAME ALIVE

AP Newsfeatures

EBENSBURG, Pa. — Elmer M. Daily, senior prexy of the minor leagues, believes every effort should be made to keep baseball alive during the present emergency.

Daily, starting his 27th year at the helm of the Class C Middle-Atlantic League, practices what he preaches.

Hopes For 6 Clubs

Right now his own eight team loop faces a shutdown. It already has lost three teams but Daily figures to muster at least six clubs just to keep the spark alive.

Put it this way he says:

"If it was patriotic to play baseball during World War II, why not now?"

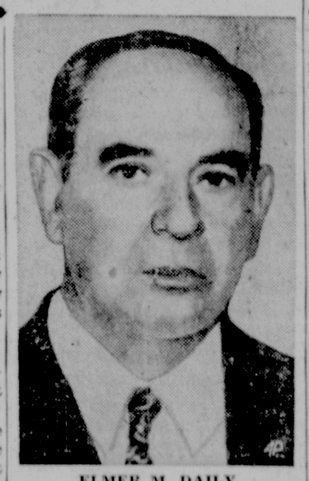
But don't get Daily wrong. He loves baseball and doesn't want the sport to fizzle out. He knows what a job it is to get started again.

For instance, the Class D Pennsylvania Association circuit he organized folded after several years. During the depression the M-A loop operated on a shoestring. Then World War II came along and the league did an elfoldo for three years.

A Good Motto

Each time Daily survived the rough going. His moto: "A little is better than nothing at all."

To keep baseball hopes alive, Daily contends that the major league clubs should provide some sort



ELMER M. DAILY
Minors Are Grass Roots

of insurance in the form of players or cash to the minor loops.

The Middle Atlantic League once was a big farm system of the majors but too many parent organizations divorced themselves in recent years.

"If it wasn't for some civic organizations and a few others the M-A would be dead right now," asserts Daily.

"One thing the major league should remember is that we (the minor leagues) are the grass roots. If we fold so will they."

250 Will Attend Dapper Dan 3rd Annual Banquet Sunday

Michelosen And Ball To Attend; Affair Is Set For K. Of C. Home

Approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club Sunday at 6 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Home, Paul J. Gallen, president, announced last night.

Jerry Molloy, popular basketball coach and official from Hoboken, N. J., who has refereed LaSalle home games here in past years, will be the toastmaster on the occasion.

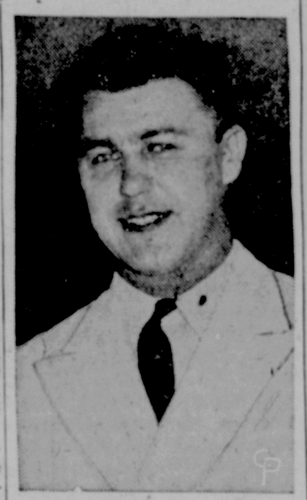
Heading the list of sports celebrities who are expected to be here for the affair are Johnny Michelosen, head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League; Herman Ball, head coach of the Washington Redskins and former Allegany High school grid mentor; Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette who is national president of the Dapper Dans; Vincent Farrell, prominent basketball official from Newark, N. J., and Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove, retired major league pitcher from Lonaconing and member of Baseball's Hall of Fame.

Ball will be accompanied by Tommy Mont, assistant coach, Harry Dowda, Redskins' back, and possibly Bill Dudley, one of the outstanding stars in pro football.

Accompanying Michelosen will be Michael Nixon, backfield coach of the Steelers; Charles "Chick" Cherundolo, assistant coach, and three players, namely Bill McPeak, Jerry Nuzum and Bob Davis.

President Gallen announces that a special musical program is being arranged. "Peck" Mills will be among the entertainers.

Tomorrow's banquet is a $5-a-plate stag affair and the proceeds will go to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.



GUEST SPEAKER — Johnny Michelosen, former Pitt grid star and now head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League, will be among the guest speakers at the third annual banquet of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club tomorrow at 6 p. m. at the K. of C. Home. Michelosen was formerly assistant to Coach Jock Sutherland when the latter tutored the Steelers. Approximately 250 are expected to attend tomorrow's benefit affair.

Wagner, 77, Has Baseball "Itch"

Old Honus To Mark His Birthday Today

CARNEGIE, Pa., Feb. 23 (INS) — Honus Wagner, baseball's all-time all-star shortstop, will be 77 years old tomorrow and he has his annual spring attack of baseball fever.

Old Honus, who will serve his 19th season as part-time coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, isn't going to San Bernardino, Cal., for spring training. But at his Carnegie home today, he said:

"The boys have been catching ball in front of the house all week. It's just grand. I wish I could be out there again, but I'll wait 'till the Pirates come back to Pittsburgh."

Wagner said his birthday caught him by surprise. He explained: "Seems like I just finished answering all the Christmas cards and letters, and then the birthday mail started."

Honus signed his first big league contract in 1897 and played his last game in 1917, but doctors tell him that, except for his battered legs, he has the physique of a 35-year-old man.

Looking back, has Wagner any special wish? Why to be able to play ball again, of course.

"I guess I liked that better than anything I did in my life," he observed, wistfully.

Fritzie Pruden Wallops Janiro

Substitute Victor In New York Fight

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP) — Fritzie Pruden, 24 year old sub getting his big chance, chopped Tony Janiro's baby face into a blotch of blood tonight to upset the 11 to 5 favorite on a unanimous 10-round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden. Janiro weighed 154½, Pruden 147½.

Janiro's battered nose ran red from the first round on and he bled from a very bad cut under his left eye in the 10th round of the gory struggle. Referee Ray Miller looked like a butcher as he came out of the ring.

There was absolutely no doubt about the winner of this contest. Judge Dave Stewart had it 8-2, Judge Jack Gordon 7-3 and Referee Miller 7-2-1. The Associated Press card agreed with Miller.

Called into action when the State Athletic Commission declared Jimmy Flood "unfit for action" yesterday, Pruden took charge from the first bell.

Bob Ward Honored

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP) — Bob Ward, All-America guard from Elizabeth, N. J., tonight for the third straight year was voted by his teammates as the outstanding University of Maryland football player.

The 180-pound lineman received the honor at the team's annual banquet.

He also received a special achievement award from the Terrapin Club, university alumni group.

Ward is now a senior and has another year of eligibility.

(End Of Season)

Allegany High School handed Fort Hill High School's floormen their second defeat of the week last night before a capacity crowd at Campobello and this setback coupled with Barton's victory over Beall at Frostburg threw the W.M.I. League championship race into a tie on the final day of the season. The final score of the game at the AHS gym was 54-40.

Barton and AHS have 8-2 records and coaches and principals of these schools will meet with Arthur P. Ramey at the Board of Education Building today at 9:30 a. m., to arrange for the playoff game to determine the championship of the six club circuit.

Allegany duplicated Barton's stunt of Tuesday night by taking the lead shortly after the opening whistle and holding it throughout the game. The quarter scores were 13-10, 25-20, and 39-27.

Frank Phares, Allegany center, emerged from a scoring slump and came through in the clutch with 20 points on six field goals and 8-12 fouls. Eddie Landis appeared to be the "whole show" for Fort Hill with 19 points to his credit on seven double-deckers and 5-8 fouls.

Ronnie Sisk, Phares and Dick Widdows played outstanding ball for Coach Walter Bowers' aggregation.

The victory put AHS in the .500 class with a 10-10 season record and enabled the Blue and White to finish the league campaign in third place with a 6-4 mark.

Davis And Kasson Reach Finals In Parsons Tourney

Bayard And Thomas Quints Eliminated

PARSONS, W. Va., Feb. 23 — Kasson and Davis became finalists in the Section No. 12 Class "B" basketball tournament tonight by eliminating Bayard and Thomas in opening round games on the Parsons High School court.

Kasson defeated Bayard in the opening game, 43 to 39, while the Davis Wildcats clawed Thomas, its Tucker county rival in the second contest, 43-41.

Johnny Raese was the "big gun" for Davis with 10 field goals and 26 points to his credit. Danny Gennantonio paced Thomas with an even dozen markers. The score was knotted at 21, 26, 27 and 36.

Two field goals in rapid succession by D. Poling in the last minute of play broke a 39-39 deadlock and gave Kasson its victory in the opening game of the tournament.

The score was tied at 9, 23, 37 and 39.

Poling was as hot as a firecracker for the Barbour countians and had 25 points to his credit. He racked up 10 fields and messed 5 of 6 free throws. Evans was Bayard's high scorer with 11 points. Bayard trailed at the half, 23-14.

Franklin High Trips Vikings

Earns Right To Play Moorefield Tonight

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 23—Coach Robert Harper's Franklin High School basketeers forged to the finals in the Section No. 15 Class "B" tournament tonight by upsetting the Petersburg High Vikings, 58 to 55.

Petersburg held a 16-15 edge in the first quarter but the Pendleton Countians grabbed the lead at intermission, 32-27 and were out in front by two points when the third quarter closed, 45-43.

Four players made their exit on personal fouls — Lambert, Hartman and Koontz of Franklin and Oates of Petersburg.

Landes paced the Vikings with 21 points while Koontz led Franklin with 17.

Franklin plays Moorefield's Yellow Jackets in Saturday night's finale at 9 o'clock.

In the consolation final, Petersburg will play Mathias which eliminated Circleville by the score of 52-30 in tonight's opener. Dove and Parker with 17 and 11 markers headed the Mathias scorers. The quarter scores were 18-3, 29-13 and 37-21 with Mathias in front. Lineups:

Petersburg High Boasts Unbeaten Girls' Cage Team

Clem Clower's Sextet Won Eleven, Tied One

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 23 – Peterburg High boasts the first undefeated girls' basketball team in the history of the school.

The 1950-51 sextet, coached by Clement Clower, lowered the curtain last week with a 42-34 decision over Franklin who battled the locals to a 25-25 tie earlier in the season. Petersburg's girls won the 11 other games on their schedule.

This is the third undefeated team since athletics were inaugurated at Petersburg in 1924. In 1927-28 the boys went through 21 games without a loss and in 1940 the baseball team turned in a 12-0 record.

Out of a squad of twelve players carried this season, only one will be lost through graduation—Stump, 6-foot-2 guard who captained the team. Returning will be Marge Porter, Betty Brill, Phyllis Smith, at forwards; Nina Thorne and Anne Snell, starting guards, and the following other lettermen—Joyce Alexander, Maxine Bergdoll, Martha Parker, Phyllis Alt and Lorraine Shook.

Betty Brill paced the scorers as she jumped her total 101 points over her total of last season when she was a first string forward. All of these girls have played together since coming into high school.

In the four years that Clem Clower has coached his girls' teams have won 32, lost 15 and tied three games, as follows: 1947-48 (4-9); 1948-49 (7-2-2); 1949-50 (10-4) and 1950-51 (11-0-1).

Four Accept Bids To NIT At Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Four of the nation's major basketball teams, St. John's of Brooklyn, North Carolina State, Arizona and Brigham Young, today gave the National Invitation Tournament a solid vote of confidence by accepting bids to the 14th annual meet in Madison Square Garden.

Kentucky, Oklahoma A & M, Kansas State, Cincinnati, La Salle, Fordham, Manhattan College, Niagara, Canisius, Siena, and the winner of the Ohio Valley Conference tournament being held this week, are understood to be the leading possibilities for the other eight berths in the 12-team competition starting March 10.

At the same time as the announcements were made here, Bradley's seventh ranking quintet accepted an invitation to appear in a Honolulu tourney, March 13-16, and De Paul University announced it was dropping plans for an invitational tournament of its own in Chicago between March 8 and 16.

The N.I.T. opens with afternoon and night doubleheaders March 10 and finishes on March 17.

Government Places Million Tax Lien Against Sollazzo

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—The government placed a huge income tax lien today against Salvatore T. Sollazzo, who allegedly spent thousands to fix big-time basketball games.

With interest and penalties, the government's claim amounts to $1,128,493.

The effect of the lien was to freeze Sollazzo's assets until the government can collect whatever it may be entitled to.

Sollazzo is being held without bail, accused of bribing cage stars from three New York colleges to fix basketball games. The colleges involved are Long Island University, City College of New York, and New York University.

Eight players or ex-players are said to have admitted taking $25,000 in bribes for their part in the alleged fix.

The income tax lien lists allegedly unpaid taxes running into hundreds of thousands of dollars for each of the years from 1943 through 1947.

There was no indication from the government as to the source of Sollazzo's income during those years. He is a jewelry manufacturer.

The Internal Revenue Bureau, it was learned, went over Sollazzo's income status months ago, long before the big basketball scandal broke here last weekend.

STILL ANOTHER cager reported to have received a bribe offer—and turned it down—is Barry Sullivan, 18-year-old star of the Georgetown university team. Sullivan received his bribe offer via telephone but a police trap failed to nab the mysterious caller. Sullivan had immediately notified his coach of the bribe offer. (International)

LaSalle Jayvees Score 16th Win

Turn Back Seniors By Score Of 44-36

LaSalle High School's Jayvees scored their 16th victory of the season yesterday afternoon, defeating LaSalle's Seniors on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 44-36.

The Seniors led at the quarter, 11-2, and at the half, 17-15, but the junior varsity forged to the fore in the third quarter, 35-29, and was never headed.

The Jayvees have lost seven games.

Andrews and Christ sparked the victors with 12 points each. Lueck topped the losers with 10 markers. Hudson of the Seniors was ejected on personal fouls. Lineups:

Upset Marks Hialeah Race

Johns Joy Pays $20 To Win Miami Purse

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—J. A. Kinard's Johns Joy, unable to find the winner's circle since last April, broke that losing streak with authority when he scored an upset triumph in the featured Miami Purse at Hialeah Park today.

The five-year-old son of Bull Dog-My Auntie made it a front-running decision under topweight of 121 pounds, and swept past the judges a length and a quarter before Gustave Ring's Jam Session.

Spring Hill Farm's Nell K, the favorite and lone mare in the field of eight, was third, a neck farther back. Fourth went to Mrs. Colin MacLeod's Torr.

Aboard Johns Joy, which went the six furlongs in a fast 1.10 4/5, was Don Scurlock, brother of Ovie, who earlier in the day won on Dream Champ. The Kinard speedster paid $20, $8.80 and $3.80 across the board.

Jam Session, which handily whipped Johns Joy a week ago, was slow getting started, then moved fast through the stretch. However, he found Johns Joy too tough to handle this time.

Nell K, highweight for the $15,000 Black Helen Handicap next week, simply found the pace too killing, and weakened after giving chase to the leader to the eighth pole. The others never figured prominently in the race, though Sulleman had a bit of trouble soon after the break.

The attendance was 18,145.

Eddie O'Hara Summoned By Grand Jury

Veteran Racing Man Will Appear Monday

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP)—L. Edmund O'Hara, deposed general manager of Bowie race track, today was summoned to appear before the Baltimore grand jury next Monday morning.

The action was taken after O'Hara had conferred for an hour with state's attorney Anselm Sodaro about testimony O'Hara gave before a Senate Crime Investigating Committee in Washington earlier in the week.

In Washington, O'Hara had said of Capt. Alexander Emerson, chief of Baltimore's police department vice squad:

"All you see Mr. Emerson do in Baltimore is arrest some poor guy on Pennsylvania Avenue for taking a $3 or $4 bet, when I can take you places downtown where they have 300 or 400 people every day and it's known to everybody."

Sodaro asked O'Hara to come in for a conference after reading about the test

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 23 (INS) — Anna Pierangeli, the enchanting young Italian actress, the star of "Teresa," arrives here in a few days. She'll co-star with Stewart Granger in "The Light Touch." He was taken out of "Scaramouche" to make this possible.

In "Light Touch" (part of which will be made in Sicily and Tunis) Pierangeli plays a young artist who falls into the hands of an attractive young crook (Granger). He uses her talents to copy old masterpieces.

After two weeks on location in Italy and Africa Anna and Stewart come back to M-G-M to make the interiors. Richard Brooks, who wrote the story, will also direct. It's a Pandro Berman production.

When I interviewed John Agar not long ago he told me he was seriously interested in his singing career. Now it looks as if it's liable to pop sooner than he, or anyone, expected if David Selznick releases him to co-star with Ella Logan in the musical version of "My Sister Eileen" which Freddie Finklehoffe will produce on Broadway.

Finklehoffe is shot with luck these days. Everything he touches turns to box-office gold. He is cleaning up on "At War With The Army" with Martin and Lewis. And he has another strike in "Affair Of State" with Celeste Holm in New York.

Another Hollywood name up for the revived "Eileen" is Angela Green, the social Mrs. Stuart Martin in private life.

I can now tell you where I got the story years ago that Paulette Goddard had married Charlie Chaplin on a boat. I have the permission of the one who told me. I met him at the Long Beach Veterans Hospital when Lou Costello, Bud Abbott and I went there to give a show.

His name is Billy Clark. He walked up to me and said, "I'm Billy Clark, the one who wrote you that letter that Paulette Goddard had married Charlie Chaplin on the way to Hong Kong. I was working on the boat."

"May I tell you gave me the story?" I asked.

"You certainly may," he said.

At that time, all the other newspapers denied my story and said Paulette and Charlie were not married.

Chatter in Hollywood: Is Dr. Lew Morrill carrying a torch for Rhonda Fleming? I'd say he is — and a big one!

I am told that Rhonda and John Payne went to the Bantam Cock for dinner. A little later in walked Dr. Morrill with Sybil Merritt, the girl who was with Robert Taylor last week.

Morrill said to the maitre d', "I hear my ex-girl friend is here." He was told she had just left, and his retort was, "Well, we're finished anyway."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Nicky Hilton not only got in the newspapers after his Mocambo fight, he lost his girl friend, Rosita Moreno. She's told M-G-M she's not going out with him any more.

Reports are that Greta Garbo is ailing and has gone to New York to consult a doctor.

Ginger Rogers is at La Quinta. So far, no Steve Cochran, but the weekend is young.

Phil Regan, Jr., and his bride of a week, Lou Ann McNutt, were received at the White House by President Truman.

Alfalfa, famous as a child star in "Our Gang" comedies, will play the boy friend of Dolores Costello's daughter in "The Great Man."

It pays to be an actor. Richard Todd, who was in "The Hasty Heart," has bought himself a twenty-five room 16th century mansion with swimming pool, in Berkshire, England.

Johnny Mever has been commuting between New York and Washington and is being mysterious about it.

Dennis O'Keefe is another actor who has deserted Hollywood for TV. He is readying a who-dunit show for a weekly program.

That's all tday. See you Monday.

Legion Post To Celebrate Anniversary

Initiation, Dance Are Feature Of Event

Fort Cumberland Post No. 12, American Legion, is making plans for the 32nd anniversary celebration of the organization March 17, according to Commander Albert M. Kerns, Sr.

The post activities committee in charge of arrangements will report on the program for the Legion's birthday at the Tuesday meeting.

The committee is comprised of William P. Claar, chairman; Robert Mackert, T. Raymond Farrell, Philmore Fleming, S. A. Graham, Joseph Challmor, Raymond Seitle, Carl Kimble, Howard Spiker, George Buskey, Norman Lehr, Robert Wilson, Truman Fuller, Ralph Wilson, Edward Fields, William Coble and Thomas Thompson.

The first steps towards organization of the Legion were taken at a caucus in Paris March 15 to 17, 1919. A temporary constitution was adopted, temporary officers elected and a general policy was formulated at a caucus in St. Louis in May, 1919.

Permanent organization was effected and a national constitution and by-laws adopted at the first national convention in Minneapolis, Minn., November 10 to 12, 1919.

The American Legion has changed the eligibility for membership to include honorably discharged veterans of World War II; those who remained in the service after the cessation of hostilities and those honorably discharged veterans in the service since the start of the Korean war on July 25, 1950.

Fort Cumberland Post's observance of the anniversary will be held on Saturday, March 17, with an initiation of new members, a floor show and a dance.

Bus Drivers, Union To Discuss Contract

The negotiating committee of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union, AFL, will meet with officials of the Cumberland Transit Lines today relative to a new contract.

James H. Morrison, president of the union, said the meeting will be held at 10 a. m. in the office of the company.

A guaranteed annual wage of $3,700 offered by the firm a week ago was rejected by the union. The union's contract with the company expires next Wednesday at midnight and Morrison said the membership has instructed the negotiating committee, following a vote, that there will be no extension of the pact.

Morrison declared that a general membership meeting of the union will be held Tuesday at 2 a. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall to discuss the action taken at todays session.

Color Film Tonight

A color movie film based on Science and the Bible will be shown at the meeting of Tri-State Youth for Christ today at 8 p. m. in the Salvation Army Citadel.

Wood's Contract To Be Extended

The Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Corporation is making plans to extend the contract of Richardson Wood, New York industrial promotion consultant for one year.

Harold W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said Wood and the corporation have agreed on general terms.

Contents of the contract will not be divulged until a formal agreement is signed, Smith added.

The contract will be between the corporation and Wood, and not between the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee as in the six-month pact just ended.

The committee was appointed by the Mayor and Council and the County Commissioners to handle under the requirements of law, the $10,000 paid to Wood for the six-month term.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor and Council, the County Commissioners and the Industrial Promotion Corporation will be held March 2 at 7:30 p. m. in the Mayor's office, City Hall, to discuss the employment of Wood.

City Will Retain DST This Summer

Under proposed Senate Bill 145, Cumberland's controversial Daylight Savings Time question will go to the voters in the 1952 general election.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that the Maryland Municipal League sent him a copy of the measure which provides that the DST ordinance will remain on the ordinance list here but must appear on the ballot in 1952.

That means, the Mayor said, the city will have fast time again this summer.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

In advising people the best way to help them?

Answer: Not if they have really serious problems, since no one can solve them for another. The last few years have seen the development of "non-directive psychotherapy," in which counsellors in colleges and elsewhere allow people to talk out their difficulties but give no advice beyond what helps them to understand themselves. In a report of 32 cases treated by this method, Drs. Emory L. Cowen and Arthur W. Combs of Syracuse University report satisfactory complete results in 80%, and not wholly satisfactory progress in another 20%. Counsellors, however, should have professional training.

Should you keep a feeble-minded child at home?

Answer: Not if you have other children, for the reason that the harm done to them will more than outweigh the good you can do for the child whose helplessness makes so strong a claim on your sympathies. A really defective child will get but little more from Any legislation and curiosity the same?

Answer: I do not think so, although the distinction may be somewhat arbitrary. As I see it, an inquisitive person wishes to know other people's private affairs in order to pass judgment on them, if not to interfere in them, while one who is merely curious is interested in the events of your life only as facts, as he would be in the working of an automobile engine. The "snooper" is looking for a chance to feel superior to you, while the curious other layman helps the artist to see more from you, and tries to understand your motives rather than criticize them.

Tydings' "Surprise Statement" Brings Blast From Miss Adkins

SALISBURY, Md.—Miss Bertha Adkins, Republican National Committeewoman from Maryland, yesterday issued the following statement.

"The voters of Maryland will resent the reflection upon their intelligence in the surprising statement of Millard E. Tydings before a subcommittee of the United States Senate.

"Ex-Senator Tydings now claims he was beaten last November by last-minute campaign literature. This statement contrasts strangely with the interview he gave to the United States News and World Report immediately following the election. Then he attributed his defeat to a factional fight within the Democrat party in Maryland.

Tydings Not Preferred

"Does Mr. Tydings feel compelled to blame his defeat on somebody—anybody—rather than himself? Has it ever occurred to him that Maryland voters, to the tune of a 42,111 plurality, preferred Senator John Marshall Butler?

"Let Mr. Tydings honestly face the facts. The election reflected the desire of Maryland citizens for a change. Our Republican Governor, Theodore R. McKeldin, received the biggest vote given any gubernatorial candidate—Democrat or Republican—in our state's history. Representative Glenn Beall's plurality of 27,179 was the largest he ever received. Representative Edward T. Miller's majority was 8,910 compared to 2,600 in 1948. General James P. Devereux carried the Second District by 3,000 votes against a Democrat plurality of 22,922 in 1948.

"The people of Maryland are intelligent, independent voters who want good government—and they vote their convictions. If the election for Senator were held tomorrow, I am convinced the plurality of the Republican candidate would be even larger than Senator Butler's because of the obviously inept and scandal-ridden administration of President Truman.

Not Distributed Here

"Mr. Tydings said the pamphlet, 'From the Record', was sent into 500,000 Maryland homes in the last minute of the campaign. I have checked with Republican officials in the counties where Senator Butler received his large majorities. These officials have advised me that they didn't distribute this material nor can they find it was sent in their counties. Here are the counties, and the majorities they gave Senator Butler:

"Montgomery, 5000; Prince George, 3000; Anne Arundel, 4000; Allegany, 4,000; Washington, 4,000; Frederick, 2,000; Baltimore, 5,000; and Wicomico, 300.

"How could the votes have been influenced by something which they never saw?

"Mr. Tydings has been in politics long enough to know that the custom of sending out last minute literature is so well established in Maryland that the voters have become immune to such appeals, whether true or false.

"He should accept his defeat with good grace."

Fort Ashby Girl Elected Potomac State May Queen

Helen Funk Chosen By Student Votes

KEYSER, W. Va. — Miss Helen Funk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Funk, Fort Ashby, was elected May Queen, and John Wiles, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Wiles, Rowlesburg, was named as her escort during annual May Day festivities at Potomac State School, Keyser, according to William Loy, president of the Student Council. The election was conducted by the student body, at which a court of princesses was also named.

Miss Funk is a graduate of Fort Ashby High School and is a general secretarial major while Wiles is a graduate of Rowlesburg and is majoring in journalism.

Elected to court as princesses were Barbara Colabrese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Colabrese, Albert, a graduate of Thomas High School majoring in music; Marlene Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton E. Rhodes, Clarksburg, a graduate of Washington-Irving High School majoring in pre-education; Joan Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus V. Bowers, Hyndman, Pa., a graduate of Hyndman High School and a medical secretarial mirror; and Dorothy Bishoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bishoff, Manheim, a graduate of Rowlesburg High School majoring in home economics.

Also selected as May Day princesses were Edith Awman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Awman, Albright, a graduate of Kingwood High School majoring in general secretarial studies; Shirley Ravenscroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris C. Ravenscroft, Westernport, a graduate of Bruce High School majoring in general secretarial work; Betty Judy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Judy, Keyser, a music major and a graduate of Keyser High School, and Martha Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Cook and Sons office and storage building at 152 North Mechanic Street, Cumberland, recently. The structure will contain an office and an apartment on the second floor with the entire ground floor being given over to storage facilities. Work was begun last fall before freezing weather forced curtailment of activities.

Valentine Day Is Marked By Midlothian Homemakers

FROSTBURG—A Valentine party and reports from various committee chairmen featured the February meeting of the Midlothian Homemakers Club, held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Bertha Coleman, with Mrs. Ursula Robertson, co-hostess, and Mrs. Blaine Willetts, president, presiding.

The monthly roll call was answered by members giving a good health hint and special health hints read by Mrs. Robert Lancaster.

Following the adoption of a new set of by-laws, submitted by Mrs. Frank Willetts, parliamentarian, the group voted a donation to the Red Cross drive and made plans for a white elephant sale.

A plan submitted by Mrs. Thomas Simmons for organizing a Boys 4-H Club in Midlothian and a report from Mrs. Blaine Willetts on the progress of the Girls 4-H Club were received from Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Ursula Robertson was appointed delegates to the next meeting of the Girls 4-H Club.

Articles on the English sparrow and the "Junco," the birds of the month for February and January, was read by Mrs. Henry S. Barnes, art chairman, four rugs made by Mrs. Bessie Chapman, two children's dresses made by Mrs. Frank Willetts, and a decorated stand for the Valentine party by Mrs. Ursula Robertson.

The oldest Valentine displayed were two 1911 cards by Mrs. Anthony Ritchie, Sr., one of 1916 by Mrs. Thomas Simmons and one of 1925 by Mrs. Herman Winters.

The meeting closed with refreshments and candlelight service. Mrs. Elizabeth Williams was a guest.

The next meeting will be held March 15 at the home of Mrs. Matthew Willetts, with Mrs. Frank Willetts co-hostess.

A social will be held in the Junior Order Hall at 8 p. m. Saturday.

Sister Jeanette is reported improving at Allegany Hospital where she is a patient.

Reviewing the inflationary dangers of stepped-up production, Leon Keyserling, the President's chief economic adviser, observed: "Now you come to the question how do you pay the people for the longer hours (of work). Let's suppose you pay them at the regular rate. You still have through the process of working longer hours an increase in your total wage earnings. So you get that inflationary adding of billions of dollars to the wage stream even if you don't pay time and a half."

"Take it away in taxes," blurted Taft.

"It is a question of how far to go in taxes," cautioned Keyserling, who had already urged a stiff tax program.

High Farm Prices

Taft also complained about high farm prices.

"What can we do about farm prices?" he demanded. "I saw a statement in the paper this morning to the effect that corn, wheat and most of the things are still below parity. I wondered why."

"Well, parity is the ratio to the cost of what the farmer must buy," explained Chairman Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, "and so, when your industrial prices rise, your parity necessarily must rise."

"I have always regarded parity as a fair picture of what the farmer ought to get compared to other prices, but have we got parity too high?" insisted Taft.

"The farm support program, as I understand it, was basically an effort to get for the farm population a larger share of the national income than they would get under automatic operation of the market. Whether right or wrong, that is what it was. I happen to think it was right," explained Keyserling. "Now the interesting thing is that everybody starts looking at the prices rather than the income. When you look at it on the farm income side, you are faced with the problem that—while it is true you have a problem of moving farm prices—we still cannot honestly say that farmers' incomes have gone up."

"Isn't it true that there was a drop in proportion of farm income this year?" asked Alabama's Senator John Sparkman.

"Yes," broke in O'Mahoney. "That is fully set forth in the various tables here."

"On December 15 farmers were receiving 108 per cent parity on the average. So there has been a steady increase this year from 95 per cent of parity to 108 per cent," Taft argued.

"Yes, but that 108 per cent has been reached by a relatively few farm products that have gone far beyond parity," shot back Sparkman. "We might use the same illustration in the industrial field. We don't hesitate to let the lower groups raise their income to catch up with the cost of living. I take it there will be no great protest against the 20 per cent wage increase in coal. I am just guessing . . ."

"Yes, just guessing," snapped Taft. Then he added: "I would say that under present prices, farmers are certainly prosperous. I have been through every rural county in Ohio this year. They are well off. There is no question about that."

Veterans' Dividends

Mr. Republican also got his dander up over passing out G. I. insurance dividends to the veterans.

"The doubtful thing is this business of passing out cash dividends in such large amounts which is now proposed for the second time," objected Taft. "I never have understood that policy. It seems to me at best it should have been funded in some way so as to increase the benefit by some other thing than cash. We passed over two billion dollars in cash here just at the time before the Korean War helped start the inflation. I never understood the principle under which it was done. We were never asked about it."

Thus, at one meeting, Taft managed to tangle with labor, farmers and veterans. Maybe he's too honest to run for President.

Work Continues On Contractor's Office Building

A two story cinder block and steel building is under construction at 152 North Mechanic Street, Cumberland which will serve as offices and storage space for John S. Cook and Sons Contracting Company.

The 35 by 50 foot structure was designed by Richard T. Cook, member of the firm. Work was begun late last fall but the sub-freezing weather forced alteration of plans, according to John S. Cook, president of the company. Cook said, however, that if the present weather continues he will be ready to move into the new quarters about May 1.

The ground floor will be utilized as storage space for the company and a five room apartment will occupy the west end of the second story. The business office will overlook Mechanic Street.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

The Wonder Of Electronics

CONCEIVABLY the greatest contribution radio ever made to society was the sponsored marriage. In the old days, it was the relatives and friends who kicked in the pots, the bedroom lamp and the kitchen clock. Then the sponsor came along and provided all that and more. Sponsored matrimony, as practiced on "Bride and Groom" and other radio programs, was actually a more sensible deal all around since the gifts were generally all-electric (AC or DC), lifetime-guaranteed, earthquake-resistant and stainless. Aunt Emma never kicked in with stuff like that.

John Crosby

No one has ever proved that a sponsored marriage lasts any longer than the old-fashioned, or sustaining-type marriage, but the gifts last forever. Sponsored matrimony, you'll be happy to learn, has been taken over and elaborated on in television, too. Just the other day on the TV version of "Bride and Groom," Samuel Jamieson of Granger, Ind., and Myrtle Thomey, of Laredo, Tex., were married after a courtship conducted over 1,500 miles by shortwave radio. After the ceremony, Mrs. Jamieson happily summed up the new order of things with the statement: "We owe a great deal to amateur radio and good operating conditions."

That's going to be the rub in the new order of courtship—operating conditions. How's a girl to know whether that is true love in his short-wave voice? Or just an ionic disturbance in the upper stratosphere? How's he to know whether she, so young and lovely in the living room, will survive the pitiless glare of the TV cameras? The all-electronic marriage brings in a lot of handsome loot. But you'd better consult a few experts — a couple of engineers, a makeup man, a good TV director—before plunging into something you may live to regret.

• — • — •

The electronic age has had a baleful effect on the activities of animals, too. On "Date in Manhattan" a chimpanzee named Bonzo expressed a vehement opinion on this newest branch of show business by biting the mistress of ceremonies, Miss Arlene Francis, so severely in the third finger that she sat down hard while the chimp's trainer pulled the beast away. Miss Francis, a trouper, bounced right up again and went straight into a plug for Bulova watches, a shining example of that old show business adage: The commercial must go on.

In East Orange, N. J., a four-month-old Siamese cat was dozing by the TV set when her owner, Mrs. Norman Wolfson, snapped the set on and brought a pack of prize terriers from the Westminster Kennel Club show right into the living room. It was an invasion of privacy no Siamese will put up with, though humans will. The cat leaped at the

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

M C U K M A U M C U K, B P L H T P F W L E P U I X R K F M A W U B—D L R K L R.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: SO VIOLENCE PROCEEDED, AND OPPRESSION AND SWORD-LAW—MILTON.

County Orders A-Bomb Film

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday ordered the purchase of a 16mm sound film entitled "You Can Beat the A-Bomb" to be used in educating the residents of the county with reference to the bomb and its effect.

William G. Barger, director of Civil Defense for the county, wrote to the board asking that the film be purchased. It will cost $80 and will be shown at meetings of Parent-Teacher Associations, schools, clubs and fraternal groups.

Barger pointed out the film has been endorsed by top national officials of the Civil Defense program and will aid residents in protecting themselves in the event of an attack.

Members of the board also received an inventory compiled of all equipment owned by the county in offices at the Court House and Union Street County building.

Total value of the equipment is listed at $22,881.40. Members of the board had the inventory made in order to determine the amount of insurance to be carried to protect the county in case of fire or other damage.

No Fatal Accidents In Area Last Month

No fatal accidents were reported for January in Allegany and Garrett counties in a statistical report issued yesterday by Maryland State Police.

Nine persons were hurt in five personal injury mishaps, and one pedestrian was injured in the county. There were ten property damage mishaps and a total of 15 accidents.

Five accidents in Garrett county last month resulted in the injury to one person. Four property damage mishaps were reported.

Two Drivers Are Hurt In Crashes

Two drivers, both the sole occupants of their cars, were injured in two accidents Thursday night when they crashed against a tree and a power pole.

The most seriously injured, Herman S. Golunbeck, 47, of 208 South Water Street, Keyser, W. Va., is in Allegany Hospital suffering with a fractured skull, a jaw fractured in three places, and a broken leg. His condition was reported fair yesterday.

State Police said the car he was driving went out of control at 12:15 a. m. yesterday as he was two miles from Cresaptown on the Winchester Road.

The 1950 model machine careened across the road and struck a large tree. The auto was badly damaged, police said.

Police said Golunbeck's head went through the windshield, causing him to suffer many facial lacerations.

In another accident, the car operated by William Lockard, 36, of Corriganville, hit a power pole on Wellersburg Road.

The pole was moved and the front of the car damaged. Authorities at Memorial Hospital did not divulge the extent of his injuries, but did say that his condition was "satisfactory."

Baering Down On The News

That fellow Hank Kaiser is liable to upset our national economy. Hank borrows money from the government. And pays it back.

They're not acclimated to that kind of financing down in Washington. The secretary of giveaways would hate to be known as an Indian giver. Especially to the Indians.

Hank can borrow $100,000,000 on his nod. He was the first fellow to build a car that was a sun porch on wheels.

When he paid back his first big loan of $274,000,000 it took the government bookkeeper by surprise. He had to send out for a bottle of black ink.

Commissioners Hear Road Complaints

Road complaints took up most of yesterday morning's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Gilbert E. Johnson requested repairs to Ohr Street in Bowman's Addition. A group of residents of Valley View Drive in Cresaptown asked that something be done about a steep hill in front of their properties. The board arranged to meet with the group March 2 to inspect the situation.

Zones Hall asked that repairs be made to the old Wilson Road near Flintstone. A petition was received from 24 residents of 21st Lane in McCoole asking for repairs to the road.

Communists Elect Meyers Chairman

George A. Meyers, 39, formerly of Lonaconing, is the new chairman of the Communist Party of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Meyers, who has been labor secretary, succeeds Philip Frankfeld, party chairman for the past five years, who has shifted to Cleveland.

Meyers is a native of Western Maryland and quit a career as a labor leader to turn Communist. He is apparently the fifth man to head the organization since its organization in 1934.

Meyers becomes manager of the Free State Book Shop, the functioning title of the party offices, and also Baltimore correspondent for the Daily Worker, the party paper.

Stock Market Keeps Ahead Despite Late Selling Flurry

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP) — The stock market managed to keep ahead today despite a last minute flurry of selling.

Aircrafts were the feature of the session with a show of strength that buoyed the list for almost the entire day.

Of importance to the market was the fact that trading diminished to the smallest volume in nearly six months. It came to 1,540,000 shares. That's the lowest since last Sept. 7 when 1,340,000 shares changed hands.

Con-Vultee led its own group upward and closed up 1½ at 20⅛. It was the second most active issue in the list. Others were cut back at the last minute from their much wider earlier gains. Boeing ended up ⅝ to 52⅛, Douglas up ½ at 106, and United Aircraft off ⅛ at 38⅛.

Many others in the list suffered in the late selling. With the exception of the rails, losses were held to less than a point.

Steels, motors, radio-television, and utilities made the best showing.

Equitable Office Building was the most active issue up ⅜ at 7¾.

American Telephone was eighth most active, not usual for so high priced an issue, closing up ⅝ at 155½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 10 cents to $95.40. The industrial component was unchanged, rails lost 50 cents, and utilities rose 50 cents.

The small total of 1,540,000 shares traded compared with 2,670,000 shares Wednesday.

One last note, this one from the Old Southland: Tom Fesperman reports in "The Charlotte (N.C.) News" that a six-year-old citizen named Chuck Barton had his parents mighty worried when he started talking like a Yankee from Perth Amboy. It developed he'd picked up the dreadful accent straight off the coaxial cable.

It's quite a problem all right, but we're working on it. My spies tell me RCA is developing a new-type coaxial cable which will convert Arthur Godfrey's accent into pure undistilled Dixie the second it passes the Mason-Dixon line. Howdy Doody will sound as if he were raised on hominy grits and corn liquor. As for Milton Berle, this new cable will not only make him sound like Al Jolson but also look like Larry Parks.

Well, just one more then. Laughs Unlimited, which peddles jokes to comics and disc jockeys and such people, has issued a new price list. A comedy monologue on Dr. Kinsey will cost you $1. But if you want to get funny about "television in the home," it'll set you back $2.

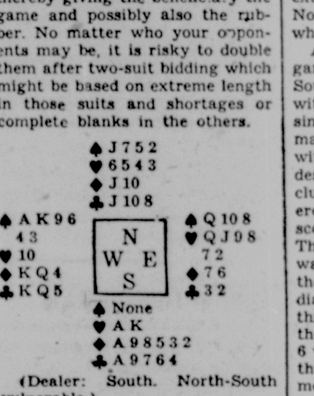
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HOLD THEM CHEAP

ONE OF the worst mistakes a bridge player can make is the very one which the Reds are now making — underrating an opponent. Some of the choicest gifts possible in the game of contract come from doubling of a less than game contract which gets made, thereby giving the beneficiary the game and possibly also the rubber. No matter who your opponents may be, it is risky to double them after two-suit bidding which might be based on extreme length in those suits and shortages or complete blanks in the others.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
3 ♣	Dbl

West rued the moment he made that business double. For the action, he reckoned too quickly that his opportunity was perfect. He had great strength in spades, diamonds and clubs, and his partner had bid the remaining suit, hearts. If he had decided to count twenty before taking such action, he might have reflected that South must have terrific distribution for that bidding when his opponents had such honors. South was sure to have a couple of truly long suits and extreme shortage in the majors, and an opportunity was extended through the bidding for North to choose the suit with which he had the better fit.

An extra trick, finishing the game and rubber, was scored by South. He won the heart 10 lead with the A. Reading the lead as a singleton, he led the heart K to make West ruff, which he did with the club 5. The spade K was despatched and ruffed with the club 4. Now the club A smothered the Q, the diamond A was scored and the 2 led to the Q. The club K won and the spade A was ruffed by the club 6. Now the club J was used to ruff the diamond 3, establishing the last three cards of the suit. To reach them South ruffed dummy's heart 6 with the club 9, then completed the hand with his three good diamonds.

West will not soon double again without thinking a bit about extreme distribution.

Your Weekend Question

Under what circumstances should a No Trump game declarer, who has in the dummy five cards of a suit headed by the K-J-10, finesse the J toward his own A-6?

Faith In God Can Save U. S. GOP Is Told

Iowa Rep. Keynotes Lincoln Day Dinner

"What we need in the United States today is faith in God, hard work and a return to the fundamental principles of Americanism."

That was the keynote of the 55-minute speech last night by Rep. Paul Cunningham, of Des Moines, Iowa, principal speaker last night at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner of the Republican Party of Allegany county. Some 250 GOP stalwarts attended the annual get-together held in the Centre Street Methodist Church Recreation Hall.

"The Republican Party today has the challenge to save America," Rep. Cunningham emphasized. "We need to do a better job of selling true Americanism than other people are doing of selling false philosophies to the American people.

"Abraham Lincoln, the man whose memory we honor tonight, in his day realized that secession of a part of the United States would have destroyed our form of government. Lincoln faced the challenge to save America in his day and we must do it today. There is no other party today that can save America. The Democratic Party has been captured by the New Dealers, the New Dealers have been captured by the Fair Dealers, the Fair Dealers have been captured by the Socialists and the Communists have captured the Socialists."

People Are Masters

In his speech Rep. Cunningham said that through the centuries there have been only two types of government despite all of the various names that have been given to governments. Under one type, as typified today by Communist Russia, the government is the master and the people are the servants. Under the American system, as laid down in the Constitution, the government is the servant and the people are the masters.

Cunningham stressed that the Constitution established three separate branches, the law makers, the administrators and law enforcers and the judiciary. A bi-cameral legislature provided further checks because the cooling off process has served as a great safety valve for liberties, the speaker added.

The Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, has served as guarantee of those liberties, he told his attentive audience.

Cunningham was introduced by Rep. J. Glenn Beall of this district. Beall emphasized in his brief introductory remarks that the Iowa Congressman has been a big help to the people of Western Maryland. He said Cunningham was chairman of a sub-committee of the House Public Works Committee which prepared and pushed through the committee and Congress the legislation which provided both for the Savage River Dam and the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

Earl E. Manges, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee for Allegany county, served as toastmaster.

GOP Officials Attend

Manges introduced a number of prominent Republicans who attended last night's affair. He began with the other members of the State Central Committee. Among these were Edgar M. Lewis, vice-chairman; James Park, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Elias; Jeremiah T. Defibaugh and D. Jerome Wilson. Two other members, Victor M. Hebb and Marshall Van Meter were absent.

Also presented were Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Delegate

Principals At Allegany County Lincoln Day Dinner

These were some of the principals at last night's Lincoln Day Dinner for Allegany County Republicans, held in the Centre Street Methodist Church Recreation Hall. At the speakers' table were, left to right, Mrs. J. Glenn Beall; Congressman Paul Cunningham, Des Moines, Iowa, the principal speaker; Earl E. Manges, chairman of the Allegany County Republican State Central Committee, who served as toastmaster; Congressman J. Glenn Beall, who introduced the speaker, and Mrs. Thomas Elias, Frostburg.

$1,112 Awarded Driver In Suit Against Fireman

Action Results From South End Crash

Verdicts totaling $1,112.20 were returned yesterday afternoon against Lt. Francis J. Wallace, 43 New Hampshire Avenue, a city fierman, by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury which deliberated about 45 minutes.

Herman M. Meekins, 439 Pine Avenue, had filed two suits against the Mayor and City Council and Lt. Wallace for a total of $3,000 damages as a result of a collision between his automobile and a South End fire truck which Lt. Wallace was driving to a fire. The collision occurred January 3, 1950, at Virginia Avenue and Second Street.

The truck crashed into the window of the Cumberland Electric Company, Inc., 137 Virginia Avenue.

Associate Judge George Henderson dismissed the suits yesterday insofar as they pertained to the Mayor and City Council. He acted on a demurrer filed by City Attorney W. Earle Cobey.

Judge Henderson ruled that the Mayor and City Council could not be sued in this case because Meekins did not comply with a city ordinance which requires that persons having claims against the city must file notice of the claim within 30 days after the occurrence.

Attorney Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., who represented Meekins, presented four witnesses. Besides the plaintiff they were John Nisbet, North Cedar Street; Donald C. True, Grand Avenue, and Ronald McDonald, Arch Street. All said they did not hear a siren or any other sound of the approaching fire truck before the crash.

Defense witnesses besides Wallace included Edgar L. Bucy, Calvin Wilt and Ralph Mahaney, three other firemen who were on the apparatus with him. In all, Defense Attorneys Thomas B. Finan and John P. Mackey presented eight witnesses.

Finally, in rebuttal, the plaintiff's attorneys sent Detective Thomas J. See and Deputy Sheriff Edgar M. Lewis to the stand. They testified concerning visability as they observed it at noon yesterday at Virginia Avenue and Second Street when they were taken there by Ryan.

Old Will Filed In Court Here

Two wills, including one concerning the will of a Borden Shaft woman who died more than seven years ago, were admitted to probate in Orphans Court yesterday.

The will of the long-dead woman was written on a single sheet of stationery. It was the will of Mrs. Agnes McGregor, who died January 7, 1944. It left all of her estate to her daughter, Mrs. Helen McGregor Smith, who was her only survivor.

Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart said that Mrs. Smith had the will in her possession ever since her mother's death but was unaware that she should have it probated. Mrs. McGregor's will was dated May 8, 1943. Mrs. Smith was named executrix.

Charles Grant Davidson 79-year old retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad flagman, 609 Quebec Avenue, who died December 30, stipulated in his will, also admitted to probate yesterday, that his two daughters, Mrs. Grace D. Bartek, 606 Montreal Avenue, and Mrs. Thelma D. Manning, of the Quebec Avenue address, should be the executices.

The will provided $1 each for his four sons and divided the rest of his property, including the Quebec Avenue property, equally between the two daughters.

Births Announced

Allegany Hospital anounces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wallace, 127 West Oldtown Road, a son, yesterday morning.

Memorial Hospital announces the following births:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hensel, LaVale, a son yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kunis, 237 Elder Street, a son, yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd B. Ashenfelter, Wiley Ford, W. Va., a son, yesterday morning.

Speaker Recalls Lincoln's Aid To Confederate Friend

A little-known incident of how Abraham Lincoln, during the Civil War, performed a friendly act for Alexander H. Stephens, vice-president of the Confederacy, while the North and the South were still at war was related last night by Rep Paul Cunningham, Iowa Republican, speaking at the annual Lincoln Day dinner here last night.

Cunningham said that during the Mexican War Lincoln and Stephens became friends as they both were members of the United States Congress.

In early 1865, just before the end of the war, an attempt to end hostilities was made when several representatives of the North and the South met on a gunboat at Hampton Roads, Virginia.

Although the meeting ended fruitlessly, Lincoln asked his friend Stephens if he could do any favor for him. Lincoln's political enemy but personal friend asked if the President could find the whereabouts of Stephens' nephew, who had not been heard from since 1861 but was believed to be a prisoner of war.

A few days later, Stephens' nephew was pardoned and released from a Federal prison in Lake Erie. He was brought to Washington and there Lincoln allowed the young Confederate to roam the city for four days renewing acquaintances with friends there. Later, the young man was returned safely to the Confederate lines.

Cunningham said the incident was told him several years ago by George A. Dondero, a Republican Congressman from Michigan. He said that Dondero was recognized as a leading authority on Lincoln.

The Iowan added that Dondero's own life was a typical American success story. He said that the Michigan Congressman was the son of Italian immigrants and as a teen-aged boy cleaned saloon spittoons to earn money to further his education.

Radio Club Aids Garrett Defense

The Mountain Radio Club last night offered its services for the Civil Defense of Garrett County.

The action was taken after John S. Elliott, Grantsville, Garrett County Civil Defense director, asked for information concerning amateur radio operators of that county.

He asked that all amateur or commercial operators of the Garrett County section volunteer their services in the work.

The radio club is already busy organizing its facilities for Civil Defense work in Allegany County.

The club, with an active membership of 25, includes 20 licensed operators. Fourteen of the radio hams have cars and two of them own mobile transmitters.

The club is awaiting word from the American Amateur Radio League on the frequency to be assigned for Civil Defense work.

During World War II, the two meter band was used.

Two pictures, "Realm of the Wild" and "Radio Antennas", were shown by Brook Bodkin, of the State Forestry Department.

Area Men Join Army, Air Force

Five men from the Tri-State area have enlisted in the U. S. Army and Air Force at Martinsburg, W. Va., according to M/Sgt. Clarence Biehn, local recruiter.

In the army for three years are James S. Cole, 23, former serviceman with the Corps of Engineers, Frostburg; John H. Snyder, Jr., 27, Ridgeley, W. Va.; and William A. Ruckman, 20, Wiley Ford, W. Va.

Enlisted in the Air Force for four years were Charles S. Clites, 21, Ridgeley, W. Va., and James T. Johnson, 19, of 206 Washington Street.

Army enlistees have been sent to Fort George G. Meade, and those entering the Air Force are enroute to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

Joins Fraternity

Robert Keefe, this city, a student at the University of Richmond, has been initiated into Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity. Keefe, a freshman in Richmond College, is the son of Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Keefe, 522 Beall Street.

Paper Collection Set

Waste paper will be collected on all streets north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue Monday morning. Bundles should be placed on curbs before 9 a. m.

9 Pickets Held For Jury Action

Nine pickets arrested February 12 for conspiracy action under the Red Man Act in the Preston County coal fields are being held for the grand jury which meets March 13. They were given a preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon at the office of Magistrate F. W. Pritt in Kingwood.

Eleven pickets had been arrested on that day but one of them was under age and was turned over to juvenile court authorities. John Rightman was released because of not being identified as taking part in the stoning of two Kray Coal Company buses in which two drivers were injured.

About 35 carloads of pickets were out yesterday morning in the Preston County mines area but Sheriff J. H. Benson said no violence or attempts at violence occurred. State police were on hand to quell any possible disorder.

Three separate hearings will be held on Monday. John Hartman and Arnold Jennings will be tried under provisions of the Red Man Act on charges of assaulting Clyde Lee last Sunday as he returned from a barn after watering ponies used in mine operations of the Foreman mine located on Route 26 south of Kingwood.

Four men arrested for strewing nails and tacks on the highway used by miners going to work near Tunnelton will also be given a hearing.

The final hearing involves 21 pickets who allegedly stoned a bus carrying non-union workers to a Kray Coal Company mine near Howesville, W. Va., Wednesday.

Thus far 70 pickets have been arrested in the Preston County flare-up, Sheriff Benson said last night.

Sherman The Turtle Visits Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 22 (AP)—Sherman the turtle, who raised more havoc on Savage Mountain with his hot tail than the general did in Georgia, visited the legislature today.

However, Sherman wasn't in his shell. He hadn't been for some time.

Sherman was caught two years ago spreading a fire all along the eastern slope of the Allegany County mountain. But he wasn't doing it intentionally.

Someone had strung a wire through his shell and tied an oil-soaked rag to it. A touch of a match and Sherman broke a speed record.

When state foresters caught up with him, Sherman had doused himself in a pool after setting a string of fires.

The foresters became fond of Sherman but finally separated him from his shell.

Sherman's exterior was the prize exhibit before a Senate Finance hearing of the Department of State Forests and Parks budget.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham said he had many more examples of "weapons" used by fire-setters, among them catapult devices which sling fires all around.

"But we didn't dare bring them in," he said.

"The Army has told us to withhold all information. They're afraid saboteurs might use them in a war."

Railroad Group Opposes City's Taxing Program

Urging the abolition of the Smoke Engineer's Department and additional economies by the city in a recent letter to the Mayor and City Council, the Baltimore and Ohio Local Federation No. 7 went on record as being opposed to the city's efforts to gain increased taxing powers.

Taking cognizance of the current economic situation of the present governing body, the letter, addressed to City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, said the Federation believes "remarks of City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson at a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting to be a feeler sent out for the sole purpose of judging the reaction of our citizens."

The organization unalterably opposed "any increase in any taxation which may be under consideration at the present time."

Believing that additional economies could be made by the Mayor and Council so "present income of the city would be sufficient" the B&O federation urged abolition of the position of Smoke Engineer as an "ideal means of saving us thousands of dollars per year."

The letter was signed by E. W. Valentine, Arch Street, secretary of the federation.

Bowling Green May Get Fire Hydrants, Lights

Assembly Approval Sought By Residents

A proposal for the installation of fire hydrants and a street lighting system in Bowling Green has been formulated and will be sent to the Maryland Assembly for consideration.

A group of 15 Bowling Green residents held an open meeting at the Volunteer Fire Hall in Bowling Green Thursday night to explain the plan to property owners and residents of the community.

George B. Hartman, chairman f the temporary committee said last night the purpose of the meeting was to discuss measures of establishing a special taxing area in the Bowling Green section.

This would permit the installation of fire hydrants on the Cumberland 20 inch water main which runs through the area along Route 220 and Cresap Drive from Cumberland to the Celanese plant. A street lighting system is also being considered.

Bill Is Prepared

The addition of the hydrants would allow more protection against fires in the Bowling Green section Harman said.

Recently a rough draft of a bill to establish boundaries and apply a tax fate adequate to defray the expense of the hydrants and line installation was sent to the General Assembly. Also included in the draft was data on the maintenance of both facilities after the initial costs are absorbed.

At the meeting, various phases of the program were discussed. J. Frederick Walton, Allegany County assessor gave the amount of assesable property in the area. James B. Gerderman spoke on the cost of the hydrants and the lines, and S. S. Smith talked on the location, style and cost of lights for the community.

E. L. Ewald, manager of the Potomac Edison Company office at Cumberland, gave a brief talk on installation of lights in Bowling Green.

Get Cost Estimates

After minor changes were made in the original draft sent back by the County delegation in Annapolis, Calvin Ayers made a motion to return the copy to the Allegany County Delegation for presentation in the General Assembly. A unanimous vote of the 84 citizens attending the meeting followed.

J. Milton Dick aided the group in formulating the proposal, Harman said.

On Monday night, R. G. Cover and S. S. Smith met with the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland. They discussed the plan with the city officials and secured estimates of cost of hydrants and installation of additional pipe lines as well as rental cost after installation.

Pollution Group May Undertake "Smog" Control

$100,000 Plan Now Pending At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 23 (AP) — The State Water Pollution Control Commission is willing to handle a proposed $100,000 a year program for the study and control of "smog" conditions which have plagued industrial areas of Maryland for many years.

And the State Department of Health is anxious to administer the program.

As of now, legislation pending in the General Assembly spells out that the $100,000 a year would go to the State Department of Health, which, in turn, would split the appripriation with the Baltimore City Health Department.

But sentiment is developing in the Senate Finance Committee to amend the bill to delegate the study to the Water Pollution Control Commission.

Paul McKee, executive secretary of the commission, appeared before the finance committee last night.

Finance Chairman Goldstein D-Calvert) reported that McKee told the committee that the same industries that pollute the water belch the fumes from their factory smokestacks that help create smog.

Goldstein said that McKee reported today that the commission members were polled individually and five of the six reached are willing to undertake the study.

The only commission member opposed to the idea, Senator Goldstein said, is Dr. Robert H. Riley, who happens to be director of the State Health Department.

Wants Bonds Lumped

A bill specifying that all bond issues be lumped together in one of the governor's supplementary appropriation bills was introduced in the House of Delegates by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth Jr., of Westernport.

The legislature now may enact independent loan measures, such as one currently debated to float $5,000,000 in bonds for a state office building near Annapolis.

Such a bill would be regarded as "the initial proposal for disbursement" under Whitworth's measure. No money could be spent unless the item were adopted in a regular appropriations bill.

Local Hearings Set

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany county House delegation, said that hearings have been set for next week on several measures important to the City of Cumberland.

At 3 p. m. Wednesday the Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing on the home rule bills for Cumberland.

The county delegates will then meet at 7:30 p. m. the same day to hear proponents and opponents to three bills pertaining to the Cumberland Police and Fire Departments. These include proposed increase in the pay of the police and firemen.

The delegates will also meet with W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, on several measures in which the City of Cumberland is interested. This session is scheduled for 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Frostburg Seeks $100,000

House Bill 396 introduced by the Allegany county delegation would authorize the Mayor and councilmen of Frostburg to borrow up to $100,000 for town improvements. The bill was referred to the delegation.

The Mayor and Council, according to City Clerk Alex G. Close, of Frostburg, plan to use $50,000 for water department improvements, and $25,000 each for the street department and sewage disposal.

Service Officers Aid State Veterans

The Maryland Veterans Commission reported benefits totaling $74,048.48 were secured for Maryland veterans and their dependents during January.

The benefits included $16,313,28 for back pay, $45,935.20 for pensions $10,000 in insurance and $1,800 in burial allowances.

Sun And Brisk Winds Helping Improve Streets

The bright sun and brisk winds of the past few days have helped the city engineering department in their efforts to make the city's unpaved streets and alleys passable for traffic, Martin Corrigan, street superintendent, said last night.

When the recent thaw hit Cumberland the department was beseiged by numerous complaints from citizens that muddy conditions of the streets made it impossible to move cars over them. The city was forced to block off one street because of its impassable condition.

If the weather remains the same and no additional rainfall impedes the drying of the passageways, Corrigan noted, the thoroughfares should be in first class shape by the early part of next week.

B & O Converting Local Shops For Diesels

$500,000 Program Is Underway Here

Nearly one-half million dollars is being spent in Cumberland to provide for the servicing and maintenance of Diesel locomotives at the local Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops, Chester T. Williams, division superintendent said last night.

Williams said approximately one-third of the present shop facilities are being converted by the George F. Hazelwood Company. Completion of the work is expected by March 15.

The changeover will provide Diesel shops, fueling stations, drop pits and other maintenance facilities for the Diesel type locomotive.

This is part of a program in which $3,700,000 has been spent by the railroad to provide for servicing and maintenance of its rapidly-expanding fleet of Diesel locomotives.

Baltimore and Ohio President R. B. White estimated that the road will be able to handle sixty percent of its normal freight traffic load and more than half of its passenger train miles with this Diesel power. All of its through passenger trains already are Diesel powered, he added.

Draft Board 29 To Send Six Men

A call has been received for six inductees from draft board 29, P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of local draft boards, announced yesterday.

The men, to be inducted at Martinsburg, W. Va., March 5, are Olin Calvin Moody, RFD No. 6, Homewood Addition; John Russell Grabenstein, Jr., RFD No. 5, Winchester Road; Earl Kenneth Potts, RFD No. 6, Roberts Place; Albert Joseph Lawler, 214 Fayette Street; Charles Ernest Easton, formerly of RFD No. 6, now living in Riverdale, and Robert Franklin Ogilvie, 524 Fairmont Avenue.

They received physical examinations in December.

Emmanuel Methodist To Hold Conference

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of Emmanuel Methodist Charge will be held Sunday morning immediately following the morning worship service. Congregation members and officers are asked to attend.

Dr. William F. Wright, district superintendent, who will give the morning sermon, will preside.

No meetings are scheduled during the week of February 25 for Emmanuel charge except Sunday morning worship, in deference to the evangelistic services being held in the Centre Street Methodist Church. Dr. Harry Denman, secretary of the Board of Evangelism, will speak.

Union Official Flays Business Hold On Nation

Aldridge Installed As Local 1874 Head

Claiming big business has gained complete control in industry and mobilization during the present crisis, Boyd E. Payton, regional director of Upper South district of Textile Workers Union of America, presided at installation of officers of Local 1874 last night at Frostburg.

"Labor is getting it in the neck," Payton said, and noted that the federal government is contemplating regulations that would outlaw the 40-hour week and the escalator clause and other labor-management contract stipulations gained through collective bargaining.

Insisting wage stabilization should be geared to the cost of living, Payton told his audience prices could be frozen, thus voiding the necessity of labor unions asking the escalator clause in their contracts to hike wages as cost of living rises.

Labor as a whole is concerned with the right of the government to intervene in contract negotiations, Payton said, because if regulations knocking out one part of a labor contract could be passed, then the government, if it chose, could void the entire negotiating system.

Hits High Costs

The national textile union representative noted nothing has been done on price control and cost of living has skyrocketed unbelieveably in the past few months. The government took too long to make a move to control the situation, he thought.

Revealing that organized labor doesn't want everything frozen but wages, Payton said, "We're willing to take our share of sacrifices but big business has gained considerably while labor has fought for an equal basis."

Citing as an example how big business has gained the upper hand, Payton revealed the average worker pays the same tax today as he did during the last war while a man who heads an industry with a salary of $500,000 or over per year now pays some $40,000 less in taxes.

The textile industry is another example the labor representative noted with profits apparently highest in history of textiles this year. The industry is making 30 to 40 per cent profit compared to 18 per cent several years ago. The textile bosses are among the highest paid in American industry while the wages of textile workers are very low comparatively with steel, coal, auto and other industries, he pointed out. Only auto, cigaret and chemical executives draw higher salaries than textile men, Payton said. The union is fighting to put some of the industry's profits into the pockets of the workers instead of into huge executive salaries.

He stated that the main cause the textile union lags behind steel, auto, coal and other industries in wages is because those workers are 95 to 98 per cent organized while the textile employes are only 40 per cent organized.

Blackwell Speaks

James A. Blackwell, southern publicity director of the textile union, also attended the installation and revealed the union's fight with big business caused the president of the textile industry to resign from the Wage Stabilization Board.

Payton, one of 20 national vice presidents of the textile organization, installed the officers of the local union at the Frostburg Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion home.

Officers Installed

Taking office were Playford Aldridge, president; John M. Fatkin, vice president; John G. Thomas, secretary-treasurer; Charles F. Davis, recording secretary; James McGann, David E. Rennie and Walter Hymes, auditing committee; Francis Harvey, warden; Harry Wright, Ira McBride, Ishmiel Adams, Lillian Burch and Richard Jenkins, executive board; Roy T. Crase, Charles E. Jones, James Roby, George P. Harris and John Francis Fatkin, board of trustees.

The local union officers were named to office after a run-off election February 1.

Trades Council Plans Election And Smoker

Officers will be nominated and elected at a meeting of the Allegany Trades Council Tuesday, February 27, at 7:30 p. m.

A smoker will be held following the election of officers of the AFL central labor body here.

Local Resident Hit

James E. Kelley, 70 of 444 Goethe Street was struck last night at 9:45 p. m. on Baltimore Avenue, police said, by a hit and run driver. He was admitted to Allegany Hospital with head injuries and X-rays will be taken.

Police officer Charles W. Thompson investigated the accident.

Weather

There seems to be little prospect of more cold weather soon although yesterday's wind made the day somewhat uncomfortable. Constitution Park weather station reported a high of 40 for the 24 hour period. Lowest reading was 31. The temperature stood at 34 last night about 9 o'clock. The forecast for today is for fair with little change in temperatures.

National Negro Opera Company Chorus

"The Ordering of Moses," a Biblical story told in operatic form, will be presented at Allegany High School auditorium tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock by the cast of the National Negro Opera Company, Inc. The company was organized in 1941 by the current director, Mrs. Mary Caldwell Dawson. The opera company has enjoyed success in various performances through the country and has been lauded by many outstanding critics of the opera. Written by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett, "The Ordering of Moses" portrays the struggle of the Israelities to escape bondage imposed by King Pharoah of Egypt.
